

A. K. RUEBE, Proprietor, Wm. M. P. RICH, Editor.

A PAPER FOR THE FAMILY CIRCLE.

$1 50 per annum in advance $2 00 if not paid in advance

VOL. LX.

CARLISLE, PA., FRIDAY, OCTOBER 12, 1860.

NO. 50.

Business Cards.

J. W. HOLL, Attorney at Law, Office with J. H. Smith, Esq., in office, in rear of First Presbyterian Church.

A. J. BENDER, M. D. (HOMEOPATHIST), PHYSICIAN, SINGING & ACCOUBER.

DR. S. B. KIEFFER, Office in North Hanover street, two doors from Arnold & Son's.

DR. GEO. Z. BRITZ, Dentist, Office at the corner of Third and Walnut streets.

DR. GEORGE S. SEAR, Office at the corner of Third and Walnut streets.

DOCTOR ARMSTRONG has removed his office to the South-west corner of Hanover and North streets.

DR. J. G. NEFF, Office at the corner of Third and Walnut streets.

DR. L. C. LOOMIS, Office at the corner of Third and Walnut streets.

DR. W. NEIDICH, D. D. S., Office at the corner of Third and Walnut streets.

DR. W. HAVENSTOCK, Druggist, Office at the corner of Third and Walnut streets.

REMOVAL, A. S. SPONSLER, Office at the corner of Third and Walnut streets.

LAW OFFICE—CHARLES E. MAHONEY, Office at the corner of Third and Walnut streets.

JOHN HAYS, Attorney at Law, Office at the corner of Third and Walnut streets.

C. P. HUMPHRIS, Attorney at Law, Office at the corner of Third and Walnut streets.

LAW NOTICE—REMOVAL—W. J. M. PINHOUS, Office at the corner of Third and Walnut streets.

LAW OFFICE—LEMOUEL TODD, Office at the corner of Third and Walnut streets.

ANDREW J. WILCOX, Attorney at Law, Office at the corner of Third and Walnut streets.

APRILS REDUCED, STATES UNION HOTEL, 606 & 608 Market St., above sixth.

UNITED STATES HOTEL, S. E. Cor. 11th & Market Sts.

N. HANTCH, MERCHANT TAILOR, WEST MAIN STREET, Opposite the Rail Road Office.

H. NEWSHAM, ATTORNEY AT LAW, Office with Wm. H. Miller, Esq., South Hanover Street.

Coal! Coal! TO FARMERS AND LIMEBURNERS AND OTHERS.

FINE WATCH REPAIRING—F. C. KREMER, at the New Jersey Store on East Main street.

THE CELEBRATED HORSE "CHARLES HARRIS", The property of the Cumberland Co. Agricultural Society.

CARLISLE MILLS, The subscriber would inform the citizens of Carlisle and surrounding country that he has taken the mill known as Carlisle Mill.

PURIFY THE BLOOD.

VEGETABLE LIFE PILLS, AND PHOENIX BITTERS.

The high and varied celebrity which these pills have acquired in all the diseases which they profess to cure, has rendered the usual practice of physicians to prescribe them, with little or no regard to their merits.

GENERAL DEBILITY, Gout, Gravel, Rheumatism, Headache, Neuralgia, Epilepsy, Locomotor Ataxia, and other diseases.

DR. WILLIAM R. MOFFAT, Preparing for sale by all Druggists.

NOTICE AND READ THIS.

At the New Store on East Main St., I have a large stock of goods.

LIBERTY STORE WORKS AND HOLLOW-WAY FOUNDRY.

Manufacturers of the most approved styles of STOVES of every description.

WEST HILL MILLS.

The subscriber has the honor to announce that he has commenced the Milling Business at the Mill on the West Hill.

SCION SPRING ARRIVAL.

LARGE SUPPLIES FOR THE HEAD AND FEET, at the Scion Spring.

CLOCKS WATCHES JEWELRY.

W. A. Sample, at the corner of Third and Walnut streets.

TERMS OF PUBLICATION.

The Carlisle Herald is published weekly on a large sheet of paper, containing six columns and furnished to subscribers at $1 50 per annum in advance.

ADVERTISEMENTS.

Advertisements will be charged $1 00 per square of twelve lines for three insertions, and 25 cents for each subsequent insertion.

JOB PRINTING.

The Carlisle Herald Job Printing Office is the largest and most complete establishment in the county.

SELECTED POETRY.

The following beautiful poem, entitled "The Graveyard at West Point," is from the pen of William Allen Butler.

There, side by side, the dark green sods cluster, And the most complete establishment in the county.

THE CHAMBER OF THE INN AT ST. IVES.

I received an urgent letter from the sub-agent of St. Ives calling me to copy and unravel the mystery of many murders committed there.

SCION SPRING ARRIVAL.

LARGE SUPPLIES FOR THE HEAD AND FEET, at the Scion Spring.

CLOCKS WATCHES JEWELRY.

W. A. Sample, at the corner of Third and Walnut streets.

FRENCH & AMERICAN CLOCKS.

Foreign and American Watches, Jewelry, Silver and Plated Ware, at the corner of Third and Walnut streets.

and have now the sum of five thousand francs with me. I permit you to count this over before you, but in case any unfortunate should deprive me of it before reaching Calais, you may certify to my creditors by a post-mortem of the money at this time.

Producing a pathetic pocket book, the wine merchant counted its contents. The sum was correct as he had stated five thousand francs. M. Berret, also at his request, became a witness to his possession of the money.

The diligence now came to a stop before the inn, and the passengers hastened to leave the one for the other. After we had taken our supper, I accompanied the sub-agent to his room, where for an hour we talked on the subject of our mission to St. Ives, and the probabilities of success.

Nothing unusual occurred during the night, if I may make one exception, which it may be well to mention in this place. I had been sleeping for more than two hours, and was lying in a half-conscious state when I was awakened by a very strong snoring sound.

Upon inquiring for the sub-agent the next morning, I was told that he had risen before me and left the inn. The idea occurred to me that I might have an opportunity to pass half an hour with Monsieur Lemare; and addressing the landlady, I inquired if she would be so good as to call for me.

Passing into the street, I strolled along in search of the sub-agent. I had continued my walk for some time, when I perceived a man sitting in a corner, I was brought to a stop by a singular and terrible scene. A number of persons were crowded in confusion upon the sidewalk, and among them I saw the sub-agent.

I returned immediately to the hotel, and at the expiration of the appointed time, M. Berret entered my room. "There is," he said, in a voice laboring under the weight of great excitement, "a man lying upon the body of this unfortunate man. It has been plundered of everything valuable."

"I will do so, and with pleasure. Frank whatever plans you wish, please means you please. I will be guided by you in all things pertaining to the business." "This will be well. But one thing more, Monsieur Berret. You must be as secret as the grave. Do not upon any consideration, let it be known in St. Ives that there is a detective officer near to these murders, and above all, do not suffer yourself to make inquiry concerning these murders. Leave me to ask all the questions in my particular manner."

The sub-agent promised full compliance with my instructions, and in a few moments we were rolled through the darkness and rain into the village of St. Ives. During these few moments, however, an incident occurred which necessarily had an important bearing upon my narrative.

"An easy death! Now for the spoils!" I heard the same voice say. And at the same instant, the head and shoulders of the intruder were thrust out from the bed-chamber. Covering him with one of my pistols, I said, "Come forth, air, and deliver yourself up. Your innocent guest is no other than a detective officer. Don't attempt to escape. I shall certainly fire if you do!"

But he did not. I stepped aside a pistol ball after him. The report was succeeded by a deep groan, and instantly M. Berret and the assistants rushed in. A hasty search was sufficient to discover the landlady under the bed, wailing in his blood, and the hostler was seized before he had an opportunity to close the secret panel in the wall, through which he attempted to escape.

"I have no doubt that you have arrived at the truth," the sub-agent replied. "And now, what do you propose to do? Would it not be better to arrest this inn-keeper and his landlord at once?"

"I am positive of it, and not only he, but each of the other victims. And I am also inclined to believe that every one of these midnight assassinations has been committed in the adjoining chamber."

"I have no doubt that you have arrived at the truth," the sub-agent replied. "And now, what do you propose to do? Would it not be better to arrest this inn-keeper and his landlord at once?"

"I am positive of it, and not only he, but each of the other victims. And I am also inclined to believe that every one of these midnight assassinations has been committed in the adjoining chamber."

"I have no doubt that you have arrived at the truth," the sub-agent replied. "And now, what do you propose to do? Would it not be better to arrest this inn-keeper and his landlord at once?"

"I am positive of it, and not only he, but each of the other victims. And I am also inclined to believe that every one of these midnight assassinations has been committed in the adjoining chamber."

"I have no doubt that you have arrived at the truth," the sub-agent replied. "And now, what do you propose to do? Would it not be better to arrest this inn-keeper and his landlord at once?"

"An easy death! Now for the spoils!" I heard the same voice say. And at the same instant, the head and shoulders of the intruder were thrust out from the bed-chamber.

But he did not. I stepped aside a pistol ball after him. The report was succeeded by a deep groan, and instantly M. Berret and the assistants rushed in.

"I have no doubt that you have arrived at the truth," the sub-agent replied. "And now, what do you propose to do? Would it not be better to arrest this inn-keeper and his landlord at once?"

"I am positive of it, and not only he, but each of the other victims. And I am also inclined to believe that every one of these midnight assassinations has been committed in the adjoining chamber."

"I have no doubt that you have arrived at the truth," the sub-agent replied. "And now, what do you propose to do? Would it not be better to arrest this inn-keeper and his landlord at once?"

"I am positive of it, and not only he, but each of the other victims. And I am also inclined to believe that every one of these midnight assassinations has been committed in the adjoining chamber."

"I have no doubt that you have arrived at the truth," the sub-agent replied. "And now, what do you propose to do? Would it not be better to arrest this inn-keeper and his landlord at once?"

"I am positive of it, and not only he, but each of the other victims. And I am also inclined to believe that every one of these midnight assassinations has been committed in the adjoining chamber."

"I have no doubt that you have arrived at the truth," the sub-agent replied. "And now, what do you propose to do? Would it not be better to arrest this inn-keeper and his landlord at once?"

More than half a century since a New-England farmer boy entered Harvard college as a student. The class to which he belonged was assembled in the room of one of their number for one of those convivial meetings which were common to those days.

A man dressed in a leamster's frock drove a load of the produce of his farm to Cambridge. After transacting his business he entered the College yard and enquired of a lad he met there for J. T. T. The little scold fellow, thinking to mortify the young man, took him to the room occupied by the class, and opening the door, said, "Here is a gentleman who wishes to see you."

"I must relate my first and last experiment in training a dog to keep family secrets. He was a chattering, and as he visited among strangers without me, I was fearful he might tell more than he ought."

"I must relate my first and last experiment in training a dog to keep family secrets. He was a chattering, and as he visited among strangers without me, I was fearful he might tell more than he ought."

"I must relate my first and last experiment in training a dog to keep family secrets. He was a chattering, and as he visited among strangers without me, I was fearful he might tell more than he ought."

"I must relate my first and last experiment in training a dog to keep family secrets. He was a chattering, and as he visited among strangers without me, I was fearful he might tell more than he ought."

"I must relate my first and last experiment in training a dog to keep family secrets. He was a chattering, and as he visited among strangers without me, I was fearful he might tell more than he ought."

"I must relate my first and last experiment in training a dog to keep family secrets. He was a chattering, and as he visited among strangers without me, I was fearful he might tell more than he ought."

"I must relate my first and last experiment in training a dog to keep family secrets. He was a chattering, and as he visited among strangers without me, I was fearful he might tell more than he ought."