If wood and iron can do much of the drudgery of life just as well as human sinews, surely it is better that they should do it. If, by the aid of a horse and a cubivator, one man can till as much land as ten men with ten hoes could do their work ACK AGAIN TO THE ODD surely there is a great gain. So with all substitutes for the expenditure of human strength To us, the great argument for machinery in agriculture is not its cheapening effect, but the relief it gives the farmer from wasting toil, and the opportunity it af. fords him for self improvement. Its ten-dency is to make farming attractive, no less than profitable. Well has a writer plserved :--- "Machinery, regarded as a means to banish man's slavery to toil by substituting brain work for the labor of the hand, is the high road to that fuller and more perfect developement of society which poets have painted, philosophers predited, and revelation, it is believed many, expressly predicted."-Agririculturist.

FATTENING ' ANIMALS . - Whatever may be the food given, two indispensables must be observed, namely, cleanliness in both, animal and food, and regularity. We have known half the value of food wasted by filth and discomfort,-worse than throwing away cash; and we have known animals to waste more flesh by fretting long for an expected meal,- than the food festored.

PAINT TOOLS .- Carts, plaws, wagons and other articles, should have a good coat of paintearly in every autumn. They are now dry, and all cracks will absorb the paint and prevent the ingress of water at a later season. Wash them perfectly elein, of course. A light colored paint is best, as it absorbs least of the sun's ray-. Dark paints cause the wood to become hot in the sun. and warp and craek.

CLEANING OUT AN OBSTRUCTED DRAIN. -This has been successfully effected by using a large eel, which works itself slowly through followed by the water.

WHEAT CULTIVATED IN HILLS, A writer in the Gennesee Farmer says that he has tried the cultivation of wheat in hills like corn, having the hills two feet apart each way, and two or three plants to the hill. And he reports obtaining from a small plot of ground, a crop so large as to be equal to two hundred bushels to the acre. The soil is kept stirred and cultivated during the growth of the crop.

INVERTED POSTS .--- A correspondent of the Wisconsin Farmer says, that in 1802, his father set two bar posts, cut of wanp whitebak, the stick being split into halves; and one set inverted, the other not. The latter was decayed twenty years afterwards -the inverted one, when he last visited the place, forty years after setting was as sound as ever.

VINEGAR.—One 'quart of molasses; 5 gallons of rain water; 1 pint of yeast-let it stand four woeks.

The saying that "there is more pleasu e in giving than receiving," is sup-posed to apply chiefly to kicks, medicine and advice.
