From the Bucks County Intelligencer. Observations on the Weather.

Much attention has been paid to the subject of devising means to become possessed of knowledge of what signs or appearances denote a coming change in the weather; particularly the approach of weather. The pecuniary interest of the agricultural part of the community, is so much dependent on the weather, that self-interest would naturally prompt them to endeavor to discover what signs or appearances denote an approaching change; particularly in hay time and harvest, when a larger portion of their property would be exposed to the weather than at other times. The signs and tokens that have ob tained credence among observing persons, in regard to the approach of rain, are numerous; some of them very simple, and very few or none that are infal-lible. It requires the observation of many "years to ascertain what indications are the least liable to failure; and as the laws of Nature, that govern the world, are so imperfectly understood, perhaps this is the greatest extent to which we can push our discoveries; as what has been, may be again, under similar circumstances.

Among the signs of the approach of rain, that are most worthy of notice, is a clear day, without a cloud to be seen ;somewhat warmer than the preceding with very little wind stirring, and that from various points of the compass, with now and then a small whirlwind moving slowly. Towards sunset becoming hazy to the west and south-west, with a very gentle breeze from the east; and in the evening but few stars to be seen. It will most probably rain or snow before

In the morning, before sunrise, if the under side of the clouds to the eastward have a bright appearance, as if a great fire was burning in that direction; no dew on the grass; the sun rises clear, but soon disappears behind the clouds; the air in such a state as to convey sounds to a greater distance than usual as the factory bell at Holmesburg, and the railroad cars passing the bridge over Rancocas-cach at five miles distance; we may pretty safely conclude there is a storm at hand.

If the afternoon is cloudy, and breaks away a little to the westward, so that the sun sets clear, and the under side of the clouds have the same red appearance as above described, it denotes fair weather the next day.

When the sun sets behind a thick bank of cloud that is moving from the south-west, with not much wind stirring, it will be likely to be stormy before morn

If the wind blows pretty strong before the rain or snow begins to fall, there will not be much till it slacks. Nor in winter, if it is extremely cold, will there be much of a fall of snow till the weather

When the atmosphere has a smoky appearance, known by the name of Indian summer, the chance for rain or snow is very small, till the smoke clears off; notwithstanding the erroneous notions of ignorant persons, that they can see the sun drawing water, which is nething more than the rays of the sun passing through some brenks in the clouds, and producing some resemblance to streams of vapor, all centering in it-

If there is thunder to the westward. soon in the morning, or a rainbow in the west to be seen, it is pretty certain to rain before night.

If, in summer, it is raining soon in the morning, and the birds are singing as lowis out, seeking their food as usual, the rain will soon cease and the day become fine.

If, on the contrary, it is raining, and the birds dull and no singing to be heard. and the fowls, with drooping tails, are all under some shelter, providing materials. and making for themselves a warm bed in theevening, it betokens a cold storm shortly. Or if the wild geese are passing two or three weeks later than usual in the fall there will be cold, blustering weather in a day or two.

In cold weather, in winter, if the roos ters crow early in the evening, the cold will be abated to-morrow, and is commonly followed by a fall of snow. The same thing occuring in summer, denotes the approach of rain.

If, in the fall, winter or spring, there is a large white frest, three mornings in succession, it is generally followed by rain shortly after.

In summer, when three thick, foggy mornings occur in succession, when the fog litts from the earth and assumes the appearance of clouds, which become broken near the middle of the day, so that the sun shines at times, and by noon are mostly gone; if there is no hazy or othor clouds floating in the atmosphere, and the weather warm, it will be likely to produce rain in twelve hours.

In a foggy morning, if the fog does not lift from the earth, but becomes dissipated and wasted by the heat of the sun, no rain is following.

In summer time, if there is not much thunder and lightning, there will be a scarcity of rain,

If the thunder and lightning is abundant, and begins early in the day, the rain is generally plentiful also. In winter, a big snow never begins to fall when it is extremely cold and windy, with the ground hard frozen; the snow either ceases to fall, or the weather moderates, and turns it to rain.

The greatest snow begins with rain or very wet snow, and a moderate degree of cold, and without a strong wind, or much increase of cold, till the snow has ceased falling. It it begins to come in round white balls, (not ice.) like as if they had been slightly rolled; whatever the other appearances of the continuation of the storm may be, the fall of snow for that time is nearly at an end.

If there is thunder and lightning late in the Fall before New Year, it is not commonly followed by cold; but if it rains after that time, it seldom fails of being followed shortly by cold weather, and sometimes very severe.

All the foregoing signs and takens of coming changes in the weather, are liable at one tim or other to fail.

PRESERVE YOUR TEETH BY USING Zermans Celebrated Tooth Wash. THIS valuable preparation has long been used in New York and Philadelphia, where it has attained an immense popularity, for oleansing, preserving and beautifying the teeth. It is an excellent remedy for sore, soft or bleeding gums. It also imparts a delightful freshness to the mouth and agreeable odor to the breath.

Read the following from Dr. Murray.

"I can, with the utmost confidence, recommend to the public, Zerman's Anti-Scorbute Tooth Wash as the best in use. In my practice as a Dentist, I have used and recommended it for me last five years, and have found it to give satisfaction in every instance, as the Wash does not contain acid, or anything injurious to the teeth or gams; but, on the contrary, is the best antiscptic in the practice, and therefore, would recommend he use of it, not only to those who wish to preserve their teeth and gams; and have a wholesome ibreath, but also to those who have diseased gams for teeth. The use of the Wash, for a short time, will insure a return to their healthy state.

GEORGE E MURRAY, Dentist,

No. 61, S. Eloventh st., below Chestnut Phil'a. Br. Hendel, of Carlisle, says:—1 Mr. Zerman, I am well pleased with your Tooth Wash; it not only elemases and whitens the teeth without injuring them, but it cares sore by bleeding gams. I oheer fully recommend it to the profession and public, as the very best preparation that can be used for cleansing and preserving the teeth, healing the gams, and giving sweetness to the breath.
