Agricultural. AGRICULTURAL IMPLEMENTS.

In this age of progression, when everything is advancing both in quality and economy of production, we cannot but imagine that the Agricultural Implements, although materially improved, have not met so great a share of attention from inventors as they deserve.

Mechanics' tools have been so materially im proved within the last twenty years, that many parts of houses which were worked out Inboriously-at the bench, are now manufactured hy tools moved by steam power. Bashes, mouldings, planing of boards, tongueing and groving, and even the making of doors, are no longer part of the occupation of the general builder; and the same difference exists in all the mechanic arts.

Cast iron is now plowed by machinery, and turned even in eccentric forms in lathes: whereas, formerly, it was laboriously modeled by the cold chisel and the file.

In every other branch of art, similar im provements have occurred, until the common est house utensils now partakes of a graceful form.

Commerce has also been benefitted by new inventions, until the exact length of voyages can be foretold within a few hours, and the New York merchant leaves his house for his counting room, anticipating the certain arrival of a European steamer on a particular day.

Our larger manufactures, including the cotton and woolen fabrics, have been materially improved in quality and reduced in price.

Nor have farming tools entirely been negleafed, but the advance in these has not beer so great as in those used by other classes of citizens. The reports of every fair where dy namometors are used for testing plows, show material differences in the amount of power necessary to propel them at the same depths; but still this all important instrument has received so little aid from the gometrician that we have no work which clearly and unequivo cally explains the principle on which the true shape of the mould board may be ascertained It is true that Mr. Knox and a few others have apparently for their own use, solved in par the problem, but still the amount of animal force wasted, from the mal construction of plows, is almost as great as that used for the true disturbance of the soil. And notwithstanding the well ascertained necessity for sub-soil plowing, the sub-soil plows in general use are inefficient. We have essayed to im. prove this plow, and we hope our new lifting sub-soil plow may at least give hints to more able inventors, who will produce an improved class of instruments, embracing this plow, so far as tenable, for avoiding useless friction and compacting of the soil.

How many thousands of hand hoes are use where horse hoes could, with propriety be substituted ! How many hand soythes are used where mowing machines would add materially to the quality of the product, and to the profit of the farmer! The improvements in caltivators and horse hoes has been somewhat rapid of late, and among the best are those now made by Ruggles, Nourse, Mason & Co.

But many a farmer is now using an infer or cultivator, because it is not quite worn out, when the substitution of the improved kinds would save him many times its cost in a single season.

Farmers are beginning to know that cultivators may be used with advantage in place of harrows. ... The form of the harrow tooth being a wedge pointed downward, is continually as tive in compressing portions of the soil, while the tooth of the cultivator, having all its tendency of action upward, is always loosening the soil, and they should be preferred for the purposes of disintegration to the harrow. The use of Digging machines is now being agitated, and we find many English farmers advocating their use strenuously. We have made arrangements for trials of some of these ines, and hope at an early date to be ab to place the result before our readers. It is well known that when the price of la bor is low in England, farmers find it to their advantage to preserve spade-culture. 'The crops are larger from a spaded acre than from a plowed one, and the rate of this increase in so well understood among many of the Eoglish farmers, that they have a price at which they will always spade in preference to plow ing. This is doubtless due to the fact that all the action of the spade is upward, and it does not tend to compact the soil; whereas, with the plow. a certain amount of force compressively applied, must always be acting upon the rolling furrow: and an equal amount in the form of friction compacts the face of the soil on the land side of the plow; and it is for these reasons that spade culture leaves the land in better heart. Machines then which imitate,more closely the action of the spade, than that of the plow, may possibly be so made as to be come valuable implements. They are at least worthy of fair investigation. When Mr. Mechi tells us that the plow is doomed, we think he may be mistaken, but still we are inclined to give the subject a respectful examination. and we hope that our agricultural societies will not be backward in" offering proper pre-

READ AND BE CONVINCED. Testimony of the highest character ! HON. GEO STROOP, Judge of the District Court in Perry county, Pa., Nov. 18th, 1862 said: "your 'Huofland's German Bitters' has been in use in our place over a year past, and to the astonish-ment of many has performed wonders. We may notice a few instances that have come may notice a rew instances that have come under own inspectate notice:--almost every person who has stopped at the hotel of Wm. Lackey, one year since, predicted from his e-maciated countenance and debility, that he could not live much longer. Ho was unable to attend to his buincss, and for the greater part of the time confined to his room. We rec-ommended hum to try the Garman Bittere he part of the time confine to his room. We rec-ommended him to try the German Bitters, he did, and to the surprise of all his friends he is now able to attend to his usual business and perform manual labor. The case of Heary Asper a stone mason, whom no one supposed would ever recover from the debility of his would ever recover from the depinity of his system, but was looked upon as fast approach ing the grave, took eight or nine battles of the Bitters during the last winter, and this sum-mer he has been [to the surprise of all who knew his case] following his trade. The case October 5, 1853-1y knew his case following his trade. The case of William Murphy is to less astonishing,— He too was so far reduced as to induce the general belief that the grave alone would be his only remedy. Mr. Lackoy recommended him to try the Hoofland's German Bitters; he is now apparently a well inan, and able to do a hard day's work. We could mention many other cases of a similar charactor, if it were necessary. I myself derived much benefit from their use. I heve given considerable of it a-way, not for your benefit alone, but to relieva sufforing humanity, and let me assure you I am pleased to see the happy result. To the afflicted we say, try them fairly and I will warrant relief."

These Bitters are worthy the attention of invalids, possessing great power in the resto-ration of a healthy action of the liver and the lesser glands, giving tone to the stomach and nervous system, and bringing the system gen

To The American Public. As my name has been used in connection with recommendations of Mr. Myers' Reck Rose Syrup, in various advertisements by the maufacturer, I beg leave to make the follow-ing statement with reference to my acquaint-ance with the remedy and tests to which I have subjected it, and the reasons for having intra-duced it to the notice of private friends in the emmunity in which I reside, long before the medicine was advertised. I make this state-ment freely, because I have, as a principle, withheld my name from all patent medicine; and suddulously astanned from recommending the spane of quackery and humbug, and as tending to increase, instead of lessening human tending to increa
