"Mr. Wolff:—Permit me to address you a few lines, which you are at liberty to use if you think proper, in respect to your medicine, called behiedam Schnapps.—I have had a very obstinate case of gravel and stone, of some five years' standing, causing very acute pain in every attempt to urinate. After using many temedles without much relief, I was induced to try a bettle of your medicine. In the course of three days it proved effectual, disloging large pieces of stone, some of which was as large as a marrownat pea. I continued the cordial according to directions, and the patient continued to gain, and is fast recovering. I think a medicine of so much value in so distressing a complaint, should be known to the public, and the world at large. And I for one, must give it my approbation and signature.
