Agricultural.

From the New England Farmer. THE ONE ACRE FARM: Or, a Cure for Hard Times.

'How much land have you got here in our lot, Mr. Briggs?'

·I have one acre. One acre! and here you are taking the New England Farmer, the Cultivator, Tovey's Magazing and the Horticulturist, nd all because you have one acre of ground! How many such papers would ou have to take if you had a hundred, ieres?'

I shouldn't probably need any more than I take now; you know, Mr. Chapian, one can 'go through with all the iotions' on one acre, as well as on a hunired.'

'A man can throw away money without any, if he has a mind to. For all he good you get from such periodicals, you might as well, probably, throw the money they cost into the fire; they are nothing but humbugs.'

1 pay two dollars for the New England Farmer, one dollar for the Cultivator, three dollars for the Horticulturist, and two dollars for Hovey's Magazine-in all, eight dollars.'

Eight dollars! enough to buy a tiptop barrel of flour and a leg of bacon; and then if you read these periodicals, there is twice the amount of money spent in time reading them.'

I do actually read or hear read almost every word there is in them. My boys and I take turns in reading, and one reads aloud while the rest work.

'Complete nonsense! No wonder your shop don't turn out any more boots in a day than it does!'

Perhaps we don't do as great days' works, some days, as some of our neighbors, but I-guess that in the course of the year we turn out as many, according to the hands at work, as most do.'

'I suppose it is out of these publications you get your foolish notions about so many kinds of fruit trees. One of my boys came home a while ago, and said Mr. Briggs had got lots and lots of fruit trees and such things, that cost I, don't know how much, and wanted me to buy some grape vines, pear trees, and so on. I told him it was all foolishness, and not to let me hear him say anything about spending money so foolishly. You have, I dare say, laid out ten or fifteen dollars this spring.

'Yes, nearly as much again; I have laid out twenty-five dollars for trees and garden fruits.'

are! I wonder you are not on the town, or in jail, at least, before

'I'm not afraid of either; I'll bet you the twenty-five dollars I'll sell you that amount of fruit from those things for which I paid the twenty-five dollars, in five years.

Done! I'll stand you; so your trees will cost you fifty dollars, sure, in money, besides the time thrown away in setting them out and taking care of them.'

'As for the time spent in setting them out or taking care of them, it is as good exercise as playing ball, wicket or anything else. While we were setting them out, one of your boys came to get my boys to go over to Mr. Moody's, where, he said there was to be a great time playing ball; and I have no doubt your boys spend just just as much time playing, as mine do with our trees, and so forth; and then something is done, but in playing the strength is all laid out for nothing.

Well, it don't cost anything to play ball, but trees cost money.'.

The foregoing conversation occurred in the shop, between two neighbors, both boot-makers, in a town not more than thirty miles from Beston. Mr. Briggs, in whose shop the conversition took place, was a man of more than ordinary intelligence for oue of his advantages and ciroumstances in life. Ile had been a poor boy, and by industry, observation and economy, had worked his way on in life, and reared and well educated a family of children, who, like hi nself, were industrious and steady. For the few years past he had become interested in horticulture, and both for exercise and amusement, had turned his attention to cultivating his 'one acre farm.' His attention was first called to this by means of a back number of the New

In time, every inch of that acre of ground was 'brought' under the spade,' ground was 'brought under the space, and almost every 'best' variety of fruits and almost every 'best' variety of fruits may be good sense in upw things somehad a place there, and the father and sons found pleasure and profit in the garden, dollars over again, that my store bill has dollars over again, that my store bill has found pleasure and profit in the garden, after being cooped up in the shop until the 'stent' was done, and the exercise was the 'stent' was done, and the exercise are not begin the past season, half as large as far more profitable than the spasmodic, yours, though I have had one the more in richard to have it to be it. violent exercise taken in games.

Mr. Chapman, the other neighbor, was a man of the 'common stamp.' He looked before, I would stand you; but I guess upon everything new, or uncommon, as 'folly' and 'nonsense,' and was ready to from 'muster' or 'training,' or 'shows,' and spend his time in cultivating a garden; or, instead of loitering away the evening at the store, smoking and hearing or telling a deal of nothing, or worse, to spend the evenings at home, reading such then raspberries, currants, gooseberries, nonsense' as the Farmer and the Horti- and so forth; and long before these are culturist afford.

Years pass, and Mr. Briggs' 'one acre farm' shows that he and his boys have not read 'the papers' in vain. They had, learned how to 'set out a tree, and how the luscious circle. to take care of it after it was set out .-Everything showed it received the right kind of food and care, and straightway time and bother to get these things startbegan to bring forth fruits meet for good ed—then it is an everlasting job to take cultivation. In a short time the wants of care of them.' the family were more than supplied, and 'It needs no more time and money than the neighbors at good prices.

Those early apples, so rich and tempting, when all other apples were so green and hard! and then such pears! they went as fast as the sun and house could ripen them, at three, four or five cents a piece. Then such clusters of rich, ripe grapes-too tempting for the coldest to, pass without a watering mouth. Mr. Chapman's family were among the best customers for the tempting fruit first having learned their excellence by the liberality of Mr. Briggs, who never failed to send a specimen of his best to his

The fifth season came. It was a fruitful year. Apple, pear, peach, plum, and all other trees were loaded with fruit .--Keeping in mind his conversation with Mr. Chapman, Mr. Briggs had directed his family to set down every cents worth of fruit sold to Mr. Chapman, or his family. This year, as it happened, was a year of extreme hard times. The boot business was at its lowest ebb; little work and very low wages-and yet the prices of every kind of provisions up to the 'highest notch,' and money extremely 'tight.' But there was one family that did not seem to be in the least affected by the hard times, low prices of labor, high prices of provisions or the searcity of money; Mr. Briggs and his two oldest opposite to the "Volunteer Office." Carlisle, April 20, 1853. sons, all of them had a little 'spare est,' to their needy neighbors. One day Mr. Chapman, who was short, applied to Mr. Briggs for a 'half' for a 'quarter,' meaning fifty dollars for three months. 'Yes,' said Mr. Briggs, 'I have a half or a whole, just as you like."

What, a hundred dollars by you; these times? I don't see how it comes. You and your boys don't work any harder than I and my boys do, and we can hardly get along. We are as saving and pinching as can be, too; times are so dreadful hard, and everything a family has to buy is so dreadful high, and wages so low. Potatoes a dollar a bushel, beef fifteen cents a and your boys don't work any harder than toes a dollar a bushel, beef fifteen cents a pound, pork sixteen cents, eggs twentyfive cents a dozen, and flour ten or twelve dollars a barrel. How can a man live?"

'It won't be hardly fair for me to ask you for that twenty-five dollars now, will Twenty-five dollars! What do you mean? I don't understand you!"

'Don't you recollect we have a bet between us about the price of some fruit trees 1 bought five years ago next spring?"

'Ah, I do remember something about it. You were to give me twenty-five dollars if you didn't get your twenty-five dollars back from me for the products of those trees and things. It will come very handy just now.'

'Don't be too fast, neighbor. I'm afraid it won't 'come very handy just now.'-That was what I was dunning you for,that twenty-five dollars!'

'What?' you don't pretend to say that we have had twenty-five dollars worth of stuff from your garden?'

'More than that from that very twenty-five dollars worth of trees and other things. Here is an account of everything you have bought and paid for; of course England Farmer, which was put around it don't include what I have sent you,

We have raised our own potatoes, corn, sneer at every one who stepped aside from the common track. It looked simply bles. Our eggs are always fresh and in silly to him to see a man stay at home abundance from the nest, and for more than two years we have not been without ripe fresh fruit.'

'How can that be?' Well, by the first of June we have strawberries ripe, and soon after cherries; gone, the early apples, pears and peaches; then grapes, later pears and apples, and these continue all winter, and apples till July, when the early fruits again connect

July, when the early fruits again connect the luscious circle.'

Well, I declare that is something I never thought of. But it takes so much time and bother to get these things started—then it is an everlasting job to take care of them.'

It needs no more time and money than you throw away on things that amount to nothing at all, and with abundance of fruit you save the expense of a heavy meat bill, which is not healthy in hot weather. No doetor has been called to step a foot into my door for over four years past! Fresh, ripe fruits are sure remedies for all ailments, and they are the surplus found a ready market-with you throw away on things that amount to remedies for all ailments, and they are not hard to take.'

Mr. Chapman put the 'fifty' into his weasel skin,' and left with a 'flea in his A. B. B.
