CARLISLE, MARCH 6, 1850.

The following beautiful lines we take from the Home Journal. The speakers are a dying Girl and her Lover. The ardent passion manifested by the youth, suggests to the girl several images under which she supposes that he will delight to personify logue-the Girl suggesting the particular images in ccession, the Lover responding; "Even as a flower?"

"No, fairest, be not to me as a flower?
The uncertain sun calls torth its odorouthweeth;
The sweetest perlume gives the speedlest flooth—
The sport and victim of a summer hour."
Fairest, be not a flower?"

her after death. The stanzes are in the form of a die

"Even as a star?" "No, brightest; be not to me as a star."
"Tis one of millions, and the hurrying cloud off wraps the glittring splendor in its shrot Mora pales its tustre, and it shines after."

"Even as a dove?"
"No, purest; be not to me as a dove.
e spoiler oft breaks in upon its rest,
bbing the downy joys of its soft nest,
And plunging silence through its native grove.
Purest, be not a dove?"

"Even as a rock ?"
"No, my nost faithful, be not as a rock.
mocks the embracing wave, or stands alone
loveless gloom, in dreary wastesunknown, Sonseless alike to fortune's smile or shock.
Changeless, be not a rock !"

"Even us—miyself?"
"My soul's best idol, be but us thyself
righter than star, fairer than flower,
Purer than dove, and in the spirit's power
Bteadler thun-rock
Yas, be thyself, thyself—only thyself!"

HAV'NT THE CHANGE."

BY MRS. MARY GRAHAM.

'It was house cleaning time, and I had an old colored woman at work scrubbing and cleaning paint,

'Polly is going,' said one of my domestics, as the twilight began, to fall. 'Very well.' Tell-her I shall want her tomorrow.7

'I think she would like to have her money for to-day's work,' said the girl. I took out my purse, and found that I had nothing in it less than a three dollar bill.

'How much does she have a day?' 'Six shillings.' 'I hav'nt the change this evening. Tell her I'll pay her for both days to morrow.' The girl left the room, and I thought no more of Polly tor an hour. Tea time had come and passed, when one of my domestics, who was rather communicative in her habits, said to me, "I don't think old Polly liked your not paying hor this evening. 'She must be very unreasonal said I without reflection. 'I sent her word that I had no change. How did she expect that I could nav her?

'Some people are queer, you know,' replied the gul who had made the communication, more for the pleasure of telling is than anything else.

I kept thinking over what the girl had said until other reflections came into my 'I wish I had sent and got a bill changed,' said I, as the idea that Polly might be really in want of the money, intruded itself. 'It would have been very little trouble.'

This was the beginning of a new train of reflections, which did not make me very happy. To avoid a little trouble, I had sent the poor old woman away, after a hard day's labor, without her money. That she stood in need of it was evident from the fact that he had asked for it.

'How very thoughtless in me,' said I, as I dwelt longer and longer on the subject. 'What's the matter?' enquired my hus-and, seeing me look serions 'Nothing to be very much troubled at,' I replied.

'Yet you are troubled.' 'l am; and cannot help it. You will, perhaps, smile at me, but small causes sometimes produce much pain. Old Rolly has been at work all day scrubbing and cleaning When night came, she asked for her wages, and I, instead of taking the trouble to get the money for her, sent her word that I had'ng the change. There was nothing less than a three dollar bill in my purse. I didn't reflect that the poor old weman who had to go out to daily work must need her money as soor as it is earned. I'm very sorry.

My husband did not reply for some time. My words appeared to have made considerable impression on his mind.

'Do you know where Polly lives?' he inquired at length.

'No; but I will ask the gul.' And immediately ringing the bell, I made enquiries as to where Polly lived, but no one knew. "It can't be helped now," said my husband in a tone of regret. But, I would be more thoughtful in future. The poor always have need of their money. Their daily labor rarely does more than supply their daily wants. Mr. Calhoun's Dream

It is well known that Mr. Culhoun is still in ceble health. It is said that recently, having heen engaged in writing on the subject of slavery, he felt weary, and leaning his, head upon the table, he fell asleep. In a dream he thou that he heard three taps at his door, which was opened, and it seemed that some person enter-ed and took a seat beside him, and addressed him in the following language: "Senator from South Carolina, of what are you writing?" Mr. Calhoun pointed to the written paper. When the visit, er examined it, he again addressed him, saying, "Senator of South Carolina, if you continue to urge this subject, you will cause the issolution of the Union." Mr. Calhoun, turn ng towards him, inquired "who are you that hus addresses me?" A pall then appeared to n cast aside, and discovered the features of Washington, who presented him with a box aying: If you will persist in the agitation of crease or morease: this subject, take from this box material to Year. form a chart for the dismemberment of the Union." Mr. Calhoun received the box, and asked the stranger what it contained. He receivd for answer, "examine the box." Upon look ing into it, he found nothing but the bones of en. Hayne. He then seized his pen, designing to continuo writing, when he discovered n his hand a black spot, which he in vain endeavored to remove. But this was a dream -

THE WHALE AND HIS CAPTORS.

The Rev. HENRY T. CHEEVER has published a very interesting volume about the Whale, Whale-fishing, and Whalemen, from which we subjoin an extract, showing the strength and prowess of the great fish, and the imminent peril to which Whalemen are "The most dreadful display of the whale's strength and prowess yet authentically recorded was that made upon the American whale-ship Essex, Capt. Pollard, which sailearnestly to urge her request, turned from ed from Nantucket for the Pacific Ocean in August, 1319. Late in the fall of the same year, when in latitude forty of the South Pacific, a school of sperm whales was disdependent. She could not make known her covered, and three boats were manned and sent in pursuit. The mate's boat was struck pat weeping with her children around her, by one of them, and he was obliged to return to the ship in order to repair the dam-"While he was engaged in that work, a the more comfortable. Anxiously I awaited, sperm whale, judged to be eighty five teet long, broke water about twenty rods from As soon as she came I sent for her, and, han the ship, on her weather bow. He was ding her the money she had earned on the going at the rate of about three knots an hour, and the ship at nearly the same rate, when he struck the bows of the vessel just forward of her chains. "At the shock produced by the collision of two such mighty masses of matter in motion, 'Well, ma'am, I did want it very much, or the ship shook like a leaf. The seemingly malicious whale dove and passed under the ship, grazing her keel, and then appeared at about the distance of ship's length, lashing the sea with fins and tale, as if suffering the most horrible agony. He was evidently nurt 'She is'nt so well, ma'am. And I feel by the collision, and blindly frantic with in-Rushing head on, he struck her again at the bow, and the tremen-dous blow stove her in. The whale dived under again and disappeared, and the ship foundered in ten minutes from the first collision. But five souls out of the twenty were s"In another authentic instance, when a boat was chasing a whale, he suddenly tur-

On, therefore, they madly rushed without trying to avoid the infuriated monster, so eager were they to else to mind; and so much taken up with plunge into him their irons, till the boat worldly business, that God and Christ, and struck with such force upon the whale's head neaven, and soul, and all, must give way to as to throw the carsmen from their thwarts Oh the folly and madness of sinful men! All sprang for their lives, and they had barely time to throw themselves clear of the boat before it was crushed to pieces by those ponderous jaws, and its ejected crew were providentially all picked up by another boat .-At length near eight o'clock, after forty hours of incessant exertion, this tenacious asserter of his vast animal vigor and territorial rights was killed.

> WHEAT AND MATRIMONY .- Our friend of the Cincinnati Herald has published a leader on "Love," in the course of which he argues that marriages increase or diminish econding to the rise and fall of wheat, and he gives statistics in proof. There is, no doubt, some truth in the general philosophy of the idea. It is quite certain that in this country, matrimony is most popular when trade is most prosperous. This, in all probability, is the condition of affairs in all civilized nations. Hence it may be tairly argued that abundant employment and liberal wages are the sources of human happiness in almost every point of view. Porter the statistician, is quoted in illustration. He states that the returns of France give the following facts, which prove that, as the price of wheat rises or falls, so do the number of marriages de-

Here we see that in 1809 wheat was 14s lower than in 1808, and the number of martinges was 17,000 greater; and in 1811, when the price of wheat was 29s higher than in 1809, the number of mairiages was 64,000 less ! Man acts strangely. Although'a current of fresh air is the life of his very lungs; he seems indefatigable in the exercise of his inventive powers to deprive himself of this heavenly clessing. Thus he carefully closes every cranny of his bed-chamber against its entrance, and ne prefers that his lungs should receive the mixed effluvium from his cellar and lafder, and from a patient little modern aquarious m lieu Why should man be so terrified at the admission of night airinto any of his apartments? It is nature's overflowing current, and never carries the destroying angel with it.— See how soundly the delicate little wren and tender robbin sleep under its full and immediate influence, and how fresh and vigorous, and joyous they rise amid the surrounding dew drops of the morning. Although exposed all night long to the air of heaven, their lungs are never out of order, and this we know by the daily repetition of their song. Look at the newly born hare, without any nest to go to . . It lives and thrives, and becomes strong and playful under the unmitigated inclemency of the falling dews of the night. I have here a fine male turkey, full eight years old, and he has not passed a single night in shelter. He roosts in a cherry tree, and always is in prime health throughout the year. Three dunghill fowler preferring the cherry tree to the warm perches in the hen house, took up their airy quarters with him early in October, and have never gone to any other roosting place. The cow and the horse sleep safely on the cold damp grounds and the robuck lies down to rest in the heather, on the dewy mountain's top. I, myself, can sleep all night long bare headed, under the full moon's watery beams, without any fear of danger, and pass the day in wet shoes without catching cold. Coughs and colds are generally caught in the transition from an over heated

A Glance at Europe. The Liverpool Albion glances at the pass history of Europe, and the prospect for the year 1850, and gives this brief but comprehensive view: "What may happen on the Continent of Europe before it also shall go down into the grave of time, he would be a bold prophet who would venture even to guess. France is always uncertain. Germany is unsettled, and in a state of effervescence from one extremity to the other .haly is groaning to be free. Hungary is only held down, but neither conquered nor pacified. The blood of her murdered patriois and martyrs have yet to be avenged. There is an ill-leeling growing between Prussia and Russia. The young eagle of the soaring house of Brandenburg is eager to take advantage of the dotage of the race of Hapsburg. Russia, too, is only biding her time to pounce upon Turkey. It may be, then, that we have not reached the end of the storm, but only a lull between the gone and coming blast. We walk upon gunpowder. A spark is enough to cause an expl sion, and we have firebrands flying about in all directions." Scene in a Railroad Office: .Dutchman-1 vants to get pay for a pig vot

PHENOMENON IN OREGON.-In the Cascade mountains, in the month of November, there were heard loud reports, like distant thunder, and immediately after Silver Creek dried up for twenty-four hours. When the water did resume its course, it was so thoroughly impregnated with alkaline substances as to have the appearance of strong lye, and as also to cause the death of the fish in the stream; About the time of the occurence strong winds prevailed from the south, a heavy fall of ashes was noticed in most parts of this valley, and a dense cloud of smoke settled in the atmosphere, shutting out the ight of the sun for nearly a week.

OF IT IS REPORTED that Barnum is exhibiting at his Museum, in Baltimere, a number of one of the second families of Virginia .-The genuineness of the phenomenon's pretentions is interred from his habits; he neither smokes nor chews tobacco, nor sweats. nor drinks, nor breeds slaves; he never held m office, but has always carned his living, and is not at all ardent.

The correspondent of the Lowell Advertiser says that Mrs. Lawrence; the wile of our Minister to England, has given great offence at court by kassing Victoria's babies, no one being allowed to take that liberty. We hope this will not create a new difficuliy with England!
