No New THING .- Life Insurance is no new thing. It has been known and practised, in one way and another, for practised, in one way mu another trange it is a generally established fact that wholseom about two hundred years. And yet, strange it is a generally established fact that wholseom to first used in moderation daily for years do not to say, there are persons, and not a fer who in this age of enlightenment, and hu man progress, entertain the old superatitious notion, that the insuring of one's Life is a wicked tempting of Providence To this class, we would say; that Life Insurance enables a man to perform the Christian duty of providing "for those of his own house." It enables a man to put himself in harmony with Divine Provi dence. Providence has brought the institution into being to bless the human race And inasmuch as Life Insurance is found ed upon a natural law: and since all nat ural laws are willed by God ; therefore Life Insurance cannot be opposed to the bitters now current, a poor article has no chance of will of our Oreator. Moregore a man has success whitever. The most ignorant person can no right to expect society, or his riends to no right to expect society, or his 'riends to' stant or provide for those for whom ho stove have been sold for thirty years, are coin for a little self-denial, have possed of the safest roots and horts of a

The New York "Insurance Monitor," in summing up the various reports of companies to Massachusetts, says-speaking of the "Charter Oak."

"If this company continues to flourish as it does at present, the lives it will in these there are hundreds. sure will surpass in number the leaves that grew on the historical Oak, its vonerable namesake. Its increase like that of compound interest, is almost startling. It is not to its name, but to its essential qualities, that the surprising success of the Charter Oak is due. It has the credit of originating the popular system of making annual cash dividends, which has been in operation since 1863, and which several other leading companies are adopting on account of the decided preference the publie has shown for the improvements. This and other acceptable measures, introduced by its officers for the general benefit, have won for the Charter Oak a popularity wholly unaurpassed, and a foremost position in the insurance world."

Those who are contemplating an, insur ance on their lives would do well by ex amining the peculiar advantages afforded by the "Oak."

Three Hundred Thousand Dollars have already been taken in Carlisle and Mechanicaburg, whilst its energetic agent J. C. STOCK, of this place, is receiving new accessions from all quarters of the Country almost daily.

DISTILLED SPIRITS .- The state ment that spirits distilled from apples, peaches or grapes are exempt from taxation under the laws of Congress is without any foundation. The old law fixed the tax on brandy distilled from these products at one dollar and fifty cents ner gallon, at which time the tax upon whisky stood at two dollars. When the tax upon the latter article was reduced to fifty cents, that upon brandy was reduced to the same amount but under the decision of the Attorney General persons engaged ROOS. in distilling wine or brandy from grapts, apples and peaches were exempt from the SOAF.

There are few departments of medi cine which have so frequently engaged the attention of Pharmacians and Physicians as the production of a medicine possessing the potency and efficiency which has been so happily consummated in the Constitution Bitters. The general want of success in the production of such a remedy, and the treatment of diseases of the Liver and Stomach, has not been because of a deficiency of pathological knowledge of their functions, but of a suitable compound that would act upon the disease and all the sympath etic affections. These desiderate have been gained in the Constitution Bitters, and they can be used by persons with the most delicate stomach with perfect safety, as they do not debilitate the patient, but give strength, and increase the nervous energy.
