To the Soldiers of Pennsylvania.

HARRISBURG, May 1, 1866 In obedience to the authority vested are nie by a resolution adopted by the Convention of Soldiers, held in this city, on the eighth day of March, 1866, I do hereby request the honorably discharged soldiers Pennsylvania to meet in their respective Legislative district, and elect delegates, not exceeding five in number, to represent their district in a Soldiers' Convention, to be held in the city of Pittsburg, on Tuesday, the fifth of June next, at ten o'clock, A. M Where any Representative district com prises more than one county, the manner of electing the delegates is respectfully referred to the soldiers of the district, for such coference as will result in a fair representation of each county.

Citizens who have borne arms in defense of the nation against treason have especial interest in the purpose of this Convention, and it is desireable that as full a representation to the brave defenders of the country as possible should be secured on this occa

J. F. HARTRANFT, Late Brevet Major General, U. S. A.

The Soldier's Convention. Somebody sent to our office this mornin what purports to be the proceedings of the soldiers convention held in Carlisle on Mon day. As we do not recognize the assemblage spoken of in this report as anything but a disorderly mob in the interest of a few local copperhead politicians, we shall not disgrace our columns by giving it place. The proworthy of name will be found in another

That any body of men claiming to have such resolutions as are embodied in the proceedings alluded to is such a palpable absurdity and such a gross insult to our returned | Tennessee, so was almost every person outsoldiers that we cannot lend our aid to its circulation. The idea of interfering with the genuine soldiers convention and thereby making capital for that skulking enemy of the soldiers and the country-Hiester Clymer, was conceived by a copperhead who hails from the upper or d of our county and was carried into effect by him in the following manner. He secured a file of the HERALD containing the lists of drafted men and also the Provost Marshal's list of deserters. From these lists a third was carefully made out containing all the names of those who could be relied upon to vote the copperhead ticket. On Saturday and Sunday preceding the convention, these men were notified by messengers hired for the purpose, to attend the convention. Arriving in town on Monday morning this party assembled in the Court certained that if admitted to seats in the use of endorsing the copperhead nomination for Governor. Then with officers elected resolutions prepared and a general plan of operations concocted they marched in a body to the hall. But too much time had been occupied by these preliminary arrangements for when the disorganizers reached the hall it was more than half an hour after the time specified in the call and the convention had regularly organized and was proceeding to business. Foiled in their well-laid scheme to surprise the convention, nothing was left but to break it up, which they at once attempted by removing the regularly elected officers and substituting the roster agreed upon in the Court House. As soon as it became manifest that the business could not be transacted amid the uproar and confusion which ensued, the soldiers convention withceedings published in to day's paper fully exhibit. Left to their own impulses the copperheads elaborated the bastard proceedings which we have referred to in the beginning, and have of course trumpeted them abroad as the voice of the soldiers of Cumberland County. Never was there a baser fraud perpetrated in the name of an honorable calling; but it is one which will deceive nobody and will only call down upon the heads of its authors the maledictions of every honest man. It was a cowardly attempt to disgrace the cloth, which will recoil with unspeakable disgrace upon the heads of its authors.

Gen. KNIPE, appointed Postmaster of Harrisburg, by President Johnson, has been confirmed by the Rump Senate, and he has taken possession of the office. Good byo, The President has said that "treason must be made odious." and the removal of the 'Hessian' is an evidence that he meant what he said .- Volunteer.

Gen. KNIPE, was a gallant soldier during the war and if he has not sold his principles and gone over to the support of HEISTER CLYMER, as a consideration for his appointment we have no objection to make. As to Mr. Johnson's making treason odious by removal of the "Hessian," we have only to say that about a year ago Messrs. KNIPE and BERGEER, were applicants for the same office and although the General was strongly recommended and was then just fresh from the field, the President gave the appointment to Mr. BERGNER. Why was not "treason made odious then." Mr. Bergner, was thoroughly known to the Government in Washington, had been Post Master four years, was the publisher of a daily paper which had denounced rebels and copperheads vigorously for years, had insisted on putting down armed rebellion, hanging traitors, con fiscating their property and doing every thing that Democratic papers consider treasonable. Why didn't Moses then visit his iniquity by removing him instead of giving him his second commission? If Gon. KNIPE. deserves, the appointment now, he was as worthy of it a year ago. If BERGNER's fred! son was to be made odious why not do it at once f. The truth simply is this that although Mr. BERGNER's paper did go as far towards supporting "my poliquite willing to help to elect HEISTER CLY-

ANDREW JOHNSON has seen fit to revere his connection with the party that elected him for the alleged reason that Congress refuses to acknowledge that the States lately n rebellion are now in the Union and in rested with all their former rights. He has nade this refusal a pretext for denouncing the leaders of the majority in Congress as traitors. Horefuses to sanction the admission of a new state because those lately in rebellion are denied a representation. The pologists for treason who are now support ing the President with so much vehemence are just as strongly denouncing the legal majority in Congress because they have determined that this late Southern Confederacy shall not attach itself with all its spirit and crime of treason to the Union it did so much to destroy. They prate constantly about Congress doing what the rebels failed to accomplish; they denounce its action as tyrannical and uncenstitutional, and they insist it is the duty of the President to dissolve the "Rump Congress" by force and recognize the Southern representative, and those who adhere to them as the legally themselves anything if by so doing they constituted Legislature of the Nation. As an offset to all these absurdities, and as authority which these model reconstructionists can't well dispute we give the utterances of Mr. Johnson himself, in a speech delivered in December 1860 on this question. There is some difference, as will be seen, between the position then held by Senator Johnson and the present feeling of the originator of "my EXTRACTS FROM SPEECH OF

We confess we are a little muddled by this, "My policy" is beyond our comprehension entirely. Are the States always to be considered out of the Union when it is necessary to save the neck of a pirate or traitor and in it when it desirable to confe honor and office on him? How is it? We hope Moses will explain this, the next time he is serenaded.

PROTECTION FOR THE SOUTH-ERN UNIONISTS.

We have seldom seen the intense hatred of the rebel southerners for their Union brethren more strikingly exemplified than in the following extract from a recent editorial in the Richmond Whig: "The people of the south would rather be by martial law, severely administered by unsympathizing strangers, than se themselves subjected to the authority of that handful of time servers, place-seekers and sneaks among them, but not of them, who call themselves Union men, and would call of the southern people."

The men who are thus accused clung to the Union when all around them was dark with rebellion: when persecution in every form was the lot of all who would still favor the fortunes of the great republic, and when honors, emoluments, offices and favors were far distant. Yet the Richmond Whia iow calls them "time severs, place-scolere and sneaks." That they had to wait patiently for the triumph of the Union, and had faith that it would come, did not make them time-servers, though it did render linble to the charge those who fell in with rebellion because it was popular at the south. of whom every man in the Richmond Whia concern is a very fair specimen. That the Union men of the south endured suffering of every description, persecution, robbery, intttilation, and even death itself, for the mere hope of office under the Union restored, is incredible, and no man but a crazy rebel would make such a charge. The survivors of those who did so suffer, and yet maintained their faith unimpaired, deserve all the offices we can give them, and more too. On Yes, she the other hand, those southern men who joined the rebellion without believing in it, were they not place-seekers? and does not the peculiar language used by the Wing show that they are still so?
