For fifteen mouths previous to last March, I was troubled with an affection of the throat, andch originated from severe cold and cough, trie caused me much difficulty in speaking. I died several preparations professing to be remedies, but they all failed to produce the good deatisted. My throat grew worse and worse, so much so that my friends became alarmed, and I became fearful lest it should terminate in Broomhitis. While home last Spring in Triadelpnia, 1 heard of many astonishing cures performed by the use of your "Balsamic Cough Syrup" and having oversome my prejudices against patent medicine, resolved to try it, and used two bottes; I found myself entirely corred. I feel prepared to say that I believe it to be a superior remedy to any before discovered: certain it is superior to any I have over used.
