THE SEXTON'S CALL.

"I gather them in ! I gather, them in !" Prepare to come! earth's beautiful-Ye ones of glorious mien. Your forms will make right dainty food For my ring'd pets. I weep ; * The worst shall hold its revelings Upon the beauteous breast, Where once the gentle eve-wind's kiss Was deemed too rule to rest.

EDWARD STIL

opare to come ! time's stricken ones, Whose trembling footsteps tread The crumbling soil which margins on The temples of the dead.

I call—ye silver'd pilgrims f From toil to set you free: My spade awaits your requiem The clod's last melody.

If the minister was astonished at this re-quest, Charles was infinitely more so. What did you say, Susy?' said he. 'Did I hear aright?' 'I bolieve so,' said Susy, smiling at his ea-ger anazement. 'Does the scheme meet your approval ?' ' 'It was Heaven-inspired !' cried the poor 'It was Heaven-inspired !' cried the poor it was Heaven-inspired!' cried the poor fellow, frantic with joy - but a shade coming over his radiant face, he added, gravely, 'but, Susy, have you considered?
