The Buffuld Commercial publishes the follo ing happily conceived poem. It is evidently an involuntary dropping, from the heart of a lady who had suffered some from the fickleness of bachielors, but we think that this much abused class deserve better treatment than this, we will not say gentle lady proposes. There is no doubt that many ladies, have wasted no small ortion of their time and means in trying to win bachelors, but they should rather blame themselves for not being more interesting ; so we would propose a tax on the young ladies for the losses; which bachelors have suffered in pursuing. "The light that lies in Woman's cyes."

Tax them, tax them, tax them all, With an income great or small— Tax their mortgages and rents, On each dollar sity cents; That's the toll they ought to pay, For woaring out the "Bachelo's way," So they'll cry instead of laugh, Mourning for the "better half."

Tax them for the vows they've made, Tax them tor their vows unpaid— For the draits they're drawing still; On their conscience and their will ; Tax them for the debts they owe; To young Capid and his bow, For the use of silver days And the loan of "treacherous arts."

Tax them for the precious time, Spent in writing silly rhyme, To the fair, deluded girls, Lost in blushes, and in curls— Tax them for dishonor paid, To the sunlight and the shade— Swearing they were truer far. Swearing they were trucr far, Than a sunbeam or a star.

Tax them for their wasted years, Tax them for the bitter tears Drawn from eyes that once were bright, With a soft confiding light, For the checks they've made so pale. For the deep, pathetic wail, Breathed from hearts that must endure What not surgeon's art can cure.

Tax them for the hopes they ve crossed, Tax them for the dollars lost, Buying elisit and balm, Meant to keep, the spirite calm; When the lady fondly thought. The 'confession' would be brought, And the lover with his hand, Would bestow his bases and lond Would bestow his house and land.

Tax them for the wood and coal. sed to warm their chilly soul; Tax them for the cakes and pies Oh, the number 1 who can tell? Oh, the number 1 who can tell? 'Vhat have burned, and burned in vain, To secure a faithless swain !

Tax them for the countless threats, Tax them for the countless threats, Made by mothers to their 'pets,'' -When the months would fass away, And the lover "name no.day;''. Tax them for the "nawful smart,'' That was felt about the heirt, When the last frail beau had gone. And the had weens alone And the lady weens alone.

Yes, I'd tax them one and all, With an income great or small-Tax their mortgages and rents, On each dollar sixty cents; Till their truant steps should stray, Calmly in the "married way" Then I would enjoy a laugh With the "Bachelor's better half."

Color of the Ocean.

The waters of the globe exhibit various hues, which depend upon a variety of circumstances. The ocean absorbs all the prismatic colors except that of ultramarine, which is reflected in every direction This is its true color in general when seen apart from atmospheric iufluence, modified by depth; bat every gleam of sunshine, passing clouds, winds, shoals, and sandbanks, affect its tints. Particular parts of the ocean show peculiar color. The sea is white in the Gulf of Guinea and black amid the Maldive Islands, Various purple, red and rose-colored wate occur in the higher parts, of the Mediteranean, in the wormillion sea off California, the Red sea, and in tracts along the coasts of Chili, Brazil, and Australia. Green water appears in the connection with the deepest blue in the Arctic ocean. The appearances are permanent, and so distinct that ships have been partly in blue and partly in green at the same time. These tints are occasioned by differently colored animalculae which swarm in countless myriads in the tracts in question The same species of animalculae which color the Red Sea, have been found in other similarly tinted districts of the ocean. The green of the Arctic seas is produced also by minute animals, which visit in spring the coasts of Holland. and have been encountered in immense shoals migrating in the Atlantic, In the Antarctic regions, Sir James Ross remarked repeatedly the change of color of

Value of Books

A Bibliopolist says there are many curious facts which show the extreme scarcity of books during the dark ages .---Donations of books are recorded as acts of signal generosity, and hence a memorial of the gift was sometimes inscribed on the tomb of the benefactor. In 690, eight hundred acres of fine land were exchanged for a single volume .- Two handred sheep and a large quantity of valuable furs were given by a countess of Anjou for a copy of Homilies. A single book of Livy cost twenty gold crowns. A Concordance brought to the seller one hundred gold crowfis. A Bible, in the beginning of the 18th contury, was sold to a Jew for 70 marks-a prodigious sum, as eight marks in those days were sufficient to purchase a slave and her child, a horse and the whole harness of a farmer's stud. A Latin Bible was valued at thirty pounds, at a time (1720) when

Severe Deafness Cured.

Severe Deafness Curëd. The following is an extract from a lotter faioly received from a distinguished physician in the State of Virginia 1: "A. II. Charstre, N. D. — Dear Sir : One of my patienti, unknown to me; obtained your Galvanic Bell and Neck-lage, with the Magnetic Fluid, for a serious affection of Deafness. The case was that of a lady whose Nervous system was much, disordered, and her general health poor. Much was done previously to the application of the Bell, but with very little success, and I feel it only right to tell you, that since she commenced wearing the Belt and using the Fluid, but a few weeks age, she has ENTIRELY RECOVERED HER HEALTING, and her general health is better than for several years." 667 Every case of Deafness, if it be Nervous, as it generally is, can be cured by this wonderful remedy.
