DR. CHESSEMAN'S PILLS. The combination of ingredients in these fills is the result of a long and extensive practice; they are mild in their operation, and certain—of restoring nature to its proper channel. In every instance have these fills proved successful. They invariably open those obstructions to which females are liable, and bring nature into its proper channel. They invariably open those obstructions to which females are liable, and bring nature into its proper channel, whereby health is restored and the pale and deathly countenance changed to a healthy one. No female can enjoy good health unless she is regular; and whenever an obstruction takes place, whether from eliphosure, cold or any other cause, the general health immediately begins to decline, and the want of suich a remety has been the cause of so many consumptions among young lemiales. To-ladies whose health will not remit of an increase of their family, these pills will prove a valuable acquisition, as they will prevent pregnancy—Headache, pain in the side, palpitation of the heart, loathing of food, and di turbed sleep do most always arise from she interruption of nature; and whenever that is the case, the pills will invariably remedy all thert evils. Nor are the less affications in the cure of Leucorthoz, commonly called the "Whites." These pills should never be taken during pregnancy, as they would because to cause a miscarriage. Warranted purely Vegicable, and free from anything injurious to liid or health. Fulland explicit directions accompany each box.

If you have contracted the terrible disease, which, once seated in the system, will surely go down from one generation to another, undermining the constitution and sapping the very vital fluids of life, do not trust yourself in the hands of Quacks, who start up overy day in a city like this, and fill the papers with glaring false hoods, too well calculated to deceive the young, and those not acquainted with their tricks. The Fluid Extract Buchu has been pronounced by eminent physicians the greatest remedy ever known—It is a medicine perfectly pleasant in its tasic, and very innocent in its action, and yet so thorough that it annihilates every particle of the rank and poisonous virus of this dreadful disease; and, unlike other remedies, does not dry up the disease in the blood.

The Minister and the Fiddle.

A responsible friend is the voucher for the truth of the following capital story:

Half a century ago, or less, the pious but somewhat facetious Dr. Pond dwelt in the quiet out of the way village of A-, in the State of Steady Habits. The Doctor's ideas were liberal-much more so than many of his congragation approved, neverheless he kept on the even tenor of his way, and disregarded the prejudices of his people. He had a son named Enoch, who at an early age manifested a remarkable talent for music, which the father-cherished and cultivated with care. Inthe same village resided an antiquated maillen lady, who having no cares of her own to occupy her time and attention, "magnanimously..... devoted herself to those of her neighbors .-One morning she called at the Doctor's and requested to see him. When he entered the room where she was seated he perceived at a glauce that something was amiss, and before he had time to extend to her the usual "How d'ye do ?" she began :

"I think, Dr. Pond, that a man of your age and profession might have had something better to do, when you were in New London last week, than to buy Enoch a fiddle; all the people are ashamed that our minister should buy his son a fiddle. A fiddle! Oh dear what is the world coming to, when ministers will do such things !" ...

"Who told you I had bought Enoch a fiddle?" inquired the Doctor.

"Who told me? Why overybody says so, and some people have heard him play on it as they passed the door. But min't it true, Doc-

"I bought Enoch a violin when I went to New London."

"A violin? What's that?"

"Did you never see one?"

"Never." "Enoch;" said the Doctor stopping to the door, "bring your violin here."

Enoch obeyed the command, but no sooner had he entered with his instrument, than the lady exclaimed : "La! now, there; why it is a fiddle!"

"Do not judge rashly," said the Doctor, giving his son a wink; "wait until you hear it."

Taking the hint, Enoch played old hundred. The lady was completely mystified; it looked like a fiddle! It could not be. So, rising to depart, she exclaimed, "I am glad I came in to satisfy myself. La me ! just to think how people will lie!"

CRIME AND ITS CURE. - The Journal of Prison Discipline, noticing the frauds of Sir John Paul and his partners, the forgeries and suicide of Sadlier, and the poisoning cases as Rugley, says that no person can fail to notice in the history of all tuese fearful offences, the presence of some despotic passion in our naturn-ambition, avarice, revenge, selfishness or envy. "To cope with these pussions, even when they have become but little conscions of their strength, is no easy task. Education, in he ordinary acceptation of the term, is no match for them. Regard to character, reverence for authority, social influences and attatchments-the strongest, ties of human-affection-ure important barriers. There is but one principle of permanent, reliable and adequate strength, and that is the fear of God, implanted by his own power in the heart, and supplying motives of encouragement to obedence, which can spring from no other source. This suggestion opens a wide and interesting field of inqury into the defects and tendencies of prevailing systems of public and household education, which neither time nor space will suffer us to cuter.

"Filkins, you say you know the defendaut-what is his character!"

"For what, sir-spreeing or integrity!"

"For integrity, sir !"-Well, all I can say about Jones is that if he's honest, he's got a queer way of showing it, that's all!"

«What do you mean by that ?"

·Just this—that the night before he dines on turkey, somebody's poultry coop is always broken open;" __

"That will do Mr. Filkins."

A MOTHER'S LOVE. - The intensity of maternal affection was well illustrated in the cb. servation of a sweet little boy, who after reading "Pilgrim's Progress," asked his mother which of the characters she liked best. She replied "Christian, of course; he is the here of the story." He responded: "I like Christiana best, because when Christian set out on his pilgrimage he went alone, but when Christiana started she took the children with her."

A fashionable counters asked a young nobleman which he thought the prettiest flowers, roses or tulips. He replied with great gallantry-" your ladyship's two lips before all the roses in the world."
