[From the New York Spirit of the Times, WINNING A WIDOW---WITH A "SPRING" HAT.

After riding twenty miles I reached Donaldsonville, La., just at dark. The Natchez packet sometimes arrived about ten o'clock at night, and as I was bound up the Mississippi, and did not want to miss her, determined to wait in the wharf office. Shortened the time by paying a few visits to a coffee house and billiard room in the town .- During one of these, noticed the arrival of a party of French creoles, who talked and swore over a dozen "mallard ducks" loud enough to have made you believe they'd been on the war-trail after Camanches, and brought in as many scalps. At last walked over to wharf-office, settled down and found comfort in a segar, and as much of a newspaper as the rather misty light of a bull-eyed lantern would give me. The fire in the stove roared bravely and sent out plenty of warmth I had dropped the paper and only held on the segar, when I suddenly woke up on hearing the door open and a couple of men enter. They found chairs, and drawing up to the stove continued a conversation, evidently just commenced as they entered.

'And so Buffer is going to be married?' Wal he is! and a good match he's made of Wal he is: and a good march. If he don't have to put a kicking breech on her afore lie's married a week you may call me a fool. She's got eyes like a panther; an' if he only lets her get the bit atween her teethjust for once-she'll carry him further nor he wants to go!'

'What makes him want to marry her then?' Niggers, mules, and as neat a plantation as thar is on the Bayou. Two hundred and fifty hogsheads clean sugar, last crop, an' it they'd only out the cane airlier, fifty more atop of it. She had a new steam ingine up last season, and the that cussed bay isse burner'sga rousing humbug, yet I reckon it's all paid for: an' all Buffer's got to do, is step in, hang up his hat, an' set right down to live like a fighting-cock.'

Why didn't you go in there? The last time I came down the river I heard you were bucking up to the widow?'

afore that Buffer stepped in, that I just had it her-sure! As these here French say, 'I made eyes at her'-savage! But, somehow or 'no ther, she olways went dead agin old Mas-issip. A man from our State had no kind of a show, and though I put the 'tentions to her like an uncle, it didn't seem to be no use tryin'. 'Bout one time she did kind o' lean my way. You see nare 'bout the end of grinding season Old Farabole giv' a dance down in his sugarhouse, and vited me and the widder, and a raft more; an' down we went, and the widder kind a felt her oats, and we reeled it off in the in the middle of the table there was the old early part of the evening fit to kill; but by'm | fashioned tin coffee-pot, sir, scoured as bright by that Buffer he came on an' just knocked me Orleans), and only 'rived on the Bayou that sir, as broad, sir, as the top of the great bellnight, an' hearin' that thar was goin's on down to Old Farabole's sugar-house, down he cmu. Wal, sir, he was drest to death in the hand- year eighteen hundred and twenty, sir, Here summest kind of store clothes, an' the women the Doctor's spectacles fairly glistened again. war right up on eend soon as he came in.

I see the widder a fixin' her panther eyes on him, and I jest said to myself-Dick Tare- was plenty of silver in the cupboard, plenty; out, you mout as well clear; that 'ere Buffer's | great pots and coffee urns of solid metal, sir. too much for you in the close line!' I felt it with massive handles to match; but they were at oncet. Wal, sir, in about a minit up comes so old fashioned as to prefer the old, secured. Buffer, smiles at the widder in a fashinatin' broad bottomed tin pot, sir, and with reason, manner, an' ensists on dancin' with her. Sez toe, sir.' she, 'Yes, Mister Buffer, it will 'ford me the gratest pleshure!' Grathest pleshure! wal, the please ' way he squeezed her, when they danced, I rather think it did. I kept an eye on Buffer. the coffee pot in a still, small sort of a voice, Now, you see, he'd been stayin' at the Saint Charleses, an' puttin' it through like forty, an' he'd larnt all the last agonies in the way of bowin' and scrapin', an' sayin' leetle nothin's; and, sir, he carried his hat round in his hand all over the sugar-house, down among the bilers, and up round back of the ingine-whar the licker was-every whar he toted that ar' hat.

Now the widder didn't jist exactly know what to make of it-coz it was a new wrinkle -so twicet she said to him he'd better let big Jake, one of the house niggers, hold it for him; but 'twant no use; he held on to 't tight as a wrench: at last, jest as they war' in the middle of a dance, sez Buffer, with sech a smile, sez he-'Mrs. Noiryeux, for yure sake I'll do most ennything!' An' he actilly held that ar' hat in one hand, an' hit it a lick with tolther, and fetched top and rim right into a pancake; knocked it right down flat.

I tell you wot, when the widder see him do that, she was jest ready to drap-she was so come over with his intentions. Sacryfizing a bran new hat, and all to gratify her little whim! I see at once how he was goin' it, an' I determined, sir to head him off. So I stepped up round back of the ingine-whar the licker was -an' I took a most rousin' big horn of Old Farabole's rum, and huntin' round ative friend, send for me!

found my hat. It was a right new one-none of your Kosshoot or wool-bats, but a reg'lar beaver, stiff as a stove pipe, and shown like a pair of new blacked boots; so I lays hold of that are hat, an' goes round back of ingine an' tokes another swingin' pull at the ruman' then I felt jist ready for action. The dance was through, and as cheers was scarce, the women were all seated on a few seats in front of the bilers, an' Buffer was pilin' on the soft things, and widder was lookin' tickled to pieces--when I made my appearance on the Gen. Cass, and his face, though fat, is magnifi-

'I works up to'rds the widder, and when I'd got atween her and Buffer, sez I, 'A-low me the pleshure of your hand for the next set!"

'Oh,' sez she, with a leetle sigh, 'I am so come over that I hardly feel abul to dance

'Now sez I to myself spread yourself or die! and I jest swings my hat round forward, and fest as I said you had better say 'yes!' you'll get over it a dancin', I held that ar' hat in one hand (jest as Buffer did his,) and with other hand I druv the crown down with sech another lick, that the linin jumped right through, and bust the cend clean out,

'Raaly.' said she, you skeered me!' an' I hink I mout have done it. Thar was my hat all knocked into infernal pieces no bigger than bits, the rim all hanging loose, the sides smashed in, and the linining running out, and the top off. 'Bout then I turned my eye, and good as new, and all in shape sir! I looked at it twicet-no mstake it was whole!

'Sez he, 'You ought t' get a Spring' Hat-a Shappoh Mechanic, as the French call em. I've They chew tobacco very much as other folks, one here!' An' then ups and shows the whole insides of it and how it works, an' the hull after adjournment, several of them lit eights. lot of women looked at him, like he'd had a and leaning back appeared to feel comfortastove pipe chock full of diamonds; the widder ble. specially patternized him, tuck him under her wing, an' give me the cold shoulder-straight. Buffer's got her, I'm tired of La Fooshe, an' am goin' back to the hills, whar thar ar' no more, widders that fellers can cotton down to with 'Spring Hats.' į,

Coffee and Coffee Pots.

'My dear friend,' said the doctor, holding his cup in his left hand thumb and forefinger, with the other three fingers stretched out over the rest of the table, 'I never inhale the fra-'Wal, now, Lim, to be honest, I did think grance of coffee without thinking of the old fashioned coffee-pot, or, 'Madame Follet,' as all my own way, and that I was goin' to get dear Miss Bremer used to call it. Do you know, sir-and I suppose you know every. thing-do you know, sir, there are a great many old-fashioned people in the world?'

We replied the fact was not to be disputed, 'Old-fashioned people, sir; old-fashioned in dress, in speech, in politeness, in ideas, in everything. And, sir, not long since I had occasion to visit two old ladies, sir: I went down stairs to the basement dining-room, sir, without cerimony, sir; and there I found the antiquated virgins over their coffee, sir; and as sand could make it, with a great big suberanuated spout, and a great, broad-backed 'Ye see he'd been down to the city (New handle, sir, and a great big, broad bottom, crowned hat I used to wear when I went to visit them as a spruce young buck, in the 'Well, Doctor?'

Sir, replied Doctor Bushwhacker, there

'Give us the reason thereof, Doctor, if you

Well, sir, one of the sisters apologized for a little cracked and chirred by constant use, and said the reason why they drank their coffee out of that pot was because it never seemed to taste so well out of anything else.

'Why not? Easily enough explained, sir: we never make coffee in a silver urn, and when we pour it from the vessel in which it is made into another, we lose half the aroma. sir. Coffee is of most delicate and choice flavor, sir; very few know how to make it or to use it. The proper way to make good coffee. sir, is to roast it carefully in a cylinder over a charcoal fire, until it is light brown color: then the cylinder should be taken off the fire and turned gently until the berries are theroughly cooled. The best part of the aroma is dissipated, sir, by the abominable practice of turning out the coffee into an open dish so soon as it is roasted. Why, sir, anybody can see that the finest part of it escapes; you can smell it sir in every crack and corner of the house. When cooled, it should be put in a mortar and beat to powder, A coffee mil only cracks the grains, but a mortar pounds out the essential oil. Then, sir, put it in an old-fashioned tin coffue pot, pour on the hot water, stand it over the fire, not too hot; let it simmer gently. If your fire is too hot it will burn the coffee and spoil it, Then, sir, take Madame Bollet fresh from the fire, stand her on the table, and if you want an appreci-

PICTURES OF U.S. SENATORS.

The correspondent of the Cincinnati Commer cial, writing from Washington the 4th inst., says:

I looked in upon the Senate to-day. Gen. Cass is a ponderous old fellow, with a massive head, which he covers with a rusty old brown wig, and keeps opening and shutting his mouth and sucking his breath between his teeth, as if he constantly tasted something disagreeable. John M. Clayton is more enormous than cent. He is the best looking man in the Sen ate, and laughs heartily at intervals of from two to five minutes. His hair is white as snow, and his big eyes glistened all the time with intelligence and humor. Seward is a bout as stalwart in appearance as a pair of tongs. He does not weigh over a hundred pounds. His hair is short and looks dead, and his eyes are hidden behind a pair of slender gold spectacles. His face is thin, pale and wrinkled, but its lines are firm, and he appears to be what he is-a man of restless and intriguing intellect. Senator Butler, of South Carolina, is the thickest at the wasteband, though not uncomfortably heavy. His face is bright and his hair, which he wears long and in singular confusion, is white as newly washed lamb's wool. Hale's appearance indicates that he had been fed liberally on fat pork and butter milk. Pugh looks younger when among the old bald, or white headed thar stood Buffer a holdin' his hat-jest as and big-bellied Senators than I ever before saw him. A majority of the senators have naked patches on the top of their heads, and quite half of them are the opposite of slender. so far as I could discover, and immediately
