AMERICAN ORGANS.

(From "Godey's Ludies' Book" February, REED ORGANS, &c.

THE following remarks and suggestions the stone relative to this immensely popular instruction that it doubtless interest and profit very many of our feaders, we common the article to their caroful program.

a candid and Intelligent source, and thus we give the our readers.

The question is often asked, what are "reedergans?" We adswer, they are, in most cases, nothing in the world but the old melodeon in disguise. Many of the so-called organs have the same believes, the same reads, and the same general internal arrangement. With the bellows tinred on edge to gain room, they have simply put on a more predentious exterior and a more high sounding name. But an organ, to be in really an organ, must have a winderhest or reservoir for air separate from the bellows, into which wind-chest the reads open, and the tone has room to expand and perfect itself into the full round tone, similar to the dute or placegain, oven, smooth, firm, and mellow; and this tone from reads cannot be obtained in any other way known. Nothing so annoys a true organist as to have the volume of sound swelling and jerking spacemotically with every variation of force on the bellows, which is always the ease where the reads, open direct into the, bellows, or air passages, justed of a wind-chest or sound-box. And yet some inskers even ges of iteras to claim this wind acting directly upon the reeds, is nothing more and the state of the fact that they can obtain those that are organs in fact as well as a maine, they will buy no more of the fact as well as a maine, they will buy no more of the objectionable ones. Then again the swell should always be separate and distinct from the bellows, so as not to be acted on by the hand, or soft blowing, but convenient so that the player can use it with the knee, separate from the hands or feet, and thus always under easy control, to be used ad libitum.

The large divided bellows, or doubtle bellows, is also wery important improvement.—By this means not only can the while be supplied more evenly, but with far greater easy to the performer, from the fact that either fields is also in the sum of the sufficient for the lighter modelles, thus permitting the player to change about reservoir, all will be well; As to the recent, they must be scientifically timed and volved, or all the other good qualities in the world cannot produce a good toned instrument. The inquity now very naturally arises, where can the organ be procured combining all those assential and destraids qualities? There's only one possessing all these points, and that is the AMERICAN DIGGAN, made by S. D. & H. W. Strin, of floation, Simbara. Our Wholesale Agent, 581 Broadway, New York. These organs have a wind-chest extending the whole length of the instrument and so constructed as to act at the same time as a reverbeating sound-box or board, and having the same important relation and part to perform that the sounding-board has to the piano. This feature the makers have patented, and to it are owing in a great measure the entirely unequalled fullness and rich, ess of tone so highly, prized by all who have used these organs. Thos place have the Targest and tost divided believel in use, which is another important fedture. No part of their work is slighted, no expanse or pains sparcel to banke the American Organs perfect, nusically, as well as inechanically, and, judging from the humaness sale of them at present, they ble first to long malithin the product postition they have wen by superfor merit alone. We would most hearting adjust all interested to call, inponor address Mn. Stuema Orr, the Wholesale Agent, at to them all the Information they may desire relative to their struly delightful instrument.
