mae never gave up, but made a good fight, and finally reached the goal.

Of this drama there will be no other here than the Army of the Potemac itself: for it would seem that in this war of the Peop e it was decreed there should arise no imperial presence to become the central figure and cynosure of men's eyes. Napoleon, in an outburst of haughty elequence, exclaims that in the great armies of history the Commander was everything. This proud apotheosis has no application for the Army of the Potemac. And one must think—seeing it nover had a great, and generally had medicere commanders—it was that it might be said, that wherever it wen it owed not to genius, but bought with its blood."

A hundred and one makers of Organs, Cottage, Parlor, Cabinet, American, School Organs, etc etc., are each claiming to make the best instrument in the world. Being comparatively a new instrument as at present constructed, we are convinced the public are much less capable of judging of its merits, or demerits, than of meat other instruments. If there is really an essential difference in them, if there are some excellent and some worthless ones, the public should have some criterion for judging of them, some facts which will enlighten them. We cheerfully concede the space for this article knowing that there is hardly a family, or church, or school in all the land, but is more or less interested in this topic. We are also aware of, its being a great misfortune, a real calamity, to any of them to purchase an inferior or worthless Organ, ruinous to good playing, and often a source of much annoyance and vexation. We know this article to enanate from a candid and intelligent source, and thus we give it to our readers.

REED ORGANS, &c.

THE following remarks and sugges tions relative to this immensely popular instru t will doubtless interest and profit very many o readers, we commend the article to their carefu and vexation. We know this article to emanato from a candid and intelligent source, and thus we give it to our readers.

The question is often asked, what are "reed organs?" We adswer, they are, in most cases, nothing in the world but the old melodeon in disguise. Many of the so-called organs have the same bellows, the same reeds, and the same general internal arrangement. With the bellows turned on edge to gain room, they have simply put on a more pretentions exterior and a more high sounding name. But an organ, to be in reality an organ, must have a wind chest or reservoir for air separate from the bellows, into which wind-chest the reeds open, and the tone has room to expand and perfect itself into the full round tone, similar to the flute or playorgan, even, smooth, firm, and mellow; and this tone from reeds cannot be obtained in any other way known. Nothing so annoys a true organist as to have the volume of sound swelling and jerking spasmodically with every variation of force on the bellows, which is always the case where the reeds open direct into the bellows or air passages, instead of a wind-chest or sound-box. And yet some makers even go so far as to claim this spasmodic or automatic jerking of the bellows on the reeds as an excellence, just as though they did not know that it must very soon throw the reeds out of tune, and injure the bellows; and as though it were not an easier matter to obtain a much botter and more casily managed swell by other methods. The truth is, any organ, so called, or melodeon which has the wind acting directly upon the reeds, is nothing more row loss than a huge accordes of resail up as you may. And when organise and true musicians become aware of the fact that they can obtain those that are organs in fact as well as in name, they will buy no more of the objectionable ones. Then again the swell should always be separate and distinct from the bellows, on as to fill their Spacious Store Room (East Main St., two doors below Saxtons Hardware Store,) with an enor-mous Stock of Seasonable Dry Goods, Carpet and House Furnish-All the varieties and colors of Silks. Splendid qual-ties of Gros Grain Black Silks for Dressea and Busques, French Worsted Goods and Grenadines, nor less train a hugo accordeon, dress it up as you may, and when organists and true musicians become aware of the fact that they can obtain those that are organs in fact as well as in name, they will buy no more of the objectionable ones. Then again the swell should always be separate and distinct from the bellows, so as not to be acted on by the hand. or soft blowing, but convenient so that the player can use it with the knee, separate from the hands or feet, and thas always under easy control, to be used ad libitum.

The large divided bellows, or double bellows, is also a very important improvement. By this means not only can the vind be supplied more evenly, but with far greater ease to the performer, from the fact that either bellows alone will be sufficient for the lighter melodies, thus permitting the player to change about and rest the feet at will; then, if the bellows hof the requisite large size, and having the wind chest or reservoir, all will be well. As to the reeds, they must be scientifically tuned and volced, or all the other good qualities in the world cannot produce a good toned in strument. The inquiry now very naturally arises, where can the organ be procured combining all those essential and desirable qualities? There is only one possessing all these points, and thatis the AMERICAN OHGAN, made by S. D. & H. W. Smith, of Boston, Sheeling of the instrument and so constructed as to act at the some time as a reverberating sound-box or board, and having the same important relation and part to perform that the sounding-board has to the piano. This feature the makers have patented, and to it are owing in a great measure the entirely unequalled fullness and rich ease of tone so highly prized by all who have used these organs. They also have the largest and best divided bell ws in use, which is another important feature. No part of their work is slighted, no expense or pains spared to make the American Organs perfect nusically as as electant ther proud position they have won by superior merit alone

Gentlemen:—I have recently leen laboring under the distressing effects of indigestion, accompanied by a prostration of the nervous system. Numerous remedies were recommended by feinds, and some of them tested, but without relief. Your Heoliand's German Bitters were recommended by persons who had tried them, and whose favorable mention of these bitters induced me to try them. I must confess that I had an aversion to Patent Medicines from the "thousand and one" quack "Bitters," whose only aims seems to be to palm off sweetened and drugged liquor upon the community in a sly way, and the tendency of which, I fear, its to make many a confirmed drunkard. Upon learning that yours was really a medicinal preparation I took it with happy effect. Its action, not only upon the stemach, but upon the nervous system, was prompt and gratifying. I feel that I have derived great and permanent bonefit from the use of a few bottles.

Very respectfully yours.

The use of three bottles of these litters at the beginning of the present year. was followed by evident relief and restoration to a degree of bodily and mental vigor which I had not foll for six months be fore, and had atmost despaired of regaining. I therefore thank God and my friend for directing me to the use of them.
