At best, they have a thankless duty to perform, and consequently those best qualified are reluctant to have their names used in bonnection with these offices. The present is no time to nominate strict party tickets, and even if it were, it is not always expedient to Introduce political questions in our borough elections. When the community delegate their power to the officers constituted under the charter, it is for the purpose of having the borough affairs faithfully and judiciously managed. All good citizens can join in promoting this object, and the way to do so most effectually is to unite in the support of suitable men, regardless of party affiliation, or the suggestions of those who are clamorous for official patronage.
