TWELVE HUNDRED PATIENTS.

We copy the following from the New York Mirror. "We accepted an invitation from Dr. Carnochan, to accompany him last evening on a visit to his twelve hundred patients on Randal's Island, and such a scene we have never before witnessed. Sickness and suffer ing in all degrees of intensity and from every variety of cause; and patients of both sexes and all ages, from the infant of a day to the veteran of four-score, there they lie in the long wards, with their narrow beds foot to foot, only a single passage way between the long rows of cots, each occupant looking his pale vis-a-vis in the face, and every face indicating the various emotions of physical anguish and mental sorrow. When it is recollected that no inmate of this emigrants' hospital can have been over five years in this country, one can readily immagine that the memories of many of these poor victims of proverty and vice are busy with the scenes of their childhoods' home, while their hearts are aching with loneliness in the midst of the multitude of their fellow sufferers. In one of the wards, a poor aged woman is suffering from a cancer in the breast, as large as a full-blown peony, and not unlike it in appearance; and every breath she draws adds but another pang to the agony of her existence. In the same room we saw a nice-looking girl, some fourteen years of age, whose tongue has been growing out of her mouth from infancy ; and although it has been several times cut off, still continued to grow, until Dr, Carnochan adopted the very ingenious plan of cutting off the glands that supplied the means of growth.

The effect is already very marked, and the poor child seemed delighted that her tongue had become so much reduced as to enable her that the entire population of Randall's Island (except the physicians and nurces,) is but one mass of miscellaneous diseases, and that the average portion of deaths is scarcely greater than is shown by the mortality bills among Instanter the ladies all rushed into the adies' cabin. The husband was speedily turned out of the cabin by the ladics, one of whom kept watch at the door, while others made preparation to receive the expected stranger. Of course we cannot enter into the details of this subject, for we were on the outside observing the husband, who begged

LAGER BIER .- How its made .- An interest ing lager beer trial came off in Petersburg, Va., on Saturday, in which interesting lager beer statistics were brought out on oath, and may, therefore, be believed. Mr. Solomon Keyser was the defendant, and was charged with keeping a disorderly bier saloon. A very respectable German witness in the case defined what lager bier was. He said it was manufactured of malt and hops, and to make it bitter an extra amount of the latter was thrown in-that was bier. This compound was placed in a barrel lined with a casing of rosin, and was laid in a cellar, from which laying in store was derived the name lager .--This was lager bier, or 'stock ale.' The witness thought it might burst a man, but would not make him drunk. He had known German ladies in New York and Philadelphia to put 17 to 20 glasses (pints) under their waistbands in one day and never feel the effects.

TTENTION DYSPEPTICS-Those A LIENTION DY SPEPTICS—Those of you who have been afflicted for years with this bothersome disease, and who have been using almost every Nostrum before the public without relief, we say to you try "Kieffar's AntiDyspeptic" and you will scon be convinced of its great superiority over every other preparation. We could give you many certificates corob-orating our assertions, but a single trial is worth more than all. This remedy is prepared and sold at the Drug Store of B. J. KRIFFER, South Hannver street, a few doors south of the Court House, Carlisle.
