

STAGING.—About 8 o'clock on Monday morning, Mr. McCACNEY, a tailor, residing in Plainfield, West Pennsylvania township, was found lying on the floor of his shop, quite dead. Not more than half an hour before he had been seen entering his shop, and when discovered he had not been extinct probably more than a few minutes. The cause of his death is still a matter of speculation. It is supposed that he was afflicted with cholera, or some other epidemic disease.

DEATH OF REV. JOSEPH CLARK.—The Chambersburg Repository, of Wednesday last, says:—"The sudden and unexpected death of Rev. JOSEPH CLARK, on Friday last, resulting from the cholera, is a sad event on the memory previous, cast a gloom over the entire community. Although it was well known that his injuries were severe and painful, yet no apprehension was felt for his safety until a few hours before his death. His condition first became known to himself, and to the great surprise of his friends, at a time when all indications seemed favorable, he expressed an opinion that he could not recover. His last will be mourned by a large circle of friends, and will be sorely felt by the church, for which he had for a long time been an earnest and able supporter, and by this community, of which he was a valuable member.

Mr. Clark was born in North Middleton township, this county, on the 11th day of October, 1825. He received his preparatory education in Bloomfield, Perry county, Pa., entered Marshall College, at Mercersburg, Pa., in 1845, and was graduated with the highest honors of his class in Sept., 1848.—Immediately after this he entered the Western Theological Seminary at Allegheny City and finished his course of Theology in the spring of 1851. On the 11th day of June, 1851, he was ordained minister of the Gospel by the Presbytery of Carlisle, and shortly afterwards he was ordained and installed pastor of the Presbyterian congregation at Chambersburg. Mr. Clark had many relatives and friends in this section of country, who will bear of his death with feelings of sincere regret.

and the escape of gas has left but few flowing wells, and these are fast just their prime. There are more wells in operation than ever, and the yield of oil is diminishing. Therefore a fair conclusion that the supply on Oil Creek is falling off. Whether it will be renewed by deeper and more extensive boring is a question yet to be determined.

Gen. Wilson's Fight at Selma.—The following graphic and interesting account of the battle of Selma is extracted from a private letter from Capt. A. M. PARKER (son of Gen. PARKER) Eng. of the 7th Penna Cavalry. The division of which the 7th formed a part contains many famous land County boys, and we are sure our readers will be interested in the recital of their exploits.

THE BRITISH PERIODICALS.—The Fourth Edition of England, with the text at its head, which is a power behind the throne, would be less powerful were it deprived of the influence which the renowned Quarterly Review and Blackwood's Magazine contribute to it. It is an institution of thought, the organ of the educated mind, an unknown essayist like Macaulay and Sidney Smith, has been introduced to universal publicity, and by such writers, in turn, publications have attained to their splendid reputation. Scholarly ability, extended range of thought and research, magnificent rhetoric, brilliant discussion, are concentrated in this work in prose, religion and literature. The newest theories in social laws, in theological doctrine, material forces, and organization are to be found in these Reviews, and without disparagement to the comparatively crude and vigorous publications on this side of the Atlantic, it can be said that there are no publications in the world equal to these in the department of thought and elegance of style. Those who attempt to lead or instruct public opinion, whether in the pulpit, the school room or professor's chair, ought to consult such authorities as can be found in the Review.

FOR ANY ONE OF THE REVIEWS, $4.00 For any two of the Reviews, 7.00 For any three of the Reviews, 10.00 For any four of the Reviews, 13.00 For Blackwood's Magazine, 7.00 For Blackwood and one Review, 7.00 For Blackwood and any two of the Reviews, 10.00 For Blackwood and the four Reviews, 13.00 For these imported, they would cost, with the premium on gold, about $7.50.

DEAR HERALD:—Information and speculation about the terms of the late letter is somewhat on this subject will be somewhat like a physician's diagnosis. It will not be published in the Herald, but will be intimate the chances and method of recovery. Many holders of old stocks will find here that they have been misadvised long here; and the other holders will discover that their certificates are worth not more than a dollar a bushel. In no general hunting down of stocks by the boards of brokers, many have suffered by the hue and cry which do not deserve such treatment. These are being quietly bought up by parties, who are looking for the denunciations of all old stocks whatever.
