DR. HOOPLAND'S

PREPARED BY DR. C. M. JACKSON, PHILADELPHIA, PA.

LIVER COMPLAINT, DYSPEPSIA, JAUNDICE, Chronic or Nervous Debility, Diseases of the Kidneys, and all diseases arising from a disordered Liver or Stomach.

Constipation, Inward Piles, Fullness of Blood to the Head, Acidity of the Stomach, Nausea, Flatulency, Headache, &c.

The proprietor in calling the attention of the public to this preparation, does so with a feeling of the utmost confidence in its virtues and adaptation to the diseases for which it is recommended.

It is no new and untried article, but one that has stood the test of a long trial before the American people, and its reputation and sale is unrivaled by any similar preparation.

DERANGEMENTS OF THE LIVER AND STOMACH. Are sources of misery. From disorder or obstruction, a morbid action is set on foot, and other nerves follow, and the functions of the brain are impaired and deranged.

And feeling the want of it, we weigh in heavily upon them, with our restless and uneasy, will find in the use of the Bitters an elixir that will instil new life into their veins, restore in a measure the energy and ardor of more youthful days.

It is a well established fact, that fully one-half of the female portion of our population, are seldom in the enjoyment of good health, or to use their own expression, never feel well.

And free from Alcohol, Stimulant, and all injurious ingredients, are pleasant in taste and smell, mild in their operation, will expel all morbid humors from the body, give tone to the palid cheek, and health and vigor to the frame.

And feeling the want of it, we weigh in heavily upon them, with our restless and uneasy, will find in the use of the Bitters an elixir that will instil new life into their veins, restore in a measure the energy and ardor of more youthful days.

UNFORTUNATE. Cut out, and preserve the following card. It is particularly important to STRANAGERS AND TRAVELLERS, to prevent their being misled and deceived by the lying boasts, false promises, and spurious recommendations (from the dead and unknown) of Foreign and Native Quacks, of whom there are more in Philadelphia than elsewhere, because of the closeness of the laws of the State. Citizens know and avoid them.

Having tried one to twenty dollars worth of Quack Mixtures, Extracts, Invigorating Bitters, Cordials, Bitters, &c., without effect—having been deceived by misrepresented and exaggerated claims of success, I am more evident, being sold for less than cost of printing and advertising—having paid five to one hundred dollars to Foreign and Native Quacks.

QUICK WORK.

Why, you see, when my man came a courtin' me, I hadn't the least thought of what he was after—not I. Jobie came to our house one night, after dark, and rapped at the door. I opened it, and sure enough there he was.

'Come in,' says I, 'take a cheer.' 'No, Lizzie,' says he, 'I've come on an errand, an' I always do my errands fast.'

'But you had better come in and take a cheer, Mr. W.'

'No, I can't. The fact is, Lizzie, I've come on this 'ere courtin' business. My Wife's been dead these three weeks, an' everything's goin' to rack an' ruin, right long. Now, Lizzie, if you're a mind to have me, at' take care of my house an' my children, an' my things, tell me, an' I'll come in an' take a cheer, if not I'll get some one else tu.'

'Why, I was skeered, and said: 'If you come on this courtin' business, come in. I must think o' a little.'

'No, I can't till I know. That's my errand an' I can't set down until my errand is done.'

'I should like to think on it a day or two.' 'No you needn't Lizzie.'

'Well Jobie, if I must, I must, so here's tu ye, then.'

So Mr. W. came in. Then he went after the Squire, and he married me and Jobie right off, and I went home with Jobie that very night.

I tell ye what it is these long courtin's don't amount to nothin' at all.—Just as well do it in a hurry.

Astonishing Effects of Guano.

Although some people may be inclined to doubt the truth of the following yarn, we can bring forward any quantity of vouchers. An old Salt, of our acquaintance, says that when he was in the guano trade he sailed as mate of an old brig which might have been a tender to Noah's ark.

On a return trip with a load of guano, the hatches were left open one night and a tremendous shower wet the guano in the hold, and produced a most surprising effect. The timbers of the vessel sprouted and grew in all directions. Between decks was a complete hovey.—The fore-castle became an almost impenetrable thicket, and the cabin a beautiful arbor. The rudder post being white oak, grew up into a live oak tree, which afforded a beautiful shade to the man at the helm, though he was sometimes annoyed by the acorns rattling upon his tarpaulin hat.—The masts became very imposing with their evergreen foliage, and strange to relate, the foremast, which had been carried away in a gale, grew out again, and the altitude of the masts was so much increased as to render the brig exceedingly frank. The vessel had boughs on her stern, and the figure-head, (speaking figuratively) was as full of boughs as a dancing master. They were obliged to prune the bowsprit and some of the spars twice a week. The quarter deck was covered with shrubbery, and the cook's caboose resembled a rustic summer house. Crab-apples grew on the pump handle, and a cherry table in the cabin bore fruit. Perhaps the most remarkable circumstance occasioned by the stimulating and fertilizing influences of the guano was that the cockroaches on board became so large that they could get up the anchors and make sail on the brig. One of the owners of the craft facetiously remarked that she went out a full-rigged brig and came home half bark. There is nothing like guano to make things grow, and for strict truth and veracity give us an old sailor when he lays himself out on a big yarn.

THE MISER FOLDED.—An old miser in New England, owning a farm, found it impossible to do his work without assistance, and accordingly offered any man food for performing the requisite labor. A half starved pauper hearing of the terms, accepted them. Before going into the fields in the morning the farmer invited his help to breakfast; after finishing the morning meal, the old skinflint thought it would be saving time if they should place the dinner upon the breakfast. This was readily agreed to by the unsatisfied stranger, and the dinner was soon dispatched.

'Suppose now,' said the frugal farmer, 'we take supper; it will save time and trouble you know.'

'Just as you like it, said the eager eater, and at it they went.'

'Now we will go to work,' said the satisfied and delighted employer.

'Thank you,' said the gratified laborer, I never work after supper!'

A SMART BOY.—The Abington (Mass.) Standard tells the following: 'The Rev. Mr. G. a clergyman of a neighboring town, being recently absent from home on business, his little son, a youth of four years, calmly added his hands and asked the blessing usually pronounced by his father at their morning meal. At noon being asked to pronounce the blessing, he replied with a grave face, 'No, I don't like the looks of them taters.'
