BENTON ON THE DRED SCOTT

Robertson of Kentucky, in which he takes preme Court in the decision of the Dred Scott case. He says-" In this political decision, the Supreme Court acted upon a question beyoud its jurisdiction, and lugged it in as a tail to a question of negro freedom, and in tion, which had no more to do with it than the INNE MAGNETIC BELT

Constitution and by the first Congress under Washington, and to their right to govern what they have the right to acquire, and become they have the right to acquire, and become they have the right to acquire, and become their duty under the State session acts and under the treaties of cession. The "needful rules and regulation clause," as the court said, gave no power to govern the territories; i presenting but little for the attraction of any man who has nothing but the public good in view; but here is a question of a new kind, national and elevated, on which all who are for the Constitution as our fathers made it; and as they administered it in their day and generation, and as the next generation administered it, (and that without distinction of party or default of a man,) may come together and stand. For one, I can give no political aid or comfort to any man or party, in may future election, who shall uphold the opinion of the Supreme Court in declaring the nullity of the Missouri Compromise, and in decreeing the self extension of the Constitu tion to Territories, cofrying slavery with it, and preventing Congress and carrying slavery with it, and preventing Congress and the people of the Territory from saying yea or may to its introduction or repulsion."

"I am now well recovered, and working as usual, and expect to finish the Abridgement next summer, and then to add another volume -to-the-two-of-the Thirty Years'-View, bring ing it down to 1860, if I live that long; at all events, to the time of the Pierce Administration in which he was inoperative, and in which nullifiers, disunionists and renegades used his name and power for their own audacious and AT PRICES TOTALLY REGARDLESS OF ORIGINAL COST criminal purposes."

Respectfully, THOMAS H. BENTON. Washington, Nov. 1, 1857.

NOTHER ARRIVAL!!! We are receiving and opening this week our second large purchase of Fall and Winter Goods—bought entirely for eash in the eity—and which we propose to sell at very low prices, to those buying, FOR CASH.

We would also add, that our custemers will find it much to their interest to kuy FOR CASH, as by that means we are enabled to do the same, and thus we can offer much greater inducements to the consumer.
