Samples of Treason from the Chicago Market.

We cull some choice specimens of the "Free Speech" which it is the "great mission of the Democratic party" to protect, from the preliminary orations at Chicago that inspired and indoctrinated the representative masses of that party attending upon the Convention: At one of the meetings held Saturday night, the distinguished Isaiah Rynders, one of the main pillars of Democracy in New York, very candidly said:

"At the old line Whig Convention some one had called the Southern people traitors, but he knew the South were as gallant, chivalrous, and noble a people as God ever created. (Cat-calls, yells, and other Democratic applications) plause.) He was sorry the South had taken the steps they had, but God knows they had just cause to act as they did act."

Benjamin Allen, of New York, did not beingamin Alien, of New York, did Not believe there was a secessionist per se in the whole South, and if the abolitionists were thrown out of power they would all come back. "The people saw this, and if they would not put Lincoln out by bullots, they would rise on masse and do it by bullets."

The Hon. F. A. Lenver, of New York, dealards, "megaphy if ne can, forcibla if declared, "peaceably if we can, forcibly if we must, we will no longer support this war."

Col. Stambaugh, of Ohio, said in a loudly applauded speech, that "When this war is per he would not give a pinch of snuff for it 5-20's and the 10-40's hourded by the

James H. Reed, a member of congress from Indiana, made a speech which even the Chicago Times shrinked from publishing, until by emasculation, it was stripped of the major portion of its outspoken treason.

He declared open hostility to the draft, and urged on all, if Abraham the 1st and his satraps attempted to enforce it, to resist it to the death. Let every one, he said, who preferred liberty to death, arm himself, if he could get no others to join him, and where there were others, let them organize in squads and companies, and with arms drill twice a week and be prepared for the worst. If any body in shoulder straps attempts to arrest you without a warrant, shoot him down. If the come in force, call in your neighbors and fight them to the death. Who were they usurped the duties of the civil authorities. ion and a half of freemen were of posed to this military despotism, and could There is much more of the same sort to be got from the oratory of the great occasion at Chicago; but this, in addition to which we have heretofore published, may be enough to show how wofully the "freedom of speech." has been suppressed in this poor, tougue-tied country of ours, and to demonstrate how vitally necessary it is for the "Democratic party" to restore to American citizens the liberty of untrammelled utterance.

Only weak men like ourselves, who had

"SEE WHAT I WAS."-Hospitals are sights. One of the pleasantest I ever visited was the Orthopædic. In others, many patients are sick unto death; you see not only pain, but anxiety and despair. But the sufferers in the Orthopædic are generally well enough in health, and as the operation they need is performed directly after they enter the institution, the worst is past with the majority. They are almost all getting better; moreover, they are furnished with a test of recovery impossible in ordinary siekness. When we have been ill we often forness. When we have been ill we often for-get how bad we were; and measuring the account surpruss, investigation of the law with the present of the law with the law with the present of the law with the passing faintness of to-day with the progress of yesterday, fancy we linger longer than we should. On the whole, the tide of disease may be ebbing; but now and then a wave runs up beyond the last, as if it were turning again. We have followed, watching, close at the edge of the retreating malady, and forget the distance we have traversed since the sickness was at its full height; but the patients of the Orthopædic can make no such mistake.

""How are you getting on ?" I asked of a girl who was hobbling across the room with ndaged, crooked feet. She said she had been in four months, and was much benefitted, andindeed, was improving every day. "Well, you are hopeful," I thought; and added a loud: "But you are very lame yet." "Ah, sir!" she replied, "but see what . was!"

This being a common form of speech, I was not prepared to have it realized by her pulling a plaster of Paris model of her legfrom under her bed, to which her own were graceful.

"See what I was," she said. Then there was a general exhibition of legs (plaster), and I found each one had an infallible test of progress within reach.

A DARK AND GLOOMY BRIDAL.-W. have heard of some dark scenes, but rarely encountered anything so utterly deficient in sunshine and whitewash as the following.-It reads like a yard of crape ! Gloom was on her countenance and upon his. The man whose holy office it was to unite them in bonds, never to be torn assunder, stood like an executioner before the bride and bride-groom, and they—the pair waiting to be blessed—bent down their heads like criminals before him. In vain might the eye wander about the assembly in search of sunshine upon a single countenance; all was dreary black—and assistants as well as attendants at the ceremony, were alike shrouged in one dark, overshadowing pall shrouded in one dark, overshadowing pall of rayless gloom. Ah! joyful should ever be the linking of young hearts together; and terrible must be the feelings of those around whom the shadows of fate are gathing, even at the threshold, which should blaze in all the gorgeous coloring of hope and promise. Yet the same sombre shade, the same gloom of hue, the depth of darkness, was seated upon every feature. No sudden blushing of the rose, no swift succeeding of the lilly, no fitful changes telling of youthful passion and warm, bright hope, were seen on that bride's cheek; but one unvaryering shade of funeral possessed the groom possessed the preacher-in fact, they were all possessed. Reader, they were intelligent contrabands.

One day, while the black tongue prevailed in that State, one of his men came in, bringing the news that one of his red oxen was dead. "Ishe?" said the old man; "well, he always was a breechy cuss. Take his hide off and carry it down to Fletcher's; it will bring the cash." An hour or so afterward, the man came back with the news that "lineback" and his mate were both dead. "Are they?" said the old man; "well I took them of Bto save a bad debt that I never expected to get. It is lucky that it ain't the brindles. "Is he?" said the old man well he was a very old ox. Take L off his hide and send it down to Fletcher's; it is worth cash and will bring more than two of the others." Hereupon his wife, who was a very pious soul, taking upon hersolf the office of Eliphaz, reminded her husband very severely, and asked him if he was not aware that his loss was the judgment of Hoaven for his wickedness. "Is it?" said the old fellow; "well, if they will take the Price, in a sealed envelope, only 6 cents.

The celebrated author in this admirable essay clearly demonstrates, from a thirty years successful practice, that the alarming consequences of self abuse may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal model of cure, at once simple, cortain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically. and radically.

This Lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

It is warranted to color more water than twice the same quantity of Indigo, and to go utuch further than any other Wash lilue in the market. It dissolves perfectly clear and does not settle on the clothes as most of the other makes do. One Box dissolved in a half plut of water, will make as good a Liquid Blue as any that is made at one-third the cost.

As it is retailed at the same price as the Imitations and inferior articles, housekeepers will find it very much to their advantage to ask for that put up at Wiltberger's.

As All lilue put up after this date with Barlow's name on it is imitation.

The New Label does not require a Stamp.
