THE BIBLE. BY WILLIAM LEGGETT This little book 1'd rather own, Than all the gold and gens That's'er in monarch's coffor shone-Than all their diadems. Nay, were the seas one chrysolite, The cath a golden ball, The cath a golden ball, And diamonds all the sitre of night, This book were worth them all.

How b zeful to ambition's aye His blood-wrong spolls must gleam, When ideath's uplifted hand is nigh. His fife a vaniahed dream) i Then hear him with his gasping breath For one poor moment errors hen bear blow moment crave t ool ! wouldsi thou stay the arm of death ? Ask of the gold to save !

No. No I the soul no'er, found relief In gittering hoards of weathr ; Geme dazzle not the eyes of grief, Gold cannot purchase licathr ; But here a blessed balm appears, To heal the despectives ; And he that seeks this book in tears ; His tears shall cense to flow;

"Here he who dled on Calvary's tree, Hatb made that promise dieat: "Ye heavy, ladam, come to me, And I will give you rest. A pruised reed I will not break, A contrife heart despise; My burden's light, and who shall take My yoke, shall win the sklest?

Yes, yes, this little book is worth All else to morials given; For what are all the joys of earth, Compared to joys in Heaven 1 This is the guide on Father gave To lead to realms of day— A star whose instre glids the grave— "The light—the life—the way.

THE QUEEN OF SONG.

There is in preparation a grand concert of music, which will infinitely surpass those of Jenny Lind. None but performers will be admitted there, and none shall unite in that concert who have not learned the song of Moses and, the Lamb. Instead of an orchestra of sixty performers, unnumbered millions with golden harps will join the grand chorus, and the thundering notes of cherubim and seraphim will break forth in a strain that shall awaken the universe. Miriam, the sweet songstress of Israel, will rise to sweeter, higher notes than when she sung that song of deliverance on the banks of the Red Sea. David will sweep his golden lyre in strains to mortal ears unknown." Harriet Newell will there sing the song so suddenly broken off on that lone isle of the ocean; and thousands upon thousands of redeemed sinners will there sing loudly and joyously their rapturous song of salvation .----Reader, thou art invited to that heavenly concert. Despise not the invitation, else for songs thou shalt have wailings-for glad notes of joy, lamentations and deep despair.

Boliness of Heaven.

How vain must be our hope of entering into heaven, if we have no present delight in what are said to be its joys. A christian finds his happiness in holiness. When he looks forward to heaven, it is the holiness of the sceno and associations on which he fastens as affording happiness. He is not in love with an Arcadian paradise, with the green pastures, the flowing waters, and the minstrelsy of many harpers. He is not dreaming of a bright island, where he shall meet his buried kindred, renew domestic charities and again live human life, in all but its cares, and tears; and pantings. "Be ye holy "--- is the precept attempted, confor-mity to which is the business of a christian's life on earth-perfect conformity to which shall be the blessedness of Heaven. Let us take heed that we deceive not ourselves.

The apostle speaks of "tasting the powers of the world to come," as if heaven were to begin on this side of the grave. We may be enamored of heaven, because we think there the wicked cease from troubling, and the weary are at rest:' We may be enchanted with the poetry of its descriptions and fascinated by the brilliancy of its colorings, as the Evangelist John relates his visions, and sketches the scenery on which he was privileged to gaze. But all this does not prove us on the high road to heaven. If it be heaven towards which we journey, it will be holiness in which we delight; for if we cannot now rejuice in having God for onr portion, where is our meetness for-a world in which God is to be all in all, forever and forever .--- Mellsille's Bible Thoughts.
