With this issue will terminate the business connection of the subscribers with the CARLISLE HERALD. In turn ing over the good old HERALD to its new owners we feel it not an inoppor tune occasion to write a few brief sen tences expressive in a feeble sense of the feelings and emotions which affect us at parting company with the many friends who have so generously sustained us during an acquaintance cov ering at least a decade. The present partnership had its origin at a time when the Nation, after having emerged triumphant from the tearful trial of a mighty but most wicked rebellion, was enduring the humiliation of Andrew Johnson's vicious and corrupt conduct, with all its direful effects upon the country. The HERALD, as those whom we are now addressing will remember, was one of the earliest dissenters from the then new gospel of rebel preferment and loyal proscription, and was among the first to point out the straight way which led to honor, peace and prosperity, through the election of Ulysses S. Grant, as President of the United States. We appeal to all the readers of THE HERALD for unqualified confirmation of the statement that it has never for a moment wavered in an earnest, vigorous support of those great and glorious principles of the Republican party which have led the Nation through unexampled trial and trouble to a lasting peace and a certain future of good government. We are here reminded that as when we took the helm, the new firm take hold just as the good citizens of our Commonwealth are entering upon an important political campaign, involving in large measure the future welfare of all our people. The question presented for arbitrament on the twelfth of October is briefly whether the government of our State shall continue to be administered on the good old principles of honesty, loyalty and fealty to law, or whether it shall be handed over to a ring of adventurers and sharpers, whose only bond of affinity is a desire for public plunder. We cannot think the issue a doubtful one, and congratulate in advance the new Editors of THE man enemy. In conclusion let us say that while we know our conduct of THE HERALD has made for it many friends whom we shall ever hold in our hearts' closest embrace, yet the fearless and independent course we marked out at the outset as our unalterable rule of action, has not failed to excite some enmitties While we are full of sorrow at parting with the former, we have a liberal compassion for the foibles of the latter. . Commending THE HERALD and its patrons to the new firm of WEAKLEY & WALLACE as gentlemen of ability, integrity, and unswerving Republican faith, we are.

> Very Respectfully, RHERM & DUNBAR.

In assuming control of THE HERALD, an extended introductory is unnecessary. We shall to the best of our ability so conduct it as to make it valuable and efficient as a party organ; and shall constantly, through its columns, advocate the principles of the Republican party, and support and sustain those who are faithful to them! In opposing those who hold principles antagonistic to our own, we shall always confine our opposition to temper ate and reasonable argument, and shall not use our columns for the denunciation and abuse of those who may choose to differ from us. It shall be our aim to make THE HERALD worthy of the support and confidence of our political friends, and to earn for it the favorable consideration of the commu-WEAKLEY & WALLACE.

THE DIFFERENCE .- During the months of July and August, last year, the Internal Revenue receipts were $30,890,035. For the corresponding months in the present year they amounted to $36,594,031, an increase of nearly six millions of dollars. No reason can be assigned for this gratifying improvement except the fact that under the present Administration the hundreds of revenue thieves who fat tened upon the Treasury under John son have been turned out of office, and the taxes are now honestly collected and accounted for. Almost an equa amount has also been saved by the dis charge of unnecessary officers and general curtailment of the expenditures, thereby enabling the Government to reduce the national debt to the extent we have witnessed.

If Asa Packer has made $20,000,000 for himself out of the coal of the Lehigh Valley, how much would he likely make out of the entire Commonwealth

The Sunreme Bench. Two years since, Judge Sharswoo Ludge Williams were opposing indidates for the Supreme Bench. Both had been judges for years-Wil-iams of the District Court of Pittsourgh; Sharswood of the District Court of Philadelphia. Sharswood, however, and held his position some years/longer than Wil iams. Then our Democracy had a very special regard for the Supreme Court. By all means, they arged, elect Sharswood. He has been i judge longer than Williams and has wider reputation. The position requires the first men in the legal proession in the State. No political coniderations should prevent the choice of the men of the best talent and greatest experience, for judges of the is danger of defeat in October. What Jourt that sits in final judgment, and rom whose decrees there can be no appeal. This argument was peculiarly unfortunate condition of Wallace's coffee stained naturalization papers and Mc-Mullin's repeaters contributed much to the result, but Sharswood's prestige two thousand fair Republican votes, and made their meager nine hundred majority a fact.

Now, let their argument count on our side. Williams has served more was a movement that no political strate has served months in the Legislature. Pershing never decided a case in his life, whilst Williams' decisions are on whilst the fame of Pershing, even as a oeracy in 1867. It is as important now to have learned and experienced judges as it was then. There might have been a question between Sharswood and Williams, between Williams every man who feels and interest in naintaining the character of the judiciary, and particularly every Democrat who asked Republican votes for Sharswood on that ground, see that he votes for Williams.

Chief Justice Chase has written a etter, in which he declares that his resent office fills the measure of his unbition, that he will not be a candidate for the Presidency, and asking that in future his name may not be onnected in men's minds with political ction. He further says that the time vas when he would have been gratified with the prospect of elevation to the highest place, as a means of doing good service to the country, but adds: "Now am older, and not at all satisfied that it in a higher place I could do any better than those now exercising exthe Chief Justice that President Grant has entilely justified the expectations HERALD and its readers on the almost of his friends, and agreeably disap certainty that in a few weeks they will pointed those who, like the Judge, anbe called upon once more to rejoice in ticipated that his administration would another signal victory over the comprove a failure.

And by the way, would it not be a good thing for Mr. Covode to notify officially some of our Republican daily papers that we are engaged in a political contest of some importance? Several of them do not seem aware of the fact.

Do the followers of Stephen A Douglas, who still act with the Democratic Party, know the fact that one Asa Packer, now their nominee for Governor, in 1860, bolted the nomination of Judge Douglas, and did all ocratic Party? or, knowing it, do they must be poor indeed in available candidates that thrusts its honors on disorganizers.

When John W. Geary was in the field, fighting for the preservation of the Government, and the protection of our homes, Asa Packer was perfecting schemes for the accumulation of great wealth. The one gave largely of the best years of his life to save his coun try; the other took largely of his country to gratify himself. Let those who worship selfishness and greed vote for Asa Packer; those who would re ward patriotism, for Geary. . x

Give us a change of Administration say the Democratic leaders; it may do good and can possibly do no harm. The city of Philadelphia last Fall acted on that suggestion, and lo, the results! The Prospect. The present campaign is drawing rapidly to a close, and there has been most noticeable lack of the usual excitements of a political canvass. But few meetings have been held, and but little done to awaken any interest whatever in the contest. It is frequently asked, what does all this quietness and apparent indifference indicate! Some Democrate who have little to hope for from any other indication confidentially inform their friends that it bodes dis aster and defeat to the Radicals, and some despondent Republicans who are constantly looking out for danger, affect o believe the same thing. Let us look over the ground and see what cause there is for the belief, that there is there now to cause danger that ha not been encountered and overcome in previous campaigns?

In 1863, our party was distracted by dissension's and jealousies among its members, and embarrassed by the in the mouth of every Democrat, and the national affairs. Gov. Curtin's renomination was most bitterly op nosed, and many of our journals and politicians threatened opposition to his election. The armies of th Union, on whose ultimate triumph de pended our success, had met many severe reverses, for which even the as a jurist gave the Democracy at least | great victory at Gettysburg, was but poor compensation. Now, by all means, counter a most determined opposition let us emulate the wisdom of the Democracy in 1867. It is as important drew Johnson having broken with the mit any crime, even murder, to prevent drew Johnson having broken with the drew Johnson having broken with the party that placed him in power, determined that it should be destroyed. He had no scruples about using the vast patronage at his command to and Pershing there can be none. There is no necessity for excitement and display, but there is for constant and systematic effort, for every remaining day of the campaign. Success now is of the most vital importance to the party and to the entire country. It is within easy grasp if we

Editor of the Carlisle Herald: Six : Do you know that we have Horticultural Society in our live town? If you do—all right—if not, you ought to, About the first of June, 1868, a few enoxinition was not in our "rankin Hall." The display of strawberries and other fruits, together with vegetables, fancy articles and curiosities, was truly astonishing. The members felt encouraged, and immediately determined to hold a Fall exhibition, which took place the latter September. This far exceeded the oring exhibition. The season had not sen very favorable for the growth of fruit, yet the display was very respectable that of grapes superior. But the vegetable department surprised all the visitors As for potatoes, I have never seen as fine a display. I was at the State Fair, and also at the County Fair, but neither both a comparison, either in varieties or quality.
The reason is, because the quantity required is but one-eighth of a bushol. T is at once gives the owner of a small garden an equal chance with the man of acres. Last Spring the display of articles was greatly in advance of the former Spring exhibition. Franklin, York, Dauphin. and other counties were represented On the twenty-second inst., the Fal exhibition will commence, and continue three days and nights. The member have all the necessary arrangements com-pleted, and the season having been favorable, it is expected that this exhi-bition will far exceed any former one. I can assure you, the society is made up of live men—men who are practical and who really feel that they are engaged in a good work. Monthly meeting neld regularly, various topics discussed ruit and vegetables exhibited, and a mod leasant time you can scarcely imagine t is called the Cumberland County Horti ultural Society. As yot, the contributors are been chiefly from the lower end of he country, and the adjoining townships of York and Dauphin counties. Heretofore the exhibitions have all been natural the exhibitions have all been held here. It may be possible that if a sufficient amount of interest should be manifested throughout the county, it might become a traveling machine, and reach Carlisle, Newville, Shippensburg, &c. Carlister Newville. Shippensburg, &c. It is proposed that the society exhibit, in its own name, at your next county fair, such articles of horticulture as they may possess. If it does, you may look for a respectable display. Almost every man who comes to town is asked whether he has good grapes, apples, &c., &c., and if so, he is urged to bring them to the exhibition.
