We think the following extract from Mr. Johnson's speech to his fellow-citisens at Knoxville, some time since, will be read with new interest, now that his name is presented to the people as a candidate for the office of Vice-President. For glowing patriotism and thrilling eloquence it is rarely equalled.

"The time has arrived when treason must be made odious, when traitors noust be punished-impoverished; their property taken from them, whether it be their houses, their lands, or-their negroes, and given to the innocent, the honest, the loyal, upon whom the calamities of this unprovoked and wicked rebellion have fallen with crushing weight. It is easy to stand here and declaim, but I am not know something of what I have done for you-for Tennessee-for East Tonnessee. But I will not speak of that.

"If I have made sacrifices, if I have enhardships, so let it be. God grant t. at I may have helped you, and that I may help you again. But you must help your-I have already told you must be doneto make treason odious, [this he said with tremendous emphasis] and to make traitors suffer, as you have suffered, as your wives and children have suffered, as your country has suffered.

"What has brought this war upon us? crowd can hearme: Slavery'! [Hundreds of voices—'That's so.' 'That's a God's | tice?' truth.' Men talk about the Constitution tyrannical assumption of authority, a des-

"Men sneer at the doctrine of emancipation. Let them sneer; but this I tell mancipation, and carry it on until all are free." [Loud and prolonged applause.]

The Cavalry Horse.

The cavalry horse is quite as familiar with the long lists of varying triumpet signals as the rider himself; he stops instantly when the signal for halting is English. his head, smells at him, and when he as- as that accorded to the first Grenadier mounting, makes his way back to his troop, wedges himself in his place in the at school?" "Only another little girl and ranks, and shares afterwards in the movements of the rest. Music has an amazing influence over him. If an air | fear and above reproach," The motto of the | Bayard was: "Sans peuret sans reproche, be suddenly struck up, you will see the "without fear and without reproach," not above fear and reproach. That would imworn-out and mortally tired horse raise his sick head, prick up his ears, become animated and move briskly forward to

During a halt, or when quartered for the night, the cavalry division stretched. out on the ground, lies sleeping confusedly together, a jumbled mass, which it would be impossible to disentangle; men and horses side by side, the rider using his horse as his pillow, or rolling himself beside it to shield himself from the [cold, the faithful creature seldom changing the position it has once taken. If it did so, it is with the greatest precaution; first it moves its head and legs, endeavoring gently to free itself; then it rises or turns itself very slowly and carefully, so as not to trample upon or disturb those who surround it. If the halt take place when the ground is wet or frozen, the rider will gladly force his horse to one side after it has laid down awhile, which by that time is warm, if not dry. The most affectionate relationship subsists between man and horse, as the result of their thus living together. The animal seems to understand everything connected with his rider; he knows his master's step, his peculiar ways; knows how to seek him out from among others; is a faithful, disinterested companion and friend to him, and has this advantage over many another good comrade—that he does not grow weary even of suffering for him.

HEINTZLEMAN ON MCCLELLAN --- We find the following capital hit of the old war dog, Heintzelman, going the rounds, and we judge it is a true story :

Two men were discussing McClellan, when one of them pronounced him to lack courage. Grim old Gen. Heintzelman was a liste Turning to the gentleman who was berating the courage of McClellan, he' said in his peculiar nasal tone: "How do you know sir, that he hasn't courage? Gen. McClellan has never been under fire, and you can't tell whether a man is a coward or not until he passed that ordeal.

REVIEW OF M'CLELLAN'S LATE ORATION. [Prom the Tribune.] That commanders of armies should be theoretically acquainted with the art of war, as much as a physician or a lawyer should know with accuracy the science of medicine or the law, need not be pompously enunciated. But the application intended by the orator is, that such theoretical knowledge can only be acquired at West Point, and can only be well known to a pupil of the Academy. With the memory of Washington the Surveyor, and Greene the Physician, of the Revolution ; Jackson the Lawyer, and Harrison the Farmer, of the later war with Great Britain; to say nothing of Scott the Lawyer, Wool the merchant, and Taylor the Planter, of the Mexican war; and in mercy sparing the orator any analysis of the achievements of West Point in this rebellion. only stopping to say that no West Pointer, including the orator himself, has achieved uttering bombast. You know me. You any prominent distinction even in disaster who had not left the army for the pursuits of civil life, how could McClellan, with Ells worth, Dahlgren, Winthrop, Shaw, and Wadsworth "yet green in earth," put on record on such an occasion, and in such condured sufferings, if I have undergone nection, this taunt upon the volunteer officers of the army of the United States? What should we say as to the propriety of employing a lawyer to argue the intricacies of a contested land title; or a physician in solves. You must join hand with me and the more difficult operations of injecting the with one another, and swear to do what life-blood of the young and vigorous into the veins of the aged and enfeebled, if he, a 'Story or a Kent," or an Abernethy, after having been carefully educated in the rudiments of law, or surgery, had abandoned all practice of his profession and taken to, the running a railroad for a living ? Should we not rather employ some farmer or soldier with taste and aptitude for law or medicine. It is supposed that Pericles spoke and wrote the Greek language correctly. Everett certainly writes accurate and elegant English. GUM SPRING GRAIN DRILL which has taken over fifty First Class Premiums at State and County Fairs. To the Farmers of Cumber State and County Fairs. To the Parmers of Cumberland, York and Perry counties we need not speak in detail of the merits of this drill, as scores of them are now in use on the best farms in these counties. Its reputation is established as the most complete Grain Brill now manufactured in the United States. It sows Wheat, Ite, Oats, Barl y and Grass, evenly and regular, without bucching the seed. The gum springs pass the drill over stumps and stones, without breaking pins or the drill. For even and regular sowing, the Willoughly Gum Spring Drill is unequalted by any other. We also manufacture and soll the following articles, which we can recommend to Farmers as grain in pluments, of established character:

MORHISON'S PATENT CORN PLANTER

JOHNSON'S CAST IRON HOG'S TROUGH.
Also, Lhrue and Four Horse Powers and Threshing Machines, Cast Iron Field Rollers, Plough Castings of various patterns, Corn Crushers, and other articles for Farmers too numerous to mention. Also, Egg Coal Stoves and Ten Plute Wood Stoves, with an immense variety of other castings for housekeepers and others. We have also an attractive variety of patterns for Steam Engines and Milli Gearing.

To this department of our business we give particular attention. Our already extensive stock of patterns for Paper, Flour and Saw Mill Graring, is constantly increasing. Mill Owners and Shill Wilkhts will be furnished with a printed catalogue of our various Mill Patterns, on upplication. Our Machine Shop comprises all the vertious tools for turning, planing and finishing Shafting and Castings, by good and everful Machinists STATIONARY STEAM ENGINES.

STATIONARY STEAM ENGINES, of any desirable capacity, from ten to twenty-five horse power, built in the best style and on accommodating terms. En lose built at our establishment may be seen in successful operation at many of the largest Dist lieries and Tameries in Carlisle, and Cumberland Perry and Buuphin Counties, to two ewners of which we confidently refer tor information as to their efficiency. Persons wanting Steam Engines are earnestly requested to call and examine before contracting elsewhere.

The celebrated author in this admirable essay clearly demonstrates, from a thirty years successful practice, that the alarming consequences of self-abuse may be radically cured without the Angerous use of internal medicine or the application of the knife—pointing out a mode of cure, at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately
