4 00 7 00

A. K. RHEEM, Publisher.

Oh Yes, Oh Yes, Oh Yes,

The people are going to Plank's.

· CHEAP

ROOT

and Shoe Store in Carlists. The amount of mousy which can be saved by buring at Plank's Boot

AND SHOE

STORE

CARLISLB.

Midway between Thudiums and Wetpels Hotels

EAL ESTATE AGENT, Scrivener

conveyances Insurance and Claim Agent. Of Main Street Near Contre Square.

TTUATE near the village of Lisburn,

Brick Mansion House Brick Bank Barn, BRICK SMOKE HOUSE.

Bake House and Spring House,

Lare. Wagen Shed, and other convenient out-build free, a stream of running water near the house an abundance of Fruit of all kinds consisting of Apple Peaches, Peace Origins, Sec. The larm is beautiful; situated on the bark of the "Colfordiffeed build the the soil in the inchest possible state of cultivative consisting of a mixture of Lines 17th and circles. Petton land, not nearly all modern possible and circle.

Two Valueble Tracts of Timber

Land at Private Sale

CITUATE on the South Mountain per Mount along School of the South Mountain per Mount Bolly Sydnigs To hely long acts, I free containing 5 heres, adjoining the acquarty of the Mt. Religible Property. Well everyed with young chestout, Anothe hard containing 40 days adjoin-

Motel Property in Churchtown at Private Sale

SITUATE on Main Street containing

FRAMU HOUSE,

INSURANCES MADE PROPETUAL AND TEMPOR

pany to One Million of Dallars Applyto A. L. Sponsler, Agent.

FOR SALE.

TOWN PROPERTY on South Hand and 2 to reco.

ing Houses, Shops and other manuscripting ing Houses, Shops and other manuscripting of divided to suit purchasers. Apply to —, A. L. SPONSLER.

A Valuable Lot of Ground.

DESIRABLE for gardening or build-ing purposes situate on North Pitt Street, ox-tended and adjoining The Pair Grounds in the Bor-ough of Carlislo, containing 4 acres, be the same more or less, will be sold at Private Sale on reasonable terms

Just Published, in a Scaled Envelope. Price

six cents. A Locture on the Nature, Treatment, and Radical Curs of Seminal Weakness, or Sportator

Dry Goods ! Dry Goods !

'lisle, Pu.

ry Goods.

I have selected the most desirable goods that

Statemed in the Eastern Markets, paid most se uch as Plaid and Plain Poplins. Liupius, French Merinockof every shade and qual oburgs, Mous de Laines, and Alpaccas all colors.

MOURNING GOODS.

MUSLINS, MUSLINS,

n and good .-- A-large involce of Cloths and Cassimeres,-

Jeans, Velvet Cord. &c.

Ivins' Patent Hair Crimpers.

For Crimping and Waving Ladies' Hair.

NO HEAT REQUIRED IN USING THEM.

Ask your Storekeeper for them. If he does not keep

Oct. 12, 1866.

g Silks, Bombazines, Ropps Double and , all Weel DeLaines, Alpaceas, English ls and Collars, London Mourning Print

wer street, Carlisle, Compelsing 120 feet in front ad 240 feet in depth having thereon erected 3. Dwell-ng Houses, Shops and other Buildings will be sold en-

The assetts of this Co

170 feet in front out 150 feet in depth Impron hippings Confide the latery orland County, 8 miles from Mechanics miles from Harrysburg, containing 108 cared bull about 5 which are covered with

Brick Mansion House,

BRICK SMOKE HOUSE.

A. L. SPONSLER

Store will keep a person in pocket money for a yer You cansearcely name any kindu: a Boot or Shooth Plank has not got and all selling at greatly reduce prices. Just go to Plante's cheap Root and Shoo.

TEIGHBOR now we can afford to keep ourselves and children in good Boots or. Hats and Caps, since they are selling so very

OR PRINTING .- (memleb Printing Office is the egest and most complete establishment in the nn v. Four good Presses, and a general variety of sterial suited for plain and Fancy work of each analysis us to do Job Printing at the shor otton, and on the most reasonable terms. in want of Bills, Blanks, or anything in the Jobbing time, will find it to their interest to give us a call.

WM. B. PARKER HUMRICH & PARKER. TTORNEYS AT LAW. Office of

G. M. BELTZHOOVER, A TTORNEY AT LAW, and Real Estate Agent, Shepherdstown, West VirginiaEstate Agent, Shepherdstown, West VirginiaEstate Agent, Shepherdstown, West VirginiaEstate Agent Shepherdstown, West Virginia
Estate Agent Shepherdstown, West Virginia
Estate Shepherdstown, West Virginia
Est

F. SAILLER, Attorney at Law, Carliell Pa. Office in Volunteer Building, South Hanover Street. C HERMAN, Attorney at Law,

AMES A. DUNBAR, Attorney at Law. Carlisle, Pa. Office in Rheem's Hall, next

Law, Carlisle, Pa. Office in loar to W. M. Penrose's office. July 1, 1864—1y. TOSEPH RITNER, Jr., Attorney at Law and Surveyor, Mechanicaburg, Pa. Off Plead Street, two doors north of the Bank. 5. Business promptly attended to. alv 1.186.

INO. C. GRAHAM, Attorney at Law, Carliale, Pa. Office formerly occupied by Jude nam, South Hanover street. ptember 8, 1865.

E. BELTZHOOVER, Attorney at Law Office in South Hanover street, opp z's dry good store Carlisle, Pa. M. WEAKLEY, Attornoy at Law,

Office on south Hanover street, adjoining the of Judge Graham. All professional business on d to him will be promptly attended to. CAMUEL HEI'BURN, Jr., Attorney

Jat Law. Offi Carlisle Pa, July 1, 1884. AW CARD,-CHARLES E. MA

ALAUGHEIN, Attorney at Law, Office com formerly occupied by Judge Graham.

July 1, 1864—1y. DR. WM. H. COOK,

HOMOEOPATHIC PHYSICIAN. Surgeon and Accouchour FFICE at his residence in Pitt street, Adjoining the Methodist Church

DR. GEORGE S. SEA RIGUT, Dentist, from the Baltlere Collage of Dental Surgery. on Office at the residence of his nother, East Louther street, three doors below liedland July 1, 1864.

CTEO: W. NEIDICH, D. D. S. est Main struct, Carlisle, I'a.

TAS. R. A. SMITH'S PHOTO IVORYTYPES, AMBROTYPES, AND MELAINOTYPES

also Pictures on Personin, (something new) both Pla and Science and which are beautiful productions the Photographic art. Call and see them. Particular attention given to copying from Daguerr types &c. She invites the patronage of the public. Feb. 15, 1866

SOMETHING NEW. Porcelain Picture or OPAL-TYPE. THIS beautiful Picture is now made 1113 Deatherth I resure is now made at Lochman Callery, In Dr. Neff's Ruidding, opposite the First National Bank, with such perfection and style, tone and finish that it ganget help but please overy one. The perceialn imparts a most clear and chaming complexion to the pleture.

All other styles of PHOTOGRAPHS,

CARD PICTURES and AMBROTYPES, are made in the most perfect manner. A large variety of Frames and Fassapartouts, Cases, Albums are on hand and will be sold-cheap.
Copying doise in the best manner. The public is respectfully invited to examine specimens.
The First Premium has been awarded by late county Pair to C. I., Lochman, for

Feb. 9, 1866. TREMENDOUS EXCITEMENT! New Firm ! New Store!! New Goods!! HE undersigned having taken the Store Room, in Main St, recently occupied by John D. Gorgan, next door to "Marion Ilail," would respectfully invite the attention of the people of Cardisle and vicinity to my large, varied and well selected Stock of Dry Gooda, consisting in part, or

MUSLINS, CALICOES. DELAINES. GINGHAMS. FLANNELS, &c.

t greatly reduced prices, in consequence of the la coavy decline in Goods in the Eastern Cities, and in up goods are all new, I can and-will sell at ast unis ngly low rates. I have also a choice selection MERINOES, ALPACAS, MOIIAIR, all Wool detaines, Lusters, Poplins, also a fine assement of Contlemon's Wear, such as CLOTHS.

CASSIMERES, SATTINETTS. JEANS, COTTONADES &c.

S. C. BROWN.

March 10, 1866. HATS AND CAPS For Mon and Boys THE subscriber announces to the cit-teons of Carlisto, and vicinity, that he has re-commenced the manufacture of hats of every-variety of, sevic. Having secured the sevices of the best of workmen, he feels prepared to sustain the reputation by making the lest hats in the state. Particular at tention will be paid to the making of the old fashion Stiff Brush, or Dunkard Hat still strike the second of the

OLD STAND

CAPS and STRAW HATS, of all kinds and at all prices.

Gall and examine his stock at the old stand in North

June 1. 1866. Agent. Agent. A few doors north of the Carlisle Deposit Bank, and next to Cornman's shoe store.

N. B.—Old Hats repaired, colored and done, up in all stylos at the shortest notice and reasonable rates.

J. A. K.

CONFECTIONARY (REAM WORK, Stars, Tulips, Bon-bons, A-lamodo, Chocolates, Hands, Coronnut, and Walnut. Doc. 10, 1866. AT HAVERSTICKS.

ADIES COMPANIONS, l sorts shapes and sizes. 15, 1865 AT HAVERSTICKS.

PLOWS.—Plank, Zeigler, York, Engle and Ferry Plows, for sale chean at SAXTON'S. Bept. 18, 1860.

ORT Folios, Writing Dosks, Back Gammon Boards, Games of all description at Hav-erstick's Drug, Fancy and Book Store. BIRD CAGES of every description at SAXTON.S

Carlisle, Pa., Friday, November 16, 1866.

NO. 46.

TERMS:--$2,00 in Advance, or $2,50 within the year.

die away along the street. The barber did not resume the use of the day, for a week, for a month, for six months; shaving-brush-both he and his soapsuds straight on, straight on, through fire, water, were pretty nearly exhausted-but he took | wind, hail, snow, fog, mist, thunder, sodathe razor and passed it once or twice over water, and treacle. But the pursuers were the strop, and then pulling a handful of hairs on the track, they were close behind, I heard ful flourish of his razor, "time was made from my head, tried the edge of the blade them coming. I escaped them. The means upon one of them. The hair was split, and by which I escaped I shall never reveal, as the barber appeared satisfied. He raised I may want them again. A short time his left hand and took hold of my nose; he since, I arrived in this town. I came, conheld my nose much more tightly than the cealed in the steam of an express engine. exigencies of the occasion required; he This shop was to be let. I took it. I put a twisted my nose about in every direction, constraint upon my tongue and upon my he elongated and compressed my nose as if features. No one suspected me. Last night it had been made of gutta-percha. The was the Towzer anniversary. As it appastime seemed to afford him grim satisfac- proached, I felt that something must hapwere a capital joke. At length he ceased have had me go to bed, would you? Very and advanced the razor. It was a terrible well, then; don't look as if you would. I moment. The barber stared at me, and stayed alone in the shop. From half-past then again sacted himself in the chair, and eleven to twelve I employed myself in said, in a more conversational and easy stropping a razor—this one—as 1 mad done. tone than he had before used:

"Perhaps-perhaps you think I am mad?" white fibbing was venial, and I replied: "Oh dear no, my dear sir, quite the contrary-a little occentric, perhaps" and forced a smile, "but nothing more." "Oh, if you did," said he, lightly and air ily, "you would not be the only one. Many have shared the delusion. Many persons, themselves insane, have formed that erroneous opinion. But woe to him," and he brandished the razor-"woe to him who does not instantly expel it from his mind! You-"My dear sir," said I. "how can you sus-contrary I consider you the most perfectly sane and sensible person I ever met." "Good. And my conversation is both intructive and agreeable to you?"

anxiously down the street, as if expecting bove all things, to come back and spend the afternoon with you. But at present- but I must see more! more! more!" am very sorry, but -I fear I must be going. In fact, that pressing engagement I spoke of---."

The comparative mildness of his manner and emboldened me to make this further atempt to escape; but it did not succeed. He gave me a look which again made me brink into myself, and said :

"As it is well known, and fully understoo ooth by me and by yourself, that I must and oill shave you, it is right and proper that I should, before commencing that difficult and delicate operation, explain to you the precise position in which we stand. I perceive that, unfortunately, you tremble a good doal; and moreover, that you have a considerable mole on one cheek, and one or two dangerous looking pimples on the other. I fear," he shook his head gravely, "I fear that thos protuberance may cause most serious, if not fatal, difficulties. It appears to me, then will be advisable for me to relate to you a portion of my history, so that you may understand the perilous position in which we are placed." He hemmed, and cleared his voice in most respectable and orthodox manner. I rying a piece of the bakehouse. It was twelve o'clock, and was at an end for that day. But I scarcely but my cheeks, my nose, my cars, my throat heeded it All I cared for now, was escape The barber resumed:

"Know, then." said he, "that at a former period of my existence I had a shop of a similar kind to this. It was a Saturday evening; business was immense, overwhelming. As the customers stood waiting for their turns, they were packed as thick herrings in a barrel. They were mostly coul heavers. Coals are beneficial to the growth of beards, though detrimental to razors. Can it be wondered at, that my arms grow feeble Two or three women came out of their and my eyelids heavy? I had no assistants houses to look at the carriage, but other- I always scorned assistance. I was happy, wise the street remained quiet, the dog still for on the morrow, on the very Sunday going to sleep outside the public-house Jemima. O, Jemima! It was half past ehave no more customers that night. But I ogre. did not close until twelve, and my razors

He passed the razor a few times over the palm of his hand and, and resumed: "It was close on the stroke of twelve... basking in the sun; a horse seemed to be into the public house. I suppose he spent put up the shutters, and partly closed the door. I was about to turn off the gas, believing that work was over for-the night, when one more customer entered. I knew he would never cease, using the brush now him well. I had shaved him before. He was a little old weazen man, . He was the clerk Another man stopped in the street and of the parish church to which I sometimes looked at the barber's pole; he too passed went. His throat was long and skinny, and was my jealousy of that martial Twiggs have never seen equalled, and then stropped his hand over his chin. He was a decent, its larynx was very prominent. The larynx which drove me to the desperate resolution a razor, with such ferceity that I thought respectable looking man; had on a clean of your throat," and the barber stepped back shirt and an average hat. My heart bound- a pace, and looked at me with the air of a come of the superficient strains and expending my last flour was come. So intent did he shirt and an average hat. My heart bound- a pace, and looked at me with the air of a come of the superficient strains and contains a superficient strains and contains a razor, with such ferceity that I thought respectable looking man; had on a clean of your throat," and the barber was no more mad than I was. The barber was no more mad than I was.

The barber was moved to tears. While he hand into his pocket, but instead of pence, wept, I looked at my watch. It was twenty he took out a watch. He looked at his minutes after twelve, but the barber seemed watch, and seemed startled. He shook his more rational than before. I hoped soon to got away.

"The old man seated himself," continued lathered him, and began to shave. I got on very well with his upper lip and the upper part of his chin, but when I came to the reat me. I felt as if the lather must be an inch gions of the throat, being somewhat sleepy, thick upon my face, and of the consistency. I made a little slip and drew blood. The past. of clay. I became sick and faint, and there old clork was very angry. I apologized, and tion. I forced myself to grin, as though it pen. I did not go to bed. You would not then. At the stroke of twelve old Towzer came in through the closed door, and seat-This, if any, was a time in which a little ed himself in the chair where you now sit. I could not help_myself. I advanced to shave him. But he motioned me back, and said, in the same creaking voice in which he used to say Amen:

"To-morrow one customer will come into your shop. Only one. Shave him! Shave him! Shave him! as you shaved ME!!' He pointed to his throat, and vanished. I have been thinking over the matter, and have arrived at the conclusion that I am not necessarily bound to cut your throat. I did not cut the old man's; he did it himself; and, therefore, I hope that all may yet be pect such a think for a moment? On the well. If I can shave you without drawing 'a drop of blood, you will escape. But if I accidentally cut you, as I did Towzer, the coincidence will be so remarkable that I shall feel myself bound to go on. You see the "Highly so," I replied. "I should like, point? Ever since that terrible night, I have not been able to see a drop of blood,

> At this time the carriage drove up to Julia's door, having returned from its fruitless journey to the church. I heard the steps let down, and the house door open and shut, and then I heard the carriage drive off. But I could see only dimly, for I felt sick and

The barber also heard, and looked towards the window. As he again turned to me, I thought I saw a smile flit over his features. I felt somewhat encouraged.

'I cannot proceed with any hope of safety, until you are more quiet." -I was glad to hear him say that; for dread of-the-razor-under-the-terrible-conditions-hehad mentioned. Lending a somewhat un- and demanded judgment for the balance of necessary aid to nature, I shook to such an extent that the barber, mad as he was, look-au positively autimes.

The nock, fills in named, at he, or was black, As I heard his next words, I could scarcely believe my ears.

do you say ?'

"The very thing." I cried. And oh, how my heart beat with hope. Nothing could have been more favorable to my chances of escape. The key of the door was still in his pocket. I could see the handle of it peoping

The barber closed his razor, yawned, retched out his legs, and folded his arms. stilled my trembling limbs as well as could, and, at the earliest moment consisten with probability, began to draw my breath steal alglance at the barber. His eyes were

Now was my time! I arose, and two steps

I rushed down the court; I fled up the street; I was without a hat, the shavingcloth was still on my shoulders, my face was thickly covered with lather, so that I must have considerably terrified the persons in the streets. I have since heard that one old lady was frightened into fits. But whither I went, what I did, or what I said, I do no

One thing, incredible as it seemed to me at lieve he had managed to persuade Julia that 'he did so, solely for love of her; unknown to me, he had been for some time her favored suitor; she had already promised to marry him, when I cut him out. He was awar that it was my wodding-day, and was broodentered his shop. He knew me by sight, and conceived the idea of taking revenge both on Julia and on myself, by preventing me from was a buzzing noise in my cars, as if I had began again. In an instant, in a moment, a than he anticipated; for Julia would never been under water. Sudden choking fit of coughing soized him, have anything to say to me again, and her Another man ! He did not ,pause; he did and before I could withdraw my hand, his door was always closed in my face in the not hesitate; he did not pass his hand over throat came forward with a violent jerk a-his chin; he did not feel in his pocket. He gainst the keen edge of the razer, and the aguin, he rattled the latch. I was about to about Jemims. the continual jeering of boys and others, sold and force.

BRICK POMEROY IN A LAW SUIT.

lone by me?

the kingdo

The editor of the La Crosse Democrat, who gets up a very spicy newspaper, has lately been enjoying the luxury of a law suit, of which he gives the following account:

my business, and retired to another part of

I have since been informed that Julia at last forgave the barber for having caused the nortifying predicament in which she had been placed, and became his wife. He soon after returned to the stage, where he did pretty well, and would have done better, if e had not been somewhat too fond of drink.

I hear that Julia henpecks him horribly, and leads him by no means an angel of a life;

so, perhaps, I am well out of it after all, for

f she can serve him so, what would she have

Monday forenoon there came off before Folice Judge Hubbard, in this city, another law suit, the particulars of which are as Reinhardt Hendricks,, on the 17th of September, brought suit against "Brick" Pomeroy, to recover, pay for two roosters shot by defendant with a revolver, the chickens pelonging to the plaintiff, to the value of lfty cents each. Through the kindness of he judge the case has been adjourned from veek to week, till the return of "the defend-. ant from an electioneering tour of Indiana. This morning the case came off, Ex-Mayor, Hon. James I. Lyndes, being the counsel for the prosecution, the defendant appearing in his own defense.

for judgemnt of one dollar and costs.

In April, 1866, the defendant owned a fast running trick mare," Kitty," which animal was kept in a stable hired by him, and cared for by one of his employees. Through a little hole in the barn or stable the plaintiff's hens would fly in and eat onts "intended" for the mare " Kitty," and on the approach of any one would fly out. In an old barrel in the stable, one of the heas, a black one, made her nest, laid thirteen eggs therein, and proceded to raise a family. - When the hen got ready to set, the defendant instructed the boy who took care of his mare to go down town, purchase thirteen eggs of J. W. Robinson & Co., grocers, and put them in the nest, first removing the other eggs. The boy did so as was proved. He then peronally drove the hen out of the stable a lozen times or more-he tried to make her leave-she would not, but proceeded to incubate his eggs, duly bought and paid for, without his consent, leave or license, after repeated efforts on his part and by his agents have her vacate his premises. And far ther, when the hen had hatched his eggs, she ran away with his chickens, eleven in number, two eggs not producing chickens. Toful as was my present-position, anything was her services he brought an offset, the use of stable and board bill in the shape of oatshe charged her with two eggs she spoiled, the flock, nine in number, at fifty cents each. while the chickens were red or speckled! Hendricks has sued all his neighbors for some little trifling matter, half a dozen times each during the past two years. After a pasteady too. I had no rest last night. Now, tient hearing, the judge decided that there really began to hope that he was working his way round to his right mind.

At this time I saw a girl pass through the street, carrying a piece of roast meat from the street, carrying a piece of roast meat from the street, carrying a piece of roast meat from the street, carrying a piece of roast meat from the street, carrying a piece of roast meat from the street, carrying a piece of roast meat from the street of the st was no cause of action, and that the defen-

> Good friends ! why you have ten! replied his master.

hose that I have are to poor to help me.' 'Count your fingers, my boy,' said his naster.

'Count, thumbs and all,' added the mas

'I have-there are ten,' said the lad. Then never say you have no ten good riends, able to bely you on in life. shat those true friends can do before you go grumbling and fretting because you do ot get help from others.

The following lines are on the sign of a oadside inn between:Swindon and Marlboough-The Plough:

In hopes we all are led;

In hopes to get my bread.

Lind, who was formerly the idol of the pub lic; Jenny Lind, who for years gathered flowers and bank notes on her way, may be said to have assisted at her own funeral as an artist, in having unfortunitely again come before the public long after lier voicewas no more. She was hissed by a great part of the audience.

his liest hands in the midst of haymaking, remarked to the sexton as he was filling up the grave: "It's a sad thing to lose a good nower at a time like this; but, after all. poor Tom was a great cater."

While a counsellor was pleading at the Irish har, a louse unluckily peeped from under his wig. Curran, who sat next to him, whispered what he saw. "You joke," said the barrister. "If," replied Curran, "you have many such jokes in your head, the dead, and I've had another since !"

The man everybody likes is generally a fool. The man nobody likes is a knave. broiled alive, is usually a man of some worth Moeticul. A FANTASY.

BY PLOBENCE PERCY n the low wall of my chamber, where the r fall most brightly

At the sales noom of B. Plank, South West Corner of Negth Ramover St., and Locant Alloy. "Plank, has just returned from the Park, and is now opening in addi-bler to his former glock a rage ascordment of Boots, Stoos, Hats and Caps, which for price and quality can not be kurpassed, Indee I it is a blessing to the people angs a dear familiar picture, which I sit and gaze nightly. Till It e with life. fainted,

And above whose lonesome grave t rene and sainted,
With her bright lips uttering blessings, and a glor-and see for yourselves, and you will find that half has not been told but what has been told lattue. Remember the stand South West Corner of North Hauover St., parted,

And the gloom which eadly follows, till my tears un bidden fall-ill a gentle resignation o'er my coul comessoftly glid Highly improved Farm at Private Salo Born of the enduring patience shining in these soft

Till rebellious to

Till the fact is close beside me, and the eyes look Into

Till my spirit shrinks no longer weakly from its light And the hours pass by uncounted, while I sit in listen growing chillness-Seeing only those sweet features as the moonlight of Fades the vision of the night-time, with its train of when day with shining footprints o'er the distan

Miscelluorues.

THE MAD BARBER. Extensive Stabiling and Sheda, Wash House, and other convenient out buildly, et an excellent Well of Water at the deep and a Cystern in the grad. For terms and, further particular, enquire of the owner Mrs. arrival and the convenient of the content of the conte I wonder whother a man is most likely to be sleepless on the night before he is married, or on the night before he is hanged! I have experience of only the more blissful of OME Insurance. Company of New Haven, Come the Contamination of January 1st, these two kinds of anticipation; but I confess that the night before I was to be joined to my beloved Julia in the bonds of wedlock, was one of the most restless I ever passed in my life. I am a timid man, a nervous man, a man ever painfully conscious of all his defects and deficiencies, but never before had he assetts of this Company consist of United States gramment Securities, steeks in National Banks, and Mortgages on Real F to to The Board of Directors o declared a Scani-Vangal cash Different of Tin I felt such a poignant regret that I could not add a couple of inches to my stature; have declared a Scale translate as histidend of The purpose of free from Government Tax payable on and after leth, January, 1866. And have yeard of the central first for the year ending issued to facuary, 1866. And have yeard to increase the Control of Sixty per cent on the carned Premium of Polycler ending issued to facuary, 1866. And have yeard to increase the Capital Stock of the Comand when I reflected that I had never had Then I thought of that dark little parlor behind my shop in the dingy village, where I lived, and I felt how dull Julia would find it after sitting always engaged in tasteful millinery work at her front first-door window in oven that quiet street of our country The fact is-and I own it with humiliation-I was not up to Julia's level. To be THE GREAT CAUSE OF Human Misery sure. I had a nice snug little business in the drapery, pin and needle, note-paper, bacon, and general line at our village, but surely Julia was not the girl to be influenced by such a consideration, and besides, she had a THE GREAT CAUSE OF good business and a hundred and fifty pounds of her own. No, it must have been the depth of my devotion, and I must do myself the credit of saying that I was excoedingly devoted. I don't think there was a single article in my shop-drapery, grocery, needles and pins, bacon, or general line-from which I had not sent her presents of the best; and when I returned from London in spring, I bought her such a shawl as my into the pocket of his light linen jacket. illage -- whatever may have been the case with her town-had never seen or dreamed

A Looture on the Nature, Troatment, and Radical Cure of Semind! Weakness, or Spoinntor-thea, Involuntary Ewissions, Impotuncy, Nervous Indihity and Tupediments to Marrings generally: Consumption, Epilopey, and Files Mental and Physical Interpretty, & Martin of Mar of. Julia was so superior to mo! Such a trary I began to consider my chances of escape. that he had not been shaved for a week; magnificent brunette, at least three inches taller than myself, with black hair brilliant dark eyes, sploudid figure, such a walk, and such a spirit! It was not until after o Contin.
Address the Publishers.
Address the Publishers.
127 Royery, New York, Post Office box, 4586.
Match 10, 1866—1y. I had at length prospered so well in my courtship. I had been madly jealous when that young scamp of a cousin of her's came iome from sea; I had been madly jealous of the inspector of police, after the street row but scarcely anybody passed, and nobedy A. W. Bentz, South Hanover Street, Carin which he bheaved with such distinguished have just made my second Fall addigallantry; worse than all, I had been madly icalous of her flirtation with young Twiggs, of the militia staff, after the roview. It round with a savage carnestness which I the sum of four bounds in a suit of uniform. Ladies' Dress Goods, But soldiering did not suit me. I might my chair with the half-formed resolution of man would be particular about his appear-was a bachelor, and was supposed to have have managed eventually to fire off a gun, disregarding the danger of broken glass, and ance. Surely such an examplary man money. His name was Towger!" have managed eventually to fire off a gun, disregarding the danger of broken glass, and ance. Surely such an exemplary man money. His name was Towzer!" but the sight of cold glittering steel was making a spring slap through the window too much for my nerves, and the manners into the street. But the barber was on me of the drill-sorgeant were so excessively like a tiger, and dashed the shaving brush, rude that I was obliged to give the thing up. full of lather, into my face, with such viol-Twiggs about the same time retired from ence as to knock me back into my seat, to the militia, and no longer harrassed me by stiffe a scream in which I was about to lift his hateful presence in the town; but Julia's up my voice, and to make me splutter and conduct still continued (to say the least of cough for a considerable period.

it) excessively trying, and not until within When I had somewhat recovered, I saw hereto name the happy day. The prevailing | to me; and when our eyes met he said : "Ah lannols, Mode, Sofferinc, Blue, Brown, oreen and carlet Sque Flannols, good Can-carlet Sque Flannols, good Can-White and Colored Homemode Flannols, good Can-on Flannick, Trints very best brands, Gloves, Hoods, and Buttons of every kind, Shirts and Drawers, Hoods, Nuthus and Braskfast Shawis, Blankots at Lowest peecs, Balmoral and Hoop Skirts, Floor and Stair Oll and triumph. Still I was restless, horribly restless, and as I heard the clock strike one our after another, I became painfully-senioth.
I am propared and will soli at the lowest prices.
A. W. BENTZ. sible of the injurious effect that such rest> pearance for the following day. I got up in the morning at a not very early hour, and dressed myself with scrupulous care in garments which, though by no means of overpoworing magnificence, were unmistakably suggestive of matrimonial intentions. But when I attempted to shave," my hand shook so us to make it likely that in a voice of thunder. "Is it my skill that the operation, if persevered in, would be you doubt?"

lessness would have on my norves and ap-and determination which no one acquainted | ishing manner, "not at all, not at all. I aswith my character would suppose possible sure you I have the utmost confidence in unless ho saw it. My board is also of a your skill; but time, my doar sir, time." dirtyish yellow color. I could not proceed There was not much time to spare if I was to church to meet my bride without having to be married, instead of murdered; that fine it closely removed. I therefore determined morning. to step into some barber's shop and get it done. And so I made my breakfast with what appetite I might, put the license and | for slaves !" the ring into my pocket, and set out for the town wher Julia lived. This town was about twenty minutes by have heard at a convivial meeting. Fancyrail from our village, and I arrived there in | ing that the barber might not be wholly devory good time. Julia and I had agreed void of human sympathy, I determined to that our wedding should be as quiet as pos- tell him on what errand I was bound. I sible; and it had been arranged that I should said, in as wheedling and insinuating a manwalk alone to the church, while she should ner as I could, and with an attempt to approceed thither in a carriage, accompanied pear jocose, which I think, was highly crestonly by an uncle and a younger sister. My 'itable to me under the circumstances. way to the church lay by Julia's door, and, dear sir, the fact is, between you and me and so much was I engressed by thoughts of the the post, that I am on my way to be marcoming ceremony, that it was not until I ried mid arrived at that point, that the aight of Ha, ha! I am sure I need not remind a gena parber's pole on the opposite side of the tleman who is, no doubt, a favorite with the way, reminded me that I had not yet been sex, that when a lady's in the case-Ha. shaved. I glanced at Julia's window, but I ha!" I rubbed my hands in a manner inwas so early that no one was visible, and tended to be expressive of perfect case and there was as yet no sign of a carriage at the cheerfulness, and again rose to depart. door. I looked at my watch, and stepped into the barber's shop. The window of the shop fronted the street, and waved the glittering razor in my face in but the door was up a little court by the such very close proximity to my nose that I side, so that, as the barber happened to be dropped again into the chair. He then went looking out of the window when I entered, stamping and striding about the shop, shout-I could not see the barber's face, neither did ing: "Going to be married! Going to swear the barber see me. It seemed as if he did a peace! False blood to false blood joined! not hear me either; scating myself in a Rash mortal, why did you remind me of chair in the middle of the shop, and placing marriage? Oh, lost Jemima!" Taking a you do not consider me mad; ch?" my hat on a form, I said, in a mild tone of cheap china ornament from the mantlepiece oice: "I want a shave if you please."

The barber did not move, and the expres- erunched each separate fragment into powtion of his countenance—as far as could be | der under the heel of his boot. And whilst inferred from an inspection of the back of he was doing this with a most yindictive exof his head-was one of melancholy abstrac- pression of countenance, I saw Julia come Again I said; in a somewhat louder tone:

I will trouble you to shave me, if you the arrival of the carriage. Imagine my Still the barber did not move. Surprised at this, I called out in a sharpon nanner: "I want a shave!"

The barber, with a callous indifference t Il precedent, remained unmoved. I fancied he must be deaf, and next time oncentrated all the power of my lungwhich would have otherwise been diffused ver a whole sentence-into a most emphatic onomeiation of one word := "Shaye!! He was a tall young man, slender but well built, tolerably good looking, with a dark noustache, but without whiskers or beard, think I won't be married at all, as the idea nis.eyes was large and well opened, but apcared, as he first looked towards me, as they saw nothing of me, or my beard, or anything else. One would have supposed that re had never heard of shaving before. I thought all this very queer: but still upposing that he must be deaf, I but my le to my mouth, so as to form a nature speaking-trumpet, and bauled out as loudly as I could: "I want a-shave! And please to-make haste! I have a pressing-engagement! In a moment his eyes flashed with a strange light. Advancing towards me with a bound, he seized a chair, set it down with the crown of the head to the sole of the loot.

to be shaved ?" so, taking out my watch, I said: "Well-time now. Good morning," and I rose to picture. go away. But the barber rose also; and pressing me back into the chair by main force, stood over me with one hand on each of my shoulders, whilst I looked up at him in utter terror and

"You came into this shop said he." " vo came into this shop, to be shaved?"

"Ye-yes," was all I could stammer out. "And by me ?" "Well, I—I suppose so."

Stepping to the door, he locked it in the to let me go; or perhaps some other customer might come in. Surely somebody would many a loar, and many a jealous doubt, that come! I looked through the window, but the street was quiet and still, 'A dog lay of a public house next to Julia's dwelling; intemperance!

came to be shaved. The barber went to the little fire-place, took up a pot of soapsuds, and stirred them. appear, on this operation, that I rose from ed with hope. Surely such a respetable connoiseur, "reminds me forcibly of his. Ho fore, as an actor for a theatre; but not find-the last fortriight had I been able to induce the barber again seated in the chair opposite feelings of my heart were feelings of delight | you tremble! Say, do you doubt my skill?" "On no; oh dear no; quite the contrary," replied. "Do you see this arm?" He rolled up his

> "Oh, very, very muscular," I gasped exceedingly muscular." And so it did. "Do you see this razor? Is it keen?" "Very keen indeed," I replied with a shudsleeve. "Does it look muscular?"

"Do you doubt its ablility to shave you?" "Oh no: oh dear no." I replied. Then is it, after all, my skill?" he cried

"Time!" cried the barber, with a dread-There was something reassuring in this last observation, which I remembered to

But my appeal did not produce the effect I had intended; for the barber started up, he dashed it to the floor, and deliberately to her window in bridal costume, and look feelings i And still the street remained quiet, the dog lay basking in the sun, the horse seemed going to sleep outside the public-house door, scarcely any body passed, and nobody came to be shaved. "After the barber had ground the china or opposite to me. "And you would really go to be married with that beard unshaved?" "Well," said I, endeavoring to propitiate im, "well, I don't know. I think not. 1

nament to powder, he again-seated-himself cems disagreeable to you." "Disagreeable to me? Quite the reverse," he replied, with a wave of his razor. "It will afford me the greatest pleasure for you to be married, and I'll go to church with you, and while the ceremony is being performed, I will assist the officiating clergythe steeple! That is that is," he whispered in my ear, if you survive the shaving." "But, my good sir;" I faltered I, "I can go without being shaved. Better for me to be married without being shaved; than to be shaved without being married." "Quite a mistake," cried the barber: 'quite a mistake, I assure you. Never was there a bis way round to his right mind. drew himself into it, and, leaning forward greater fallacy. Married with that beard?

Throwing a cloth over my shoulders, he and back again, and said, as if I had made, at once began lathering away with prodig- all chance of my being at church in time a most extraordinary request : "You want jous rapidity-lathering not only my chin, I was beginning to be alarmed at all this, my nestrils, my teeth, my forehead, to the and only thought now of beating a retreat; very roots of my hair. My eyes alone avoided, working around them with as much care a-I did think of it; but I see I have not as if he were an artist painting a delicate

Under this infliction, I saw the carriage drive up to Julia's door, and presently drive off again in the direction of the church; whilst through its window I saw a fleeting vision of two white veils and a white waistcoat.

door, scarcely anybody passed, and nobody leven c'clock, and it seemed as if I were to "Then bast me!" cried he, "but I'll do came to be shaved. At that moment I saw a man walking on most determined manner, and put the key the other side of the street. He looked at were all blunted; so I determined to get one brought me to his side. My boots were new the barber's pole; he paused; he passed his of them thoroughly sharp before I shut the

I rather take credit to myself that I did hand over his chin; he was a dirty-faced shop. I took one, and honed it, and stropped But the barber-did not awake. Without not faint away at once; but that, on the con- man. I could see, even from that distance, it and stropped it, until it was in wonderful trouble or difficulty I drew the key from his The barber was certainly mad, but perhaps I surely, surely, he would come, and I should check of a peach. This razor that I have at the door. I put the key into the lock, might be able to pacify him, and induce him be rescued. He crossed to our side of the just prepared for you is the nearest approach turned it, the door opened easily. I was street, and stood outside the window. He to it that I have ever seen." put his hand into his poket, took out some pence, and looked at them. He shook his head. He re-crossed the street, and went going to sleep where he was tied to the door his money in beer. Oh, that horrid vice of would come to be shaved. He too put his head, and passed on. And so the dog still lay basking in the sun, and the horse kept going to sleep out-Bide the inn door, and few people passed by, and nobody came to be shaved. And still the barber kept lathering away been under water.

Still the barber lathered away, as though with the right hand, now with the left.

walked very fast; he turned sharply into the blood spurted out. He fell down in a wet turned a reply to the effect that it made no old is your youngest !" "The Youngest is court; he tried to open the door of the shop, heap on the floor, and was dead almost di-The barber ceased lathering; the shaving- rectly!"

brush was stilled. I would have screamed The barber paused, and pressed his hand son in the drapery, grocery, pin and needle, for help only the barber jobbed the suds to his head. I was horribly startled at this note-paper, bacon, and general line, were refiercely into my mouth. While I was splut- unlooked-for incident in the tale. I had ex- quired to be a hero! After a little while, I for him and focs who would love to see him them out, the man tried the door pected something mournfully sentimental gave the thing up, and, unable to withstand risk all, when, with an oath, the man moved | He continued, and his manner again be-away and I heard his departing footsteps came excited:

faint.

"Why, you are still trembling," he said,

better than that he should commence the use

"Why, you are getting worse than ever," said he, "and my hand might be more un-I'll tell you what wo'll do. Let us take for-

out. Oh that he would sleep quickly and sleep soundly! regularly, as if asleep. Presently I fancied I heard the barber snore. I ventured to shut, and he was decidedly nodding. He shifted his position, and leaned back in the lay basking in the sun, the horse kept on which was so close at hand, I was to wed my chair to rest his head. Half a minute more and his breathing became regular, then loud, then, outrageous, until he snored like a boots, and creaked horribly as I stepped order, and fit to shave the down from the pocket. I passed behind his chair. I, was free! I was gone!

of my own knowledge know at all. first, I was ultimately compelled to believe. the barber, "and pointed to his chin. I ing over his wrongs when I by fatal chance

> He attained his object more fully, perhaps, than he anticipated; for Julia would never difference, for she would never marry a pol-

"I fled at once; fled all night, all next follows:

of trying an editor for stealing chickens was a novelty. The plaintiff brought in his bill, sworn to its correctness, testified that he owned the chickens; that they were raised by a hen belonging to him; that he saw the defendant shoot them; that he had repeatedly asked the defendant to pay for them; and failing to get pay or satisfaction, he was compelled to bring suit, and asked

The defendant admitted shooting the chickens, and proved by four reliable witnesses the following facts:

----WANTED FRIERDS .- 'I wish that I had some good friends, to belp me on life!' cried lazy Dennis, with a yawn.

I'm sure I haven't half so many, and

'Dennis looked down on his big, strong

And I live here and sell good beer, A foreign correspondent says :-- Jenny

Women are a great mystery. According to Haller, woman boar hunger longer than men; according to Plutarch, they can resist the effects of wine better: according to Unger, they grow older and never bald; ac cording to Pliny, they are seldom attacked by lions (on the contrary, they will run after lions: and according to Gunter, they can

A miserly old farmer, who had lost one of sooner you crack them the better." An Irishwoman, applying for rollef in Portland the other day, as one of the sufferers by the fire, was questioned as to her fami-