CARLISLE, PA. Wednesday, March 9, 1859.

We have devoted nearly all of our first page, to an abstract of the report of Messrs. Sherman and Ritchie of the Committee appointed by Congress to investigate the alleged frauds in the Navy Department, to which we invite the careful attention of our readers. It is an important document and should be carefully filed away for future -reference-

CONGRESSIONAL.

The thirty-fifth Congress closed its session on Friday the 4th instant, at 12 o'clock, M., by limitation. A vast amount of public business was not reached at all, owing to an unpardonable wiste of time; while other measures of prime importance, were crowded into the last hours of the session, and hurried through the House, giving a practical illustration of the beauties of "hasty legisla" tion." The Post office appropriation bill, so essential to the proper administration of that branch of the public service, was lost. The bill appropriated $20,000,000; over 3,-000,000 of which was to meet the deficiency of last year, and unless the President should call an extra session to provide means, many of-the-mail-contractors will-have to stop, or go on trust.

Mr. Slidell's Thirty Millions, for the acquisition of Cuba; the bill granting pensions to the soldiers of the war of 1812, and the Pacific Railroad bill were thrown aside. The miscellaneous appropriation bill, reduces the estimates, about six millions, but extends the Treasury note law for two years. An act to establish a general Banking Law. sage, is uncertain. What its ultimate effect may be on business, we leave to those more competent to judge. We do not believe that the citizens of Pennsylvania outside of Philadelphia at least, are in favor of such a law, and if asked for at a l, it is either by those who are always ready to exchange an old system for a new one, or to give increased facili ties for shaving operations

The Banks of Pennsylvania with few if any exceptions, are now on a safe and reliable regard to the business wants of the communiocalities in the State, where there is sufficient legitimate business to sustain a Bank, that change the present system, and throw banking privileges open to competition would be to flood the State, in a short time, with "promises to pay," to the entire exclusion almost, of very gratifying whole. We do not mean that gold and silver coin. The following are some of the provisions of the new law as reported:

"The great tendency of the period is to over-exertion and stimulation in every department—the haste to be accounted learned. of the fable of the hare and the tortoise, is more frequently neglected than heeded.

As a general thing children are sent to school too young, and if they manifest any evidences of smartness. they are encouraged and urged forward to a degree their powers are unable bear; the number of their studies is increased, and so much imposed on themanot only in school, but in preparation for school, that they are not able to take that amount of physical exercise which their age requires and demands.

Under ten years of age very little mental effort should be required of children, and they should be allowed a large amount of exercise, bodily health and strength being more necessary and desirable than any learning which, at that age, they may be supposed capable of acquiring.
But while mistakes are occasionally committed in urging of waid children of this rige, we are convinced an incalculable amount of injury is done to those who have parsed the age of ten, and are preparing for that education which is designed to fit them for the more active duties of life. We are fully impressed with the belief, not only from our own expenses the probability in the control of the control rience, but by the reiterated testimony of others whose opportuilties are much greater that the youth of both sexes, between the ages of Town and County

The Wurzle Association is composed of some of the most estimable gentlemen and ludies of the town, and is the object commends itself to the attention of every one who is moved by a "concord of sweet-sounds," we hope their concert may be liberally patronized.

GOOD BEEF .- There is nothing which ends so much to give character to the markets of any town, as the quality of beef which brought in weekly by the regular butchers. and we have seldom seen a better quality of beef even in the Philadelphia market; that ons exhibited in our own, at Mondy's stall, ist week. The luscious looking sirloin and plendid roasts, would have made the mouth of an epicure water, and the way his custom ers carried it off, showed that they were judge of good beef when they saw it. Jem knows how to enter for the public taste, and as he has twelve head more "of the same sort left, he seems determined, as far as he is concerned, to show that the Carlisle Market is econd to none for good beef. If you wish to be convinced, go to his stall and get a tronst and steak."

> "How are you off for Soap?"-This cant'phrase, has been practically realized by the celebrated Professor GARDNER, whose wit, humor and originality, as shown in his oratorical efforts to sell his soap, has made him known in this country and Emerge, as one of the originals of the age. The Professor is now in Carlisle, and if the weather is favorable, he will talk to the citizens before he leaves; when he will demonstrate the fact, that even a subject so unpromising as soap, can be made the foundation of a speech sparkling with gems of wit, poetry and eloouence. This is neither a burlesque, nor a fancy sketch; the testimonials we have seen of his ability in this line, afford abundant evidence of the truth of what we say, and if he should give one of his free lectures in town, we advise every one who wishes to be instructed or amused, to go; especially if they want to buy a cake of soap.

THE WINTER AND THE GRASS .- Th fluctuations in the weather during the presen winter have had a disastrous effect up clover crops in many parts of Chester county. In some of the fields, the roots of the grass have been thrown out of the ground by the suc-cessive freezing and thawing. Even the clover in the stubble is much injured. One of our farmer's informs us that he will be obliged to plow his clover field in the Spring .-- West

The above paragraph will also apply to this county; several of our farmers complain of the effect of the past winter on their clover fields. If it should be the case generally throughout the state, hay will rank at a high figure this summer.

NEW ENGLAND FARMER.-This is one of the most ably conduced Agricultural Jour nals in the country; and its value is much increased by the fine engravings with which each number is illustrated. The March number contains a design for a farm house in the rural gothic style, which, in the interior arrangement and outside appearance is superior to any we have yet seen. We should like to see it adopted by some of our furmers.

The N. E. Farmer is published at Boston by J. Nourse, at one dollar a year.

Good Skating By a Lady —A young lady of Newburyport, who, is company with might or lady, a few days since, wished to go from Lowell to Lawrence, preferred skates and the Merrimacito the cars and railroad, and mad the passage of ten miles in forty minutes. For some portion of the way there was a streng head win i, or the feat might have been occouplished in less time.
