was called to administer the vows of wedlock to a pair of happy lovers in the widow Blynn's cottage; and the next morning there went abroad the report of a marriage which surprised the good people of the parish generally, and Judge Boxton more particularly

In the afternoon of that day Cephas rode home to pay his respects to the old gentleman, and ask him if he would like an introduction to the bride.

"Cephas !" cried the judge, filled with wrath, smiting his son's written agreement with his angry hand, "look here ! your promise! Have you forgotten?" "Read it, please," said Cophas.

"In consideration -" began the Judge, running his troubled eye over the paper "I do horeby pledge myself, never at any time, or in any place, to marry any poor girl."

"You will find," said Cephas, "that I have acted according to the strictest terms of our agreement,

And I have the honor to inform you, sir, that I have married a person who, with other attractions, possesses the handsome trifle of three thousand dol-The Judge foamed, made use of an oath or two, and talked loudly of disinheritance and cutting off with a shilling. "I should be very sorry to have you do such a thing," rejoined Cephas, respectfally; "but after all, it isn't as though I had not received a neat little fortune by the way of my wife."

A retort so happy, that the Judge ended with a hearty acknowledgement of his son's superior wit, and an invitation to come and lodge his lovely encumbrance beneath the parental roof.

Thereupon Cephas took a roll of notes from his pocket. "All jesting aside," said he, "I must square a little matter of business with which my wife has commissioned me. She is more scrupulous than the son of my father, and she refused to receive the money until I had promised to return it to you as soon as we were married. And here it is!"

"Fie, fie!" cried the Judge. "Keep the money. She's a noble girl after all -too good for a rogue like you!" "I know it!" said Cephas, humbly, with many tears in his eyes, for recollec-tions of a somewhat wild and wayward youth, mingling with the conscious possession of so much love and happiness, melted his heart with unspeakable contrition and gratitude.

Faith in man yields to no powers nor principalities of darkness-hath no trust in the promises of earth-ascribes nothing to chance-fears nothing from man-or thinks that anything can prevent or further its immutability or design but Omnipresence,

There is a man in the West who has moved so often, that whenever a covered wagon comes near his house, his chickens all march up and fall on their -backs, and cross their iegs, ready to be tied and carried to the next stopping

A country carpenter, nailing up a board to forbid vagrants trespassing, placed it with the inscription upside down. "Beggars are accustomed to reverses,"observed a facetious passer-by.

The latest advertisement of an airtight coffin is, that it protects the form from decomposition, "and can be retained in the parlor as an elegant piece of furniture, without any annoyance whatever."

ed stages of the latter disease.

The Balsamic Cordial is entirely a Vegetable producion, combining the healing properties of the Balsam, ith the invigorating qualities of a Cordial, producing combination so well adapted to the purposes intendit, that there are but fow cases of disease which will of, at an early period, succumb to its healing and life iving properties.

For ages, has the treatment of pulmonary diseases cupied the greater portion of the attention of the ientific of the medical world, but none acquired more minence in his treatment of these diseases, than the debrated Prussian Dr. Hoofland, then originator of the atsanic Cordial. His life was devoted to the production of remedies that would, stand unrivalled. Howell he has succeeded, the American people are able to adgre: and we positively assert, that no preparations not have ever been placed before them, have conferred he same amount of benefits on suffering humanity, or ave clicited so many commendations from all classes facility, as the remedies of Dr. Hoofland, prepared by rr. C. M. Jackson & Co., of Philadelphia.

The Cordial is designed for a class of diseases more eneral and more fatal than any other to which the opple of this country are subject—those springing from "Stiturt cot." That eminent authority, Dr. Bell, ays: "I will not say that Colds to our inhabitants that the Placucand Yellow Frenare to those of other ountries; but I can aver confidently that they usher a disease of greater compileity and mortality than these atter."

Glard ilouse, Philadelphia:

Prof. Chas. De Grath—I freely give it as my opinion that your Electric Oil is among the most wonderful remedies of modern times. At the earnost request of a lady, who alleged that she had been cured of a most painful aff. clion by its use, I was induced to try a bottle, though at the time of purchasing, I fully believed it to be a quack medicine and a catchponny humbur, list a trial convinces me that it possesses a magic power, and it will prove a blessing to suffering humanity.

I recently took a cold from sleeping in damp sheets, and my neck became so much swollen and painful that I could not turn my head.

After using, without success, everything prescribed by my physiciau, I last évening tried your Electric Oil. This morning I am well, the relief having been as complete as it was instantaneous.

A LECTURE ON THE NATURE,

A TREATMENT, AND RADIOAL CURE OF SPRIGATORICA, or Sentianl Weakness, Sexual Deblitty, Noryousness, and involuntary emissions, producing impotency, Consumption and Mental and Physical Deblitty.

By RORT, J. CULVERWELL, M. D.

The Important fact that the awful consequences of self abuse mry be effectually removed without internal modicines or the dangerous applications of caustics, instruments, medicated bougles, and other empirical devises, is here clearly demonstrated, and the entirely new and highly successful transment, as adopted by the celebrated author fully explained, by means of which every one is enabled to cure himself perfectly, and at the least possible cost, thereby avoiding all the advertised nostrums of the day. This lecture will prove a boon to thousands and thousands.
