SATURDAY, Jan. 13.

Congress .- In the Senate, yesterday, Mr. Toucey announced the death of Moses Norris, one of the Senators, from New Hampshire, who expired at his lodgings, in Washington city, on Thursday evening. The usual proceedings were had, and the Senate adjourned over to Monday. In each house a committee was appointed to accompany the remains to New Hampshire. The House, like the Senate, adjourned over to Monday.

A resolution was also adopted instructing the Judiciary Committee to inquire into the cause of the error in the Act passed at the last session relative to the Court of Common Pleas of Philadelphia. In the House, a resolution was laid on the table, instructing the Committee on Vice and Immorality to inquire into the expediency of reporting a bill to restrain the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquors. The demise of this estimable woman has cast a gloom

The demise of this estimable woman has cast a gloom over the entire community: and its announcement has brought tears to the eyes of many annused to weep. Although living among us but a few years, she had yet grown into the affections of all who knew her; and her virtues were continually drawing towards her, other hearts, in a holy bond of friendship.

In the various capacities which she was called upon to fill, she was all that could be desired. Beforeher family she went in and out as a good and gentle spirit, leaving her impress upon the tender hearts of her little flock, never to be effaced. As a minister's wife, she labored in faithfulness and solf-denial, to sustain and cheer her husband in his arduous commission. In the social circle, at the magic of her presence, all hearts opened, and hastened to receive her. In the Sabbath School, where she delighted to be, the little lambs knew her caressing hand, and came obedient to her kindly call. She was loved overywhere—She was needed everywhere. But God, for wise though mysterious jurposes, sent the Destroying Augla, with swift stroke, to cuther down. And now, on every hand, the innmerable tendrils of love where with she had entwined and bound us to herself, hang severed and bleeding to the ground. The fireside where the light of her countonance shone is darkened. Her bereaved companion now makes life's pigrimage alone. The friends who knew and prized her worth, have new maught to cherish save her memory. She is lost—Test to all—but Heaven; that bright and holy place, gained a treasure when her pure spirit, after its brief struggle, was borne by ministering angles through the sacred portails, into the presence of the Father.

TRAY MARE.—Was taken up on the streets of Carlisle, on the 28th of December, 1854, a SORREL MARE, supposed to be three or four years old, blind of an eye, has a white face and white hind feet.—The owner is hereby notified to come forward, prove property, pay charges and take her away, otherwise she will be disposed of according to law.
