Honey! Honey!!

PURE VIRGIN HONEY

CAN be had of COLE, STEWARD & Co. on East Street, between Louther and North streets, at a reduced price, put up in glass jars containing one, two, and four pounds, in any quantity.

COLE, STEWARD & Co.,
Carlisle, May 10, 1866.

MESS. COLE, STEWARD, & Co.,

Gentlemen:—I have examined the Honey you so kindly presented to me. Myself and family have eaten of it, and find we not known to the contrary, would have been astonished at honey being thus early taken from the Bees. Your Honey is in all respects, equal to the best Bee Honey I have ever seen; indeed, identical in smell, flavor, taste, and appearance, with that manufactured by the "Little Busy Bees." I can most cordially recommend it to the public, as a pure and most delicious article for family use.

My father was an Aparian, and I have been accustomed all my life, to have good honey.

Yours truly, JOHN C. LESHER.

GENTLEMEN: My father was an Aparian, and I have been accustomed to have good and pure honey, and do most cheerfully indorse the statement of my brother-in-law, Mr. Lesher. Respectfully yours,

May 11th, 1866. Miss KATE R. HOLLAR.

To the Ladies of Carlisle.

The subscribers are prepared to furnish FAMILY RIGHTS for using

MERRILL'S WASHING COMPOUND.

They will furnish to families who desire it, enough of the compound to do one large washing without charge. It is warranted not to injure the fabric or texture of any thing which may be washed with it, and not to injure the most delicate colors of colored clothing; on the contrary, it sets and brightens the colors of any colored clothing.

We beg to call the attention of the public, and particularly the Ladies, to the following letters, addressed to us, by Ladies who are now using Merrill's Compound:

Carlisle, April 28th, 1866.

MR. COLE, Sir, The "Merrill's Washing Compound" which you handed to me, I have thoroughly tested in doing a large washing to day; and it gave me perfect satisfaction, as it was the first time I ever washed without a rubber or machine, I got through with my washing in one fourth of the time, and with one fourth of labor that it took me in the old fashioned way. I would not, upon any account, do witout it. It is one of the greatest wonders of the age, as it saves time, money and labor, as well as making the clothes look whiter than by the old process. The effect of the compound upon colored clothing is to brighten the colors.

MRS. REBECCA STEWARD.

Carlisle, May 5, 1866.

MESSRS. COLE STUART & Co., I have tried your Compound and found it to be all that it is recommended. As for saving time and labor, it gives the clothes a better color and makes them whiter than when washed in the old mode of washing, and does not injure the clothes at all; and as for colored clothes, it sets the colors and brightens them. It has indeed the best soap invention ever got up in this place. I washed a wash of twelve dozen and was but one hour and a half at them. I did not use more than half as much as I usually did not require any rubbing at all, but once.

MRS S. R. ZEIGLER.

Carlisle, May 5, 1866.

MESSRS COLE, STEWARD, & Co., Gentlemen, I have tried the "Merrill's London Washing Compound" you gave to me, in the washing of twenty two pieces, in one hour. It gave me perfect satisfaction, and fully comes up to all that is said of it. I did not use a washboard, neither did I rub the clothes with my hands. They were as white, clean, and clear as any I ever washed in the ordinary way. It sets and brightens the colors of colored clothing. It does not in the slightest degree injure the clothing. To use the compound, lessens labor, saves time, and money. I would not, for any consideration, do without it. I most cordially recommend it to all house keepers

MRS. SARAH JACKSON.
