.dwell-the formation of the first human pair, of their original purity, temptation and apostacy—of the arts cultivated in the first periods of the earth's existence -of the fearful increase of wickedness-building of the ark-drowning of the world by a universal deluge-the burning of Sodom-of the origin of language -dividing of the Red Sea-of Israel's journey through the desert-of their conquest of the promised land-of Elijah's corporeal traslation from earth to heaven of the fleshly manifestation of God's dear son, his benevolent miracles, and glorious triumphs over all the powers of hell The bible presents the most and earth. important, interesting and affecting narrative, elegics, dramatic poems and trium-phal songs, with views of society in the first ages of the world, when men's lives were extended to almost a thousand years. We are presented with the splendid miracles performed by Moses in Egypt, in the wilderness of Horeb, in the field of Zoan, when the sun and moon stood still in their habitation, when the waters of the great deep were divided, and mountains shook and trembled "at the presence of Jeho vah." with the illustrious movement of a whole nation through the Arabian descrite • under the direction of a miraculous pillar of clouds and fire-with the visits of heavenly messengers and the visible representations of a present God, with prophetic illustrations of the present and future condition of our race, with descriptions of the power, wisdom, love, and majesty of the "Omnipotent Deity," and of his operations both in heaven and earth, with the results and bearings of the economy of Redemption, with divine songs, odes and hymns, composed by angels and inspired men, with the maxims of moral wisdom. instances of sublime reproof-with proverbs, parables, allegories, exortations,promisos, threatenings, and consolotory addresses. In short, in the Bible we have detailed in the most superior vnriety-history, antiquity, travels, voyages, geography, natural and moral science, philosophy, arts, biography, epic poetry, epistles, memoirs, delineations of nature, sketches of human character, precepts, prophecies, miracles moral narrations, amazing providences, wonder-ful deliverences, the phenomena of the air, the water and the earth, the past, present and future scenes of earth, all blended in one harmonious system without artificial order, but with a corresponding majesty and grandeur analogous to the style of all the other works of the Deity-all calculated to gratify the principle of curiosity, to carry instruction, reproof, and correction in righteousness and to " make the man of.
