"Little Children, Love One Another"

little girl with a happy look, , A little girl with a happed arous book, Bat slowip reading a Draid edged with gold; All bound with velve find edged with gold; And its weight was more than the child could hold: Yet dearly abe ire to nonder it ofer, And every day abe prized it more : And every day abe looked at her smiling mother, For it said. - and her looked at her smiling mother, Bhe thought it was banuiful in the book, And the lesson home to her beart she itok : Bhe walked her way with a trusting grace, And a dave-like look in her meek young face ; Which said just as plain as words could say; The Holy Bible I must obey ; So, mother, 1911 be kind to my darling brother. For "Little children must love one another."

I'm sorry he's naughty, and will not play, But I'll love him still, for I think the way To make him gentle and kind to me, Will be better shown, if I let him see, I strive to do what I think is right; And thus when we kneel in proget to-night, I will chag my arms around my brother, And say, "Little children love one another."

The little girl did as her Bible taught, And pleasant, indeed, was the change it wrought; For the Boy looked up in gind surprise; Ta meet the light of her loving eyes; His heart was full-he could not speak.-Bit he pressed a kiss on his blater's cheek ; but dodicated of way on the hanow Mother. But he pressed a kiss on his slater's check a and God-looked down on the happy Mother Whose "Little children loved each other."

Christianity.

I go back to the age of Jesus Christ, and I am immediately struck with the commencement and rapid progress of the most remarkable revolution in the annals of the world. I see a new religion, of a character altogether its own, which bore no likeness of any past or existing faith, spreading in a few years through all civilized nutions; and introducing a new era, a new state of society, a change of the human mind, which has, broadly distinguished all following ages. Here inot deny however he may explain it. I see this religion issuing from an obscure, despised hated people-its founder had died, ipon the cross, a mode of pursur ment as disgraceful as the pillory lows of the present day. It teachers were those men, without ank, office, or education; taken from the fishing boats and other occupations which had never furnished teachers to mankind.

The these men beginning their work on the spot where their master's blood had been shed, as of a common malefactor; and I hear them summoning first his murderers, and then all nations and all ranks-the sovereign on the throne, the priest in the temple, the great and the learned, as well as the poor and the ignorant to renounce the faith and the worship which had been hallowed by the veneration of all ages, and to take the yoke of their crucified Lord. I see passion and prejudice, the sword of the magistrate, the curse of the priest, the the scorn of the philosopher, and the fury of the populace, join to crush this common enemy; and yet, without a human weapon, and in opposition to all human power, I see the humblest Apostles of Jesus winning their way, over, powering prejudice, breaking the ranks of their opposers, changing cnemies into triends, and carrying into the bounds of civilization, and even into half civilized regions, a religion which has contributed to advance society more than all other causes combined .- Dr. Chauning.

Isaac Newton set out in life a clamorous infidel"; but on a nice . examination of the evidences of Christianity, he found reason to change his opinions. When addressed him in these or like wordsf-Dr. Halley, I am always glad to hear from you when you speak about astrono. my or other parts of the mathematics, because that is a subject you have studied and well understand; but you should rot talk of Christianity, for you have not studied it. I have, and am certain that you know nothing of the matter." This was a just reproof, and one that would suitable to be given to half the infidels of the present day, for they often speak of what they have never studied, and what, in fact, they are entirely ignorant of. Dr. Johnson, therefore, well observed, that no honest man can be a Deist, for no man could be so after a fair examination of the proofs of Christianity. On the name of Hume being mentioned to him. "No, sir," said he : "Hume owned to a clergyman in the bishopric of Durham that he had never read the New Testament with attention.

THE WAY OF SALVATION .--- Divine mercy is pure mercy towards the whole human race for the purpose of saving them, and it is likewise continual with every-man, and in no case recedes from any one, so that every one is saved who can be saved ; but no one can be saved but by divine means, which means aro revealed by the Lord in the Word ; divine means are what are called divine truths ; these teach in what manner man ought to live that he may be saved; by those truths the Lord leads man to heaven, and by them implants in man the life of heaven: this the Lord effects with all ; but the life of heaven cannot be implanted in any one unless he abstain from evil, for evil opposes ; so far, therefore, as man abstains from evil, so far the Lord leads him out of pure mercy by His divine means, and this from infancy to the end of his life in the world, and afterwards to eternity; this is the divine mercy which is meant. Hence it is evident that the mercy of the Lord is pure mercy, but not immediate, that is, such as to save all out of good pleasure, let them have lived as they may.

How much digine teaching does the soul need, before it can look on the trials of life in their true light 1 God can be the giver of nought but good ; for those events which cause us suffering, and what we misname adversities, are blessings us they come from Him. We pervent them, make, them, adversities, when we do not use them rightly. But take a still deeper view: Gith in the justice as well as the love of, God, tells us he would place his children in any circumstances for which they might not have been prepared, had they been faithful to the previous teaching of his Providence. Thus regarded, prosperity is a preparation for adversity, and adversity for prosperity; health for sickness, and sickness for health; and all are blessings to the Christian.
