BOY HON. A. H. MCCLURE offered a resstructing the Judiciary Committee to inquire into the expediency of establishing a new method of drawing jurors, so as to prevent political parties from being unequally represented in the jury-box. The resolution was passed. The evil for which this proposition seeks a remedy has grown to one that affects | phans. the administration of justice in many counties of the State, and the call for a reform cannot longer go unheeded.

We triumph for their deliverance. It is a dissupposed however that as half of the public grace to the republic that men pretending to printing was dispensed with the expenditure speak for us should be perpetually haunting for that purpose would be lessened correspondingly. Here our natural stupidity caused us to fall into a most egregious error. The principle adopted with regard to the public printing appears to be, that the County shall be bled on this score, in from them the amounts paid for the very labor that was disallowed this year, we will find that this item is considerably more than twice as much as it has been heretofore since *1860. All this too in order that the current expenses might be lessened. Why our gentlemanly commissioners appear to have quite as original conceptions of economy as they have of courtesy toward those who, are so unfortunate as to be outside of the political organization whose chief's hold nightly cauouses in the commissioners room. The Late Conference in Hampton Roads.

The Result of the Interview Reported Unsat isfactory—No Change of Attitude on Either Side—Firm Position of President Lincoln—The War for the Union to be Conued with Vigor.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3. It is difficult to procure details of the con-erence between the President, the Secretav of State and the rebel commissioners, but it is asserted that the President throughout the conversation insisted that he should continue the prosecution of the war on the principle heretofore declared, namely, of com lling obadience to the Constitution and on the basis of the Union, and admitting peace only on these terms. With him there was to be no deviation from this course, so the commissioners were left in no doubt whatever on this material point. The conversation was conducted in the most courteous and respectful manner, and the commission ers returned to Richmond thoroughly understanding the views expressed by the President. Therefore, if anything further is to be said on this subject, it must come from he Confederates themselves. As has heretofore been stated, there was no agreement and private communication, maintained. Whatever may be the speculations as to peace movements in the future, it is certain that there will be no abatement made in our military operations, but that the effort will be to prosecute the war with additional vigor, so that our successes may procure an early peace.

The Chronicle says: "The blind fatuity which possessed the rebel leaders, at the outset of the rebellion, rules them inexorably still, and the sword of instice must execute he work which the folly of blinded leaders would not accord to the arts of pacification.?
