

Interesting Sketch

CURIOUS EASTERN TALE.

There lived in Bagdad a young man of such extreme beauty that he was surnamed 'The Brilliant.' He had also the gift of poetry.

One day the Caliph received a present of a collar of gold garnished with precious stones, with which he was greatly pleased.

The slave, in going to execute his commission, found the house door open. "What does this mean?" inquired he of himself.

With a bound, the Sultana pushed him into the coffer; but the slave had seen all.

He presented the collar, and said: "Madam I must demand of you a stone from this jewel!"

Indignant at such boldness, she exclaimed: "Rude creature, depart from my presence!"

The enraged slave went to his master and said: "My Lord, to-day I found a man in conversation with your wife in such a chamber.

The Caliph was infuriated against the servant for bringing him such a message. "Thou base, miscreant dog!" he exclaimed and ordered his head to be cut off.

When the execution was over, the Caliph rose, put on his slippers, and went to his wife's apartments. She was occupied in arranging a head-dress. He entered and sat facing her upon the coffer indicated by the slave.

"How happens it that you have such a liking for this chamber?" "Because my apparel is here," she replied.

"May I dare to hope that you will favor me with one of the coffers with which the chamber is furnished?"

"Take, my lord, whichever you please, with the exception of the one you are seated upon."

"This is precisely the one I prefer," replied the Caliph; "you must let me have it."

After a moment's stupor, the Sultana said to him: "Very well, it is yours."

At a signal from the Caliph, two blacks appeared. "Take this coffer into the Hall of Council, and wait for me."

While the slaves were bearing away the coffer, the countenance of the Sultana bore traces of confusion.

"Why dost thou change countenance?" inquired El-Oulid; "Perhaps this coffer may contain thy heart!"

"Pardon me, my lord, it contains nothing such. If I appear a little moved, it is because I have been taken suddenly ill."

"God will cure thee," observed the Caliph, retiring.

When he reached the Hall of Audience, he found the coffer upon the floor. "Raise the carpet," he said to his slaves, "and dig a hole the size of a man."

The pit being dug, he made a sign to place the coffer on the brink. Then planting his foot upon the piece of furniture, he pronounced the following words: "News has come to me; if it is true, thy vestment shall be thy shroud, this box shall be thy bier, and it is God that immolates thee. If this news is false, I enter a coffer, and lose only a few planks." He then pushed the box, which descended rapidly to the bottom of the pit. The blacks filled up the grave and replaced the carpet.

The Caliph then returned to his spouse, and both departed themselves as if nothing had happened between them. Peace united their existence until the day of death.—London Court Journal.

Pleasure is to women what the sun is to the flower—if moderately enjoyed, it beautifies, it refreshes, and it improves; if moderately, it withers, deteriorates, and destroys. But the duties of domestic life, exercised, as they must be, in retirement, and calling forth all the sensibilities of the female, are perhaps as necessary to the full development of her charms, as the shade and the shower are to the rose, confirming its beauty and increasing its fragrance.

A heart unspotted is not easily daunted.

THE YOUNG BRITISH OFFICERS

Previous to the war luxury and indulgence appeared to have reached a point the most extravagant. Young men and elderly men seemed to vie with one another in providing means of inordinate self-gratification. The club houses of the metropolis became joint-stock places of refined and elaborate luxuriance.

ROUNDING A PERIOD.

A subscriber in the West, remitting his annual subscription for the Gazette—an example worthy of imitation—appends the following:

Squire J.—recently aspired to represent this place in the next legislature, and in hopes of obtaining the nomination he seized all favorable opportunities to address the million. A few nights since there was a caucus at the schoolhouse, when Squire J. delivered one of his flowery speeches, which terminated somewhat as follows:

"I say, fellow citizens, that the inalienable rights of man are paramount and paramount to all others, and he who cannot put his hand to his heart, and thanking God that nothing is rankling within, deserves to lie in a bed—in a bed—I say, gentlemen, he deserves to lie in a bed—in a bed—"

"With cracker crumbs in it," shouted out the shrill voice of a person anxious to round the period. The laugh was tremendous, and it is doubtful if the Squire gets the nomination. It is supposed that the cracker crumb man is the father of a small family, and has experienced the delights of such a bed.

NICKNAMES IN THE UNITED STATES.—General Jackson was called Old Hickory, on account of his inflexible character; his diplomatic successor in the White House was known as the Little Magician; and his son, John Van Buren, remains until now the Prince.

General Harrison was old Tip, an abbreviation of Tippecanoe, where he had defeated the Indians, under their prophet the brother of Tecumseh. General Zachary Taylor was designated by the names of Old Zach, Rough and Ready, Buena Vista. Henry Clay as the Mill Boy of the Slashes, in remembrance of his origin. Webster the great expounder, the Godlike, or simply Black Dan. Corwin is the Wagon Boy. Thomas H. Benton the great Missourian, is known as old Bullion.—Douglas, the Democratic Senator from Illinois, the Little Giant. General Scott, Chipewa, from his victory over the English in the late war, and Hasty Plato of Soup, from an expression which slipped from his pen.—General Houston, San Jacinto, from the battle-field on which he defeated President Santa Anna and all his army, etc.

ARTHMETIC OF LOVE.—After an introduction find out if you have any rivals, and if none, the following rule may be followed to advantage:

4 Compliments make 1 Blush, 3 Blushes " 1 Tender look, 4 Tender looks " 1 "Smitten," 2 "Smitten," " 1 Moonlight walk, 5 Walks, " 1 Proposal, 2 Proposals (1 to Pa), 1 Wedding.

The following is recommended as a reading exercise: "I saw five brave maids, sitting on five broad beds, braiding broad braids. I said to these five brave maids, sitting on five broad beds, braiding broad braids: Braid broad braids, brave maids."

"My dinner don't agree with me," said a man to his wife, after an extraordinary hearty meal. "I don't blame it my dear, I saw you jawing it so hard."

CHARACTERISTIC END OF A MISER.—A Mr. L., in the neighborhood of Strasburg, who in addition to a constitutional love of money, was a little disordered in mind, went one morning to a rope maker's at the end of the village and bargained for a piece of rope ten feet long. The rope-maker demanded for it one franc and fifty centimes. This price seemed to Mr. L. too high, and he offered for it one franc and twenty-five centimes. They could not agree, and Mr. L. went off, returning the next morning at the same hour to haggle anew for the rope. The rope-maker was inexorable, and Mr. L. again retired, but repeated his visit on several successive days. This went on for a month, the same offers and refusals. Finally, one Sunday the rope-maker was away, and an apprentice took his place. Will you finally consent to let me have this rope for one franc and twenty-five centimes? The apprentice, who did not know what had passed, coiled up the rope and put it into the hands of the purchaser. An hour after Mr. L. was found suspended on a tree. He had hung himself with this rope on which he had saved twenty-five centimes.

A SOLDIER'S FEELINGS IN THE MIDST OF BATTLE.—A letter from a private soldier says: "The bullets of the Minnie rifle go past you with a most infernal sound. It is as though mocking devils were sneering at you in the air. But your blood soon gets up the sound maddens you, the smell of gunpowder has intoxication in it, your veins tighten as if fire was running through them, the eyes strain, the jaws become rigid, and in you go." He states that he lost himself altogether at the Alma, and he found himself victor. He got a wound on the forehead which bled considerably—"the blood ran into his mouth, and in his burning excitement he drank in as though it had been inspiring wine.

A LEGAL BULL.—The Irish, says the Chicago (Ill.) Democrat do not make all the bulls. One of the most brilliant and able lawyers at our bar, in the case of Geesen said: "Gentlemen—Some are opposed to circumstantial evidence; I am not. You might as well say, because a man undertakes to fire a gun, and that it bursts and blows out his brains, and kills him, that that man is not to be allowed to fire a gun again, as to say that a man shall not be hung on circumstantial evidence, because innocent persons sometimes suffer!"

To REMOVE INKSTAINS FROM CLOTH.—The moment the ink is spilt, take a little milk and saturate the stain; Soak it up with a rag and appl a little more milk, rubbing it well in. In a few minutes the milk will be completely removed.
