Mn. EDITOR:—One of the most touching incidents of the war, and one that has aroused in the Christian public the deepest sympathy and interest, will be recognized in the story of Sergeant Humiston, and his three sweet-faced children, whose picture was found clasped to the dead soldier's heart, on the bloody field of Gettysburg. A fuller history of this tender providence will interest all your readers. It is from a local paper of Cortland county, New York.

Sergeant Humiston lived at Portville, N. York, an upright and industrious mechanic. In the summer of 1862 he offered himself on the altar of his imperilled country, and enlisted in the 154th Regiment New York Volume unteers, on the assurance of citizens that his dependent family would be well cared for.
The testimony of his Captain was that Humiston made one of the very best of soldiers. The 154th regiment was in the 11th corps. and suffered terribly in the first day of the Gettysburg struggle, only a handful of men reporting themselves after the battle. It was here that Sergt. Humiston fell. News came from one and another that went from Portville, until all were heard from except Humiston: no tidings came from him. Some four months had clapsed, and hope had well nigh died out in that poor wife's heart.

And here occurred one of those remarkable providences, had it not been for which the fate of Sergeant Humiston would have ever remained a mystery—one of those beautiful illustrations of the kind care of our heavenly Father, who watches over the humblest in Dr. J. Francis Bourns, of Philadelphia a very eminent physician and kind hearted gentleman, went to Gettysburg after the battle, as a volunteer Surgeon, and delegate of the U. States Christian Commission; and, completing his duties, he started for "the front." on the Potomac. In crossing the mountains, he and his fellow travelers were forced by an accident to stop at the house of Mr. SCHRIVER, late Sheriff of Adams county.

While there, one or two of the travelers exhibited relics of the battle field which they had with them, when Mr. Schriver remarked that he had a relic that he should prize more highly than all these. He then produced an ambrotype, the picture of three children, ambrotype, the picture of three children, which he said was found clasped in the hands of a dead Union soldier, on the field the day after the battle. It appeared from the nature of the wound that the soldier might have lived some time after it was received. His coat and hat were gone, and there was nothing found upon him by which it could be nown who he was, or to what regiment he belonged. The unknown soldier died. Oh! to him how precious must have been this picture! how his thoughts must have wandered back to home, while and children, as no grazed upon it!

Dr. Bourns, on returning to Philadelphia, related the incident. The public became deeply interested in it, and the doctor conceived the idea of identitying the soldier, and discovering his family, by means of the picture. He procured it from Mr. Schriver, and had it noticed in the Philadelphia papers. The story was copied by other papers all over the country. A hady at Portville saw the notice; the thought occurred to her that it might be a picture of the Humiston children. It was ascertained that such a picture had been sent to their father a while before the battle of Gettysburg. A letter was copy of the picture, and lo! the lost soldier was sent to the doctor. He immediately sent a copy of the picture, and lo! the lost soldier was gent to the doctor. He immediately sent a copy of the picture, and lo! the lost soldier was dentified.

this touching incident to material advantage. He had the picture photographed, and the copies exposed for sale, the proceeds to go for the benefit of the family when discovered; and with the aid of many kind people of Philadelphia, it became a decided People from abroad began to inquire for them, and soon he could not get them printis hoping now not only to provide a good home, maintain the family, and educate the three orphans, but to provide for the orphan and the orphans and the orphans and the orphans and the orphans are the orpha children of other soldiers who have perished in defence of our country. This is truly a praiseworthy and Christian object. May the hearts of the people be inclined toward it, and may no soldier's widow and no helpless orphan be forgotten in the prayers and alms of patriots. Soldier's orphans are of right the children of a grateful country .inday School Times.

TRIBUTE OF RESPECT -At a meeting of the officers of the 209th Regiment P. V. held April 17th, 1865, in reference to the death of Capt. J. P. McCullough, Co. D. and of which Col. T. B. Kaufman was President of Capt. ident, and Adjt. A. R. Davison Secretary. the following preamble and resolutions, were Whereas, Captain James P. McCullough. Co. D. 209th Regt. Penna. Volunteers, lost his life while bravely rallying his men dur-ing the attack on the enemy's works before Petersburg, Va., April 2nd, 1865, therefore, by the officers of his Regiment it is Resolved. That while the Country has lost a brave and noble defender, and his Regiment an efficient officer, we, his brothers in arms have lost an agreeable companion, and a kind and true friend.

Resolved, That his qualities of mind and heart endeared him to all of us; but, that although we deeply deplore his loss, still we could not wish for him a death more glorious than dying bravely in defence of his Country while victory was crewning our arms.

Resolved, That the example of his deep and undying devotion to the cause of his Country, is worthy of imitation by the bravest who are breasting the storms of battle. Resolved, That we truly and d eply sympathize with his bereaved family, and the large circle of his friends, to whom his kind nature and cheerful disposition must have Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be sent to the family of deceased, and that copies be forwarded for publication in the several papers of Franklin and Cumberland In pursuance of the last resolution we submit a copy for publication in the columns o
