TERS call appeal with perfect confidence to physicians and citizens generally of the United States, because the article has attained a reputation heretofore unknown. A'few facts up this point will speak more powerfully than volumes of bare assertion or blazoning puffery. The-consumption of Hostetter's Nonacl Bit-ters for the last year amounted to over a halfinflict holds, and year impointed to over a haif-million holdes, and from its manifest steady increase in times past, it is evident that during the coming year the consumption will reach near one anillion bottles. This immense amount could never have been sold but for the raro diseases, is to the proprietors a source of un-alloyed pleasure. It removes all morbid matter from the stomach, purifies the blood, and imparts renewed vitality to the nervous system, giving it that tone and energy indispensable for the restoration of health. It operates upon the stomach, liver, and other digestive organs, mildly but powerfully, and soon restores them to accondition essential to the healthy discharge of the functions of rative of questions asked by a Jersey man, residing almost in the midst of the very region that produces three-fourths of the very ranker, is supplying the Philadelphia market. Nevertheless we shall brief answers give to the best of our knowledge.

1. Sandy soil, by all means.
2. Break it wy with the alphi for the start of the solution of t

2. Break it up with the plow, if practicable by reason of the moisture; at any rate clear it of all other vegetation. 3. This depends upon circumstances;

as a rule about 21 feet apart each way. The best cranberry yards, are those covering the surface in one dense mass which, as the cranberry throws out runners in the proper soil several feet in a season, this is soon the case where the weeds are kept down the first season.

4. Water, sand and air, are what the cranberry flourishes in the best. The water should lie not more than a foot below the surface. Low or marshy meadows not too heavy, will answer very well for this fruit.

5. Moisture is everything to the cran-berry, irrigation would be necessary for upland yards, but it would be attended with considerable labor and expense; hence we cannot recommend 'upland cultivation with a view to profit. 6. Remove the weeds by hoe or hand the first two seasons, and the cranberry vines will take care to smother them to death afterwards.

7, The cranberry should be planted in the spring, say from the middle of March to the middle of May, to avoid freezing out the first winter, which is often the case if planted in the fall The second year after that the vines may be considored as in full bearing, though frequently in one year after good grops are gathered. 8. Northern exposures are best for a oranberry yard; and if a little shaded still better.—They are sometimes damaged by the changes of temperature in the winter-that is by exposure to a warm sun during the day, and hard frost in the night. It should be borne in mind that nearly all damage to trees, shrubs and vines, during winter, is caused .by exposure to the sun.

9. Hand-gathering would save the vines from injury, it is true, but the labor would be tedious and expensive, and in a great measure destroy the profit of the crop. The injury, so called to the vines by the rake, is not really hurtful, but rather the contrary.

10. Let the fruit be as sound as possible, and pack in good casks, (barrels) press down gently, and head up. Stow thom where the temperature is pretty. equable. We know of no better method. –Еd.
