When the winds are nowling round him, When the angry waves are high. When black, heavy, midnight shadows, On his trackless pathway lie. Guide and gnarithin, blessed Savior, Bid the horrying tempest may:
Plant thy foot upon its water,
Send thy smile to light his way.

When he lies all pale and suffering,
Strotched upon his narrow hed.
With his loving face bent o'er him,
No soft hund about his head;
Oh. let kind and pitying angels
Their bright forms around him bow;
Let them kiss his heavy cyclida.
Let them fan his fevered brow.

Poor and needy little children,
Stillizer raise our cry to Thee;
We have nestled in his bosom,
We have sported on his knee;
Dearly, dearly do we love him—
We, who on his breast have fain;
Ply now our desolution!
Bring him back to us again!

If it please Thee, heavenly father, We would see him once more, With his olden step of vigor, With the love ill smile he wore; But if we must tread life's valley, Orphaned, guideless and hone, Let us lose not, 'nidt the shadows, His dear foot prints to Thy Throne

RELIGIOUS CULTURE.

Our senses are educated by use. The experienced sailor will not only see a ship in the haze of the distant horrizon. where the landsman recognizes nothing, but he will tell to what class of ships it belongs. The intellect is educated by use, and the experienced thinker will recognise relations and analogies where, to the uncducated mind, there is nothing but confusion. Our moral perceptions are educated by use. He whose moral nature is kept alive by looking always to moral relations, and by fidelity to the moral convictions, recognises, as by instinct, a decided right or wrong in ac-tions which to others seem wholly indifferent, and through this moral intuition he is fitted to pass judgment on the final result of such actions. So our religious nature is educated by use. Habits of prayer, of devout meditation, of referring all things in our devotion to the will of God, habits of communion with Christ till his words have become spirit and life to us, and our thoughts move in unison with his, must quicken our spiritual perceptions, deepen our religious conscionsness, and give to us the power of recognising as realities spiritual objects and relations which others are, and from their want of religious culture must be entirely ignorant. Through this Christian culture, the education of our highest faculties by intercourse with the highest subjects which they can act upon, are we to enter into our highest life, and ex--perience the purest joy that the soul can know. We cannot open our hearts in prayer with intense yearnings for intercourse with God without some accession of spiritual life and peace, and we cannot through the day carry out the experience of that moment without having t in some measure confirmed and estab lished within us as a permanent part of our religious being. So should we go on, growing always in our spiritual gifts and perceptions, till our highest experience on earth is a foretaste of heaven.

The Refiner of Silver.

Some months ago a few ladies who met together in Dublin to read the Scriptures, and make them the subject of conversation, were reading the third chapter of Malachi. One of the ladies gave it as her opinion, that the Fuller's Soap, Refiner of Silver, were the san image, both intended to convey the same view of the sanctifying influence of the grace of Christ; while another observed. there is something remarkable in the ex-pression in the third verse; "He shall sit as a refiner and purifier of silver.' They agreed that possibly it might be so; and and one of the ladies promised to callon a silversmith, and report to them what he said on the subject. She went accordingly, and without telling the object of her errand, begged to know the process of refining silver, which he fully described to her. "But sir," said she; "do you sit while the work of refining is going on ?" "Oh, yes, madam," said the silversmith, "I must set with my eyes steadily fixed on the furnace, for if the time necessary for refining be exceeded in the slightest degree, the silver will be injured." She saw at once the beauty, and the comfort too, of the expression, "He shall sit as a refiner and purifier, of silver."

Christ sees it needful to put his children into the furnace; but he is seated by the side of it; his eye is steadily intent on the work of purifying and his wisdom and love are both engaged in the best manner for them. Their trials do not come at random; the very hairs of your head are numbered. As the lady was leaving the shop, the silversmith called her back, and said he had still further to mention that he only knew when the process of purifying was complete, by seeing his own image reflected in the silver. Beautiful figure! When Christ shall see his own image in his people his work of purifying will be complete.

The Bible.

"Young man, attend to the voice of one who has possessed a certain degree of fame in the world, and who will shortly appear before his Maker; read the Bible every day of your life." (Dr. S.)

Johnston.

"If a person would obtain a true knowledge of the Christian religion, let him study the Holy Scriptures, especially the New Testament. Therein are contained the words of eternal life. It has God for its author—salvation for its end, and truth without any mixture of error for its matter."-(John Locke.

BURRELL'S CORN SHELLER.

THE subscriber respectfully informs the farming community that he has purchased the right to Burrell's celebrated Corn Sheller, for the counties of Cumberland and Franklin.—Farmers who have used this Corn Sheller, pronounce it a most invaluable invention. It is simple in its construction and not liable to get out of order. It separates the corn from the cob without breaking either and delivers the corn clean and fit for market. It shells from ten to twenty bushels per hour. E ght hundred of them have been told the poet season by the inventor, all of which were highly approved.

Persons wishing to see the above Corn Sheller, can do so by calling at the shop of the subscriber, corner of North Hanover and Louther streets. Carlisle, where he will keep constantly, on hand a large number for sale. Every farmer and miller should have the above cheap but Valuable Corn Sheller. Valuable Corn Sheller.
