Hor virtues, however, were of that peculiarly retiring and ministering character which so often escape the appliance of a busy world and are especially appreciated only when affliction comes or when their silent influence is lost forever. Caeliste, April 7, 1862.

I take pleasure in stating that Mrs. Grossman, who has suffered from a slight attack of varioloid has now entirely recovered. Whitet we filt satisfied that from the first there was no danger of transmitting the disease through the Bakery, it was thought light that Mr. Grossman's customers should not in any way he imposed upon, and hence he made a frank statement of his afflictions. Now, that his wife has entirely recovered, it is hoped that his termer business relations will be regamed as usual.
