HOME AGAIN!—MRS. REY.

HOLDS would inform all interested, that she has returned from Philadelphia, where she had been for a few weeks, acquiring the new process of taking likenesses on glass, which have only to be seen to be admired by all lovers of pretty pictures, or of those whom the pictures represent.
Her course of instruction has been full and complete, having been engaged in the establishment in which she was the best teacher in the city in all branches of photography; and the gentlemanly proprietor and operators spared no pains to give her an intelligent knowledge of the art. She therefore feels confident of being able to perform all the promises, when that promise is to furnish as GOOD AMBROTYPEs, as well as DAGUERRETYPEs, as can be produced elsewhere.
A Word on AMBROTYPEs.—Though there are still those who will prefer the Daguerreotype, yet the Ambrotype has several advantages over it; the Ambrotype can be seen in any light; is not subject to change, dampness having no effect on it; in fact, there is no way to destroy a real Ambrotype when finished, but by breaking the glass.
Persons are invited to examine specimens.
Rooms still at the Southwest corner of HANOVER and LOUTHER streets, over Mr. Fetter's Cabinet Warehouse, where she invites her numerous friends and neighbors, and as many new ones as may feel disposed to favor her with a call.
