order to give Mr. Mifflin an opportunity of addressing the large audience present. The answering and proposing of questions was next taken up and disposed of with much interest. The Superintendent frequently participated in this exercise, and seemed highly gratified with it. He considered it a very useful auxiliary to an institute. After the disposition of this exercise an opportunity was extended to and accepted by Mr. Mifflin to address the meeting. He made a very appropriate and stirring educational address. In the course of his remarks he spoke of the excellent workings of the Pennspleania Common School System, proved it styleania Common School System, proved it the best ever contrived, and thought it lacked but one thing, and that was the compulto the best prints in the county on hand at all prices.

We also have on hand ur usual assertment of sylvania Common School System, proved it ed but one thing, and that was the compulsory clause of some of the European States' system. He tried to prev il upon the parents the great necessity of sending children regularly to school, and showed the sail results arising from a neglect of this duty; he tried to impress upon parents the importance of frequently visiting schools; he thought it had a very stimulating and wholesome effect on the scholars, and would be very encouraging to the teacher. He thought parents should at least manifest as much desire for the welfare and care of their children as they would for their domestic animals, which he had no doubt received at their hands all the necessary care and supervision their comfort and prosperity required. He closed by an appeal to the scholars. He tried to impress upon their minds the importance of close application and perseverance He said in a few years hence they would be the men and women of our country-upon them would rest our country's weal or woe, and that it is necessary that they should try to prepare and fit themselves so as to be able to properly discharge the duties that will so soon devolve upon them. The following resolution was then read and adopted: Resolved, That the thanks of the Institute

Slave Power, from the Annexati n of Texas to the great Rebellion, to grasp the compared the New World and whold the resources of our country for its own aggrandizement—Republican in its antagonism to the aristocrats and despots of the fold World, who fondly hail in the perils and calamities suddenly thrust upon us by their American counterpart the overthrow and ruin of the Model Republic—Republic in its hope and trust, its faith and effort, that this atrocious Rebellion must result in the signal overthrow of its plotters, and the firm establishment of equal rights and equal laws throughout the whole extent of our country, wherein Liberty and Union shall indeed be "one

ILLUSTRATED SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN-The Best Mechanical Paper in the World.

EIGHTEENTH YEAR. VOLUME VIII - NEW SERIES.

NEW volume of this popular Jour-nal commences on the first of January. It is published weekly, and every number contains sixteen pages of useful information, and from five to ten origiwhich are prepared expressly for its columns. To the Mechanic and Manufacturer.

No person engaged in any of the mechanical or manufacturing pursuits should think of "doing without" the Scientific American. It costs but six cents per week; every number contains from six to ten engageings of new machines and inventions, which can not be found in any other publication. To the Inventor.

The Scientific American is undispensable to every is The Scientific American is undispensable to every inven or, as it not only contains illustrated descriptions of nearly all the best inventions as they come out, but each number contains an Official List of the Claims of all the Patents issued from the United States Patent Office during the week previous; thus giving a correct history of the progress of inventions in this country. We are also receiving, overy week, the best scientific journals of Great Britain, France, and Germany; thus placing in our possession all that is transpiring in mechanical science and art in these old countries. We shall continue to transfer to our columns copious extracts from these journals of whatever we may deem of interest to our readers.

The Atlantic Monthly. BEGINNING OF A NEW VOLUME.

The Number for January, 1868, begins the Eleventh Volume of the Atlantic Monthly. ROM the commencement, in 1857, the Atlantic Monthly has rapidly increased in circulation, and it now has the largest class of readers since its beginning, five years ago. Its prospority steadily augments, and it continues, amid allethe fluctuations and dangers incident to our national crisis, to gain ground in the estimation of the public. At a time so per man with events with touch the future destines of America in every vital particular, the Publishers and Editors do not deem it necessary to promise that its pages will never swerve from the honest paths of loyal particular and universal freedom. Its opinions have always been on the side of Liberty, Progress and Right, and the course it first adopted in its early career will ever be faithfully materially contributing to the Atlantic Monthly, embraces all the best known writers in American literature, and warrants the Publishers in promising to its readers,
