That Corport and the state of the orbits ments which have been made at Rochdäle, England, for the purpose of adapting flax to cotton machinery, is said to be very encoura-ging. Besides spinning the yarn in different. proportions of flax and cotton, and from the pure fibro, and also the wearing of hose, flan-nel and other fabries from the yarns so pro-duced, it is reported several pieces of calico are being successfully woren. It had, moreo-ver, been ascertained that long fibro can as well and as easily be prepared from the flax as the short, and may be spun dry. That a great thange in regard to the prepa-ring flax is not far distant would seem scarce-ly to be doubted, for we observe in some of our northern exchanges accounts of extraor-dinary improvements recently mady in some White Granite Stone Ware, euch as Dishes, Plares, Tea Sets, covered and uncovered dishes, bowls, toilet and chamber sets, pitchers, &c., togetner with a lot of
