

maneuver received his request, when the act of the first rioter attracted the attention of the remainder, and a number of them surrounded him.

They struck him with their hands and with stones, and seeing that he could not resist them, he withdrew to the place where the police were posted. The rioters followed him with great clubs, and the men, who were desperate, beat him upon the body and head, and his head was so badly bruised that blood flowed profusely, when he was thrown down and kicked.

He afterwards escaped by the aid of the police and one or two of his friends; but the rioters followed him, striking him with clubs. He is so badly injured that there is but little probability of his recovery.

Several persons were injured by stones, and there are rumors that men have since been killed.

MEMBERS FOR SUPPRESSING THE RIOT. General Wool and authorities at the Brooklyn navy yard have been notified of the disturbances, and a large force of United States marines, besides a considerable number of soldiers of the regular army, have been ordered into instant service. Gen. Saxford has called upon the officers of the militia.

LATEST. The latest movements reported (up to 2 o'clock) are to the effect that the mob has increased to some thousands, and is wandering about the city. Apparently, the rioters have no concerted plan, operations being entirely spontaneous and actively at work to preserve the peace of the city.

It is said that Superintendent Kennedy appeared at the scene of the disturbance, and was much injured.

THE VERY LATEST. The riot still in progress—Governor Seymour's Declaration—The military and naval forces—The city in a state of alarm—The Governor's Declaration—The military and naval forces—The city in a state of alarm.

New York, July 14—Evening—Governor Seymour has issued a proclamation stating that the riotous demonstration originating in opposition to the conscription has settled to vast proportions.

He says he knows that many would have gone to such extremes, unless apprehensive of injustice, but reminds them that the only opposition which can be allowed is an appeal to the courts of law, and the right to such appeals will be maintained, and the decisions of the courts must be respected.

All riotous proceedings must and shall be put down. The laws of the State must be enforced, peace and order maintained, and life and property protected.

He then, in conclusion, calls on all rioters to retire, declaring that he will use all the necessary power to restore order.

Hundreds of the city, many of which are exaggerations. The fact alone has been enough. In Yorkville and Harlem the rioters have been demolishing houses. No arms have been removed from the places where they are located. All the stages and horse cars have stopped.

Provost Marshal Nugent has been notified to suspend the draft.

All communications telegraphically with the east and west has been suspended. The mob having torn down the wires in all places as far as Williams' bridge, driving the telegraphers off and threatening their lives.

The operators on the eastern lines were located at last night and up to nine o'clock this morning, in a car two miles from Harlem on the track when the mob discovered them and drove them off.

The Mayor has prohibited the sale of firearms and all such stores are closed.

They will lose no time in preparing detachments and placing en route regiments, as soon as the required numbers can be made up.

THE DRAFT COMMENCED. The draft is progressing in all the New England States, and in Pennsylvania and New York. As the enrollment is complete in each of the various districts, a certain proportion of those who are liable to the draft, the number to be called out in all of the States has not been designated.

A Brilliant Rebel View of the Situation—The Rebels Propose to Do as We Did. From The Chattanooga Rebel, June 26.

Not any time within the last two years has the horizon of the Confederate States uprisen in such gloomy colors as now from Vicksburg, Virginia and Middle Tennessee, the barbaric yoke of peace seem to burst in harmonious justice from the long night of war.

And to defeat Rosecrans. Never were prospects better for the consummation of these legitimate and possible contingencies. The movement of Lee on the one hand, the movements of Johnston and Kirby Smith on the other, and the omniscience of those who really know the military situation, all point to a momentary warning to join the grand chorus for peace.

It would be well, as we advance upon the den of the invader, to appraise the tears of these salutary assurances. Our object is not to be lulled by the promises of the day, but to be prepared for the night.

It is not to be lulled by the promises of the day, but to be prepared for the night. The spirits of Democracy understand and sympathize with the people, but let our Government and our Generals—in our march over the border also proclaim it.

THE MINES AND MINING. The laws of this gold region, obtained by the squatter sovereignty, recognize the following kinds of mines or claims: First a claim for properly speaking a lode claim, which is one upon a rock or vein of metal.

A mine is an open shaft or tunnel, or a metal bearing rock which fills a crevice in the granite or other wall rock. Many claims have been taken up and worked as far as the granite or other wall rock has been found. The miners of this region yet deeper into the mountains and beneath the surface of the earth before they strike the true lode.

Col. O'Brien was captured by the rebels, beaten to a jelly, and then hung to a lamp post at the corner of Thirty-fourth street and Second avenue.

frailly in their places. The Hungarian rifles are in use. They are composed of slats an inch square, and in length may vary in length from two to six feet.

The slats are an inch apart. If the frame is short the slats should run across the bottom of the slits—if long, they should be along it, in which case there must be a lid. The frame is made of iron rods, which may vary in length from two to six feet.

The slats are an inch apart. If the frame is short the slats should run across the bottom of the slits—if long, they should be along it, in which case there must be a lid. The frame is made of iron rods, which may vary in length from two to six feet.

Our slates are now set, rifled and ready for the water, which the ditch company will measure out to us at seventy-five cents an inch. The water is drawn from a box six inches deep, and which is kept constantly even full, through an aperture near the bottom an inch in width, closed by a horizontal sliding gate.

A good twenty inches six inch pressure is a good sluice head, though a less depth is often used. The frame is made of iron rods, which may vary in length from two to six feet.

It is not necessary to clean up more than once a day. The rifles are then lifted out after shutting off the water, and the gold and black sand (pyrites of iron) are separated and placed in the pan. The sand, gravel and small iron stones are then panned out by hand as clean as possible.

The amalgamation thus formed is separated by the use of a sieve, and the mercury is then separated from the gold by the use of a sieve.

Numerous leads have been taken up and recorded. The most promising are the "Dale," "Keystone," "Mammoth," "Tow," and "Keystone." About six hundred dollars a day, employing a crew of from six to eight hands. They will all do better with quartz, some of which are on the way to be worked.
