THE RESULT OF THE ELECTION.

The returns of the election in this county, so far as received, show the complete overthrow of the American ticket and the triumph of the Democrats. Our sympathies having been to a large degree with American principles, although invincibly opposed to the odious secret organization, we do not rejoice over this result. It is not however unexpected. Our readers will bear us testimony that from the very opening of the canvass we steadily warned the leaders of the American party, who so arrogantly & presumptuously thrust aside the alliance of the Whigs, of the utter folly and infatuation of expecting to triumph as an exclusively American organization. We warned them, by the experience of the past, that the American party was entirely powerless without the aid of the whigs, and that as an independent organization it had never won a victory. Our voice was unheeded. They chose to work on in their secret conclaves—excluding Whigs from all participation or fellowship, and to go into the field with a ticket unsatisfactory to many of their own friends and they have now to deplore the result.—But we have no room for further comment.

The returns have not come in very clearly, but enough is known to ensure the success of the whole democratic ticket, though it is possible there is a small majority for Nicholson, the Fusion Candidate for Canal Commissioner. In the Carlisle district the democratic majority is about 100—last year Pollock had that majority. In the Newville district Nicholson has 2 majority, while there is 60 majority for Bowman, democrat, for sheriff. In Shippensburg, once the Whig banner district, there is a majority of 10 for Riley, American, for sheriff, and probably a better majority for Nicholson—in Mechanicsburg the democratic sheriff has 32 majority, while Nicholson has 44—in Dickinson the democratic ticket has 54 majority, and in Silver Spring the democratic majority is 180. East Pennsboro is also reported to have given a democratic majority. Upper and Lower Allen, Hampden and Monroe are not yet heard from. The American majorities they gave last year, however, would not defeat the democrats. We judge from the returns received that Arnold Plumer, the democratic candidate for Canal Commissioner, has over 100 majority and that the democratic county ticket is successful by over 200 majority.

Of the Whig vote we shall have no definite return until Friday. Several hundreds of them stood by parts of their own ticket—many more voted the American ticket to make their votes effective against the democrats—a small number may have voted for parts of the democratic ticket—while a considerable crowd of them did not come to the election at all. The American defeat is attributable in no small degree to defection in the American ranks.

THE GENERAL RESULT.

From other counties the returns are not flattering to Nicholson's prospects. In York the whole democratic ticket is elected. In Lancaster Nicholson's majority is a little over 1000. In Dauphin part of the Democratic ticket is elected. In Philadelphia the result is said to be doubtful, and in Allegheny the democrats have triumphed.

Another move has been made in behalf of Passmore Williamson in Philadelphia. Result not yet known.

THE EASTERN WAR.

We publish on our first page a graphic account of the bloody struggle between the Allies and Russians which terminated in the conquest of Sebastopol. Now that this great point has been accomplished the papers are full of speculations as to the effects of the victory. Of the despatches of the Allied Generals, says the North American that of Pelissier contains the most important and startling information. According to this, four thousand cannon, 50,000 balls, besides round shot and large quantities of powder and a variety of other valuable materials, had been left behind by the Russians. Two of the principal forts of the south-side—fort Nicholas, which counted 200, and fort Quarantine, 60 guns—had not been destroyed. It is the more difficult to account for the fact of the cautious Russian general abandoning to his enemies these important structures and materials, as his retreat was by no means of such a hurried nature as the Paris correspondent of the Times represents it, when he declares that "a panic took complete possession of the army at the appearance of the Allies in the Malakoff," and that their "hasty retreat" was occasioned by the fear that their pursuers "would fire the bridge and make them prisoners." General Simpson's despatch tells us that the French carried the Malakoff at noon on the eight of September. The panic cannot have been very great, as after this important event the Russians repulsed the attack of the British upon the adjoining work, the Redan, as well as several subsequent ones by the French, and kept their position until night, when under the cover of darkness they crossed the bay. This exhibits all the features of a cool and predetermined movement. That this result was fully anticipated by Gortschakoff, appears evident from the ingenious measures devised and executed before he gave the Allies a chance to resume their fifth bombardment. The recent diversion upon the rear of the position of the Allies, on the Traktir Bridge, was undertaken with a view of delaying the assault, till his floating bridge to the north side was completed. The object was effected. The manœuvre was judicious, and reflects credit on the skill of the Russian commander. As to the question whether he will be able to hold the position of the north side, the late news furnish no reliable data. All that has transpired on the subject amounts to nothing but surmises. It is extremely doubtful whether the forts on the north side contain sufficiently ample stores of ammunition and materials, workshops for the repair of artillery, and all the numerous establishments which a protracted siege requires. It is also doubtful whether the communication with Simpheropol, upon which depends the provisioning of the garrison and of the corps on the Tchernaya, can be maintained now that the fall of the south side has relieved the whole force of the Allied army. However this may be, whether the siege will be prosecuted or the Russians retreat into the interior, the most important question for the moment has found its solution in the words of the Czar to the King of Prussia: "Russia never makes peace after a disaster." Thus the prediction that the fall of Sebastopol, far from terminating the war, would, in effect, be the opening scene of a still more terrible drama, appears to have become a reality. What the ultimate consequences will be of this struggle for life or death between the West and East is impossible to foretell; but it is probable that it will shake the old world to its very centre, and cause the fall of many a tottering nationality.

Hon J. W. Foster, of Massachusetts, has sent in his resignation as President of the State Council of Americans. In his letter, he speaks of the subserviency of the National Convention to the Slave power, and says he can henceforth do no battle under its disgraced banner. He casts his lot with the Republican party, and with it will stand or fall.

THE OCTOBER ELECTIONS.

Four States hold their general elections during the present month, viz:—Louisiana, Oct. 5; Maryland, Oct. 7; Ohio, Oct. 8; Pennsylvania, Oct. 8. Maryland and Louisiana will elect their delegations to the Thirty-fourth Congress, which will complete the list of members of the House of Representatives, except the five members of Mississippi, who will be chosen on the 5th of November. In all the states holding their elections this month, Legislatures are to be chosen, and on that of Pennsylvania will devolve the election of a United States Senator in place of James Cooper, whose term expired with the last Congress, the last Legislature having failed to perform that duty.

THE LIQUOR LAW.

The operation of the new Liquor Law, which went into effect on the 1st inst. seems to have caused no excitement in Philadelphia. In the 6th, 9th, 10th and 24th wards, particularly, the Ledger says a majority of the establishments have closed or at least do not openly sell liquor. But three or four arrests have been made of violators of the law. A large number of eating saloons it is said now supply their customers with coffee and tea, instead of intoxicating liquors. In Reading and Lancaster the lager beer shops are reported to have generally closed.—In Cumberland county the law has not yet gone into effect, the tavern keepers generally having taken out their licenses before the passage of the law, and consequently have a right to sell liquor as usual until April next.

The returns of the legislative elections will soon determine whether the law can be sustained or not.

GEORGIA ELECTION.

COLUMBUS, Oct. 7.—Six anti-know-nothings and two know-nothings are supposed to be elected to Congress. Johnson, dem., is re-elected Governor by over four thousand votes over both candidates. The Congressmen believed to be elected are Steward, Crawford, Warner, Lumpkin, Cobb and Stephens, anti-k. n.'s, and Trippe and Foster k. n.'s. The majority for Stephens is 2,657. The legislature is democratic. In the 7th district, where Foster, k. n. is reported to be elected, the democratic gain is 1,176.

KANZAS POLITICS.—There is more excitement in Kansas and more trouble brewing. Gov Reeder has consented to run as the Anti-Slavery candidate for Congress, and that party have selected the time for the election one week later than the Legislature fixed. Therefore there will be two election days, and two Delegates elected, the validity of which must be decided by Congress. Gov. Reeder accepted the nomination in a patriotic speech, which was enthusiastically received by the congregated hundreds.

Town and County Matters.

COME TO THE FAIR!—The first exhibition of the New Agricultural Society of Cumberland county, will open on the grounds of the Society near Carlisle, on Wednesday next and continue until Friday. The Society has made excellent arrangements for the accommodation of Exhibitors and visitors at their first fair. A field of six acres on the North side of the borough, lying along the road to the Sulphur Springs, has been purchased for the permanent use of the society, and workmen are now engaged in erecting proper buildings, stalls for stock, offices, fencing &c. Every provision will be made for the comfortable sheltering and feeding of stock, and for the display, in conspicuous style, of miscellaneous articles. A circular track for coursing horses will also be laid out, which will add to the attractions.

The deceased never made any public profession of religion, which, when she became awakened to a true sense of her condition, gave her a great deal of pain and regret. Eighteen months before her death she devoted much of her time to religious exercises, especially prayer, and soon received through grace, that peace which the world cannot give. She bore her long illness with patience, and when her hour arrived, armed with the shield of Faith, she met the Grim Messenger on the Pale Horse, divested of all his terrors—then calmly and triumphantly passed thro' the Dark Valley leaving on the arm of her Redeemer.
