FINANCIAL.

"We understand that there is now in circulation in this county, large quantities of the notes of the Central Bank of Pennsylvania at Hollidaysburg. This paper is quoted in the Philadelphia Bank Note List, at 1 per cent discount, but there seems to be a want of confidence in the stability of the bank, as neither the Carlisle Deposit Bank, nor the Cumberland Valley Bank are willing to take it on deposit. We have no desire to say a word that would injure the standing of any banking institution but as some one is engaged in putting the pa_ per of the Central bank into circulation, in this county, we consider it our duty to suggest to our farmers and business men, the propriety of being careful.

Our circulation here, is in a healthy state, and our banks are interested in keeping it so, if the people will second their efforts by-dis countenancing all doubtful paper.

GIVE THE DEVIL HIS DUE.

Whatever faults may be charged against Mr. Buchanan, during his administration of public affairs, the people will willingly give him credit for one good act-the Destruction of the Democratic party. This hydra-headed monster of free trade, slavery extension, and official dictation once scattered to the four winds, the great American policy, which has been advocated by the ablest statesmen of the country, will be inaugurated, and cover the country with blessings and benefits. A union of the opposition, under the lead of a Presidential candidate, pledged to the protective American policy, as the main issue, will place the Government under the control of menwhose highest ambition will be to foster the growing interest of the whole country, by giving adequate protection to the r the plough the loom and the anvil.

The case yeas submitted without argument o the jury, and the result seemed to have een anticipated by every one.

The scenes enacted in the Court Room, on he rendition of the vervict, were well calcuated to weaken confidence in the power of the law to punish offenders, and make a trial by jury in criminal cases, a mere farce. The man who shoots down another in the street, is not only acquitted, but the verdict is rendered amid shouts and cheers, and a triumphant procession is formed, in which asses, in the shape of men, are ready to take the place of horses, in drawing the carriage of the criminal from the Court House to his hotel." THE CLOSING SCENES.

As the words "not guilty" fell from the lips of the foreman, there was one loud, wild, thrilling, tumultuous harra sent up by the spectators. Cheer after cheer was responded to in the court room, and was taken up by the multitude on the outside and repeated. Hats and headkershife ware wayed and there was and handkerchiefs were waved, and there was one general rush toward the dock. In the midst of the uproar the stentorian voice of Mr. Stanton was heard addressing the court-in these words: "I move that Mr. Sickes be discharged from custody."

Mr. Sickles, amid the renewed cheers of the addience, was taken out of the dock by Cap tain Wiley and Mr. Brega. The former; who is one of Mr. Sickles' most devoted friends, kissed him at the moment of his deliverance, and held fast by him as they make their way to the door. It was slow work, for congratu lations, earnest, loud, and frankly pressed, saluted Mr Sickles at all points, and though strong emotion was exhibited in the swollen veins of his temples, his eye was calm and steady, and the effort which he manifestly made to retain calmness and composure was successful. His expression betrayed no feeling of joy, but was rather that of a man who felt conscious that he had run no risk, and that the trial through which he had passed could have had no other result. It was some could have had no other result. It was some minutes before he reached the jury-box, which lay on his road to the door. While on this subject we may as well add the following from a Washington paper:

A Mysreny; Among the mysteries of life is the difference in the punishment which society awards to male and female sinners. A notable illustration of this was exhibited in the finale of the tragic scene at Washington. The man who sacrificed a wretched woman at the shrine of sensuality, is followed to his grave by a grand procession, and his magnifi-cent coffin decorated with garlands. In the cold hand of the adulterer are placed flowers, mblematic of innocence and purity. The fe agle partner of his crime is universally deser ted and despised, and, if she should die to-morrow, would probably go to her grave una-tended, save by her immediate relatives, and of human charity, the sympathies of an excel-ent and sensible world are lavished on the usband, who, with a full knowledge of the character of the adulterer, and with repeated warnings of his criminal designs, left his young and giddy wife to his mercy, permitted him to be her escort to the theatre and other public plabe herescort to the theatre and other public pla-ces, and, as if by design, threw temptation and opportunity in her way. This man who is accused by the press of his own oity of being himself a veteran roue, and of having himself, been often guilty of the very crime for which he killed Philip Barton Key, is lionized and visited in his prison, and overwhelmed with demonstrations of respect, from the President to the tide-waiter, whilst his wife is made the scape goat and upon her solitory head break scape gont, and upon her solitary head break the thunders of that society which strews its flowers over the grave of Key, and bedews with sympathetic tears the unclean and bloody

TRADE. - The foreign importations this Spring, are nearly fifty millions greater than they were for the same period in 1858.

The filial love of the clergy of his see, and the many warm friends who admired his talents, his mental acquirements, the good ness of his heart, and the benevolence of his disposition in life, and who now sorrow for his death, are the best testimonials that can be offered as becoming tributes to character.

Patent Champion Sate.

Late-Fire at Dubuque, lowa-Dunuque, Jan. 7, 1859. Gents: I am requested by Mr. T. A. C. Cochrane, of this place, to say to you that on the morning of the 4th instant, about 3 o'clock, his store took fire, and the entire stock of goods was destroyed. The heat became so suddenly intense that none of the goods could possibly he saved; but fortunately his books and paper which were in one of your Champion Safes, were all preserved perfectly. And well they may be called Champion, for during the whole conflagration there was one linessant, pouring of flame directly upon the safe which contained them: And still, upon opening it, the inside was found to be scarcely warm, while the outside inside was round to sorched. Yours truly,
N. A. McCLURE.

WORMS: WORMS:

WORMS! WORMS!

AP A great many learned treatises have been written, explaining the origin of, and classifying the worms genurated in the human system. Scarcely any topic of medical schutce has elicited more acute observation and profound research; and yet physicians are very much divided in origino in the subject. It must be admitted, however, that, after all, a mode of expelling these worms, and purifying the body from their presence, is of more value than the wisest disquisitions as to the origin. The expelling agent has at length been found—IB. NPLANS'S VERMITOUS, prepared by Henning Bros. is the much sought after specific; and has already superseded all other worm medicines; its efficacy being universally acknowledged by medicines and practitioners.
