The first section of the act specifies that our decided opinion that Wheeler & Wilson interainment. very able bodied white male tion, and the enslavement of a people who are now free and independent, conclude the bleak record of the nation's decline and fall.

If a nation's safety is worth a party's noblest efforts, then indeed have we, claiming to be the leyal men of the land, and ready to sacrifice all that is dear or valuable, the, noblest incentives to labor for our political but one principle of politics now animating the public heart-and that principle involving the purity of the government and the at once plain, forcible and binding. In the performance of this duty, we are asked to make no sacrifices. On the contrary, we are invoked to contend against the sacrifice of nency of the Government. We are asked to harmonize our political organizatian, and to unite on a tried and faithful servant, in order that the contest at the ballot-box may be a victory worthy of the emulation of our fellow citizens on the battle field, a victory which will forever seal the doom of treason in all the States. In the contest for the Presidency we have it in our power materially to aid those who are carrying on a struggle where blood marks their progress and death hovers over the combatants. If we succeed in re-electing Abraham Lincoln, our brothers in the field will triumph over the armed focs of the Government. If we reaffirm the power of the National Administration by endorsing the national authorities in the re-election of Abraham Lincoln, rebellion must cease. Nothing is surer-nothing could be more desirable.

But is not necessaey for us to go into a history of the National Administration, in order to make up a claim for the re-election of Abraham Lincoln. With that claim resting on the necessities of the Government, and endorsed by the preferences of the peo-ple, any merit which the man may have of personal virtue and unsallied reputation, sinks into insignificance. And yet the American people owe it to themselves as well as to Abaaham Lincoln, to acknowledge the influence which his personal virtues have exercised on the conflict in which we are Thene are four brothers and a cousin, all engaged. That influence has more than once dispelled the grovelling suspicion of demagogues, and hushed the angry jar of The firmness of his rule has disfaction. armed the machinations of the Northern sympathizers with Southern rebellion. The impartiality of his official acts and constructions, have preserved the Constitution he swore to support, pure; and the law he was pledged to enforce, inviolate; so far as his the most singular circumstance is the preauthority extended and his official power weilded. In the first struggle for could be independance, our fathers could not have been prouder of Washington, than are we, in this our struggle for a more perfect independence, proud of Abraham Linboln. The future will enhance the greatness and glory which cluster around him in the present which cluster around him in the present hour. Working Guns by Steam.

The St Louis Union describes some inter esting experiments with a new invention in that city, devised for the purpose of working heavy guns by steam power. The plan was ally, at the time they are taking the assess-tested last week on board a monitor. The ment of valuation of real and personal prop Union says :

Two eleven inch Dahlgren gu ns are so com respective districts, who are hable to enrollpletely under the control of one man in it, and ment, which list shall be known as the mil handled with as much ease by him, and with litary roll of that district ; but persons claim almost as much celerity, as a pair of duelling ing that they are not liable to military duty, pistols could be Every movement of the guns | can make affidavit to that effect. The third is made by steam. They are run out of their port, by it, and their recoil checked by it, section compels keepers of taverus and board ing houses and the heads of families to give they are lowered into the hold by steam for the necessary answers to questions asked by loading, and raised again to be fired, and all the Assessors. The six succeeding sections hese movements are made in as little time as prescribe that the persons enrolled shall be it has taken to relate it.

The perfect ease and accuracy with which every movement was gone through excited the adminution of the whole party. Four shots were aimed by Geo. Rosecrans at a tar get, about three quarters of a mile distant, some ten or twelve feet square, and each one struck it fairly The firing from it is much nore rapid than from the Ericsson turrels. -The fifteen and twenty inch guns can be hand led in this way quite as easily as those in this turret. The eleven inch guns can be with drawn from their ports, lowered and loaded who from the number sun moned may select and returned ready for firing in sixty seconds The horizontal range is obtained by the rota draft When called into vervice tion of the turret.

THE FINANCIAL FLURRY.

About thirteen months ago we had a flurry in the money market not unlike that which now exists, and in March, 1863-one year ago -gold stood just about where it does now. Let us compare the situation then and now. We were then just feeling the success of the spurious "democracy" in several state elections, especially in the great state of New tute one brigade York ; the North seemed, to the superficial, on the point of dividing; our military situation was critical; the paralysing influence of our divided into twenty divisions disastrous peninsula campaign had been fol lowed by the victory of Antietom, from which McClellan could draw no greater fruit than that announced by his celebrated disputch of Friday, 19th September : "The rebels had retreated and Pennsylvania was safe." Next came our reverses in the political campaign, and Burnside's defeat at Fredericksburg. Thus in March, 1863, our army under Hook. two Aids de Camp, one division Quartermas er was preparing for a contest with Lee, whose compact army under Stonewall Jackson and other leaders had certain acknowledged ad vantages over our large army, commanded Brigade Quartermaster, and one Aid de Camp. by generals whose internal dissensions were otorious.

With our political and military prospects thus shadowed at home, our prospects abroad were still more gloomy. The British rebels were fitting our privateers almost unchecked by their government, and there was every reason to fear that iron clads would soon be at sea, ready to burn our cities or break our blockade.

What was our financial position then !-With gold as high as now or higher, we were just beginning to place the five hundred millions of five twenly bonds, which were counted upon to fund the currency and and carry resignations and to dismissuls. on the war. The people were beginning to take them, but capitalists were standing aloof. Now, mark the result from that time forward, and draw from it that courage which is so necessary.
