A Western paper declares the following to be a fact which occurred at one of New England's quiet villages: In old New Lugland, long ago, Where all creation travelled slow, And naught but trackless deserts lay Before the early settler's way, A youth and damsel, bold and fair, Had cause to take a journey-where. Through night and day, and day and night No house would greet their wearied sight. And thinking Hymen's altar should Precede their journey through the wood, They straightway to a Justice went -By love and circumstances sent. The Justice, good old honest pate, Said it was quite unfortunate; But at that time he could not bind These two young folks of willing mind-For his commission, sad to say, Had just expired but yesterday; Yet, after all, he would not say That single they should go away, And so he bade them join their hands In holy wedlock's happy bands, And "just a little" he would marry-Enough, perhaps, to safely carry, As they were in connubal mood, Enough to do them through the wood.'

"On the 20th of February, C. C. will call on Y. Z. Y., and claim the deposit. This was the advertisement on which my eye fell.

Now, it is not every one that can own property in the initials Y. Z. Y. Indeed, I am inclined to believe that I, Yorick Zachary Yorke, am their sole legitimate owner.

How great is the power of habit! Three years before, my mind had been so occupied with the extra day of the bissextile that I had even tried to make a 29th of February of my own, by giving a new figure to the first of March Now, on the contrary, I was slow in recalling to mind the connection between the umbrella and the date of its acquisition; and I believe a quarter of an hour clapsed before I recognized in C. C. the initials of the ill-starred Miss Catherine Cracken bridge.

The whole horror of four years ago was breed back upon me. My agony reached its crisis, when, looking at the date of the paper, I shrieked aloud-"the 29th of February is to-day!" Frantically I rushed into the passage, took the umbrella from its stand, and placed it on the table before me. My eyes were fixed upon it so firmly that every other object tailed, and my arms were not only fold "Well, Sir," said the young man at the i el but firmly freezed together, that I counter, with an air more patronizing might be fully aware of the strength of
