CUTION OF ADAM TITUS HE MURDER AND THE ARREST. IS LIFE IN THE COUNTY JAIL

ADDRESS UPON THE SCAFFOLD PREPARATIONS, DRATS, AND BURIAL

THE CRIME. In the latter part of last year a poo family of Germans were living near the South Mountain, about three miles from Shippensburg, in this county. The members were the housekeeper, Mrs. Fry her son and daughter, the latter married to Adam Titus. On Monday, the twen ty-eighth of December, Titus, in company with a friend, Henry Stamm, went to Shippensburg to purchase some articles, Titus borrowing the money form Stamm to pay for them. They passed the night at the house of Mrs. Fry, and the next, morning Titus again borrower money from Stamm to buy groceries, O

Wednesday he again attempted to bor row from Stamm, but the latter replied he would have to save his money; the he might get his leg broken, or take sick or might get no work. I. Soon after, shout three o'clock in the afternoon, th two men set out together in the direction going to chop wood, and carrying with him an axe.

Titus returned alone about five o'clocky explaining that Stamm had remained in the woods. The next morning he inquired for the shovel, and placed it in the hog pen. He then went to a Mr. Smith's store and paid $6,50 for meat oles to the amount of $28, which Titus ants, and even jesting with them. He paid for. On Friday morning, after breakfas the left the house on some pretext, and did not return until dinner time During his absence, Mrs. Fry noticed that the shovel was gone. The day previous he had borrowed a mattock from a neighbor, which he returned on Friday. When he returned to dinner on that day, his wife observed mud on his pantaloons and face, and asked him in regard to it. the Roman Catholic Church. He answered : "Oh! wife, I think you're crazy," and hurridly wiped away the

When Titus left, Mrs. Fry, her son, and Mrs. Titus, excited, doubtless, at the disappearance of Stamm, and the conduct of Titus, started in the direction Titus and Stamin had gone on Wednesleads into the mountain a short distance, they observed in the snow the tracks of two men, leading from the road into the woods. Following these tracks about four hundred vards into a secluded place surrounded on two sides by hills, by the edge of a pond of water, on kicking up the snow they discovered blood. They immediately returned and gave notice t the neighbors. ... A number of persons soon were at the place designated, and found the body of Stamm buried in a shallow grave, and covered twelve or fifteen inches with earth and snow, a ow water mark, at the side of the pond. The clothing had been taken off, and was found concealed in a pile of rails. On exhaming the body, two wounds were seen, one on the right side of the skull, about four and a half inches long. and the skull fractured the whole length of the wound. The second wound was in the throat. The head, by this wound, was nearly severed from the body. On Monday carpenters were employed coting the scaffold whereon to carry into effect the sentence of death. The point selected was adjoining the ground f Samuel Hepburn, jr., close by the estern wall of the jail, midway between Main street and the alley. How, they ask, can one in sound mind be the cause of ushuring one's self into the presence of the Creator, unprepared, or unrepentent? Or, is it possible for a sane person, possessing the feelings common to humanity, deliberately and premeditatedly, to slay another in cold blood? saidhe was not afraid to die, and ex-These questions can be answered by placing in view the inexplicable facts of every day life. When we inquire into the motives which govern men' and women, we find them so varied, so numerous, and so inconsistent, that an opinion i forced from us that men always act with that passion that is uppermost. An upbalanced mind, therefore, will act oftenest in accordance with its strongest tendencies. Is a Peabody insane because he follows the dictates of benevolence, and benefits mankind with the millions for which he has struggled? Or is an avaricious Rothschild crazily heaping up earthly treasures he soon will have to relinquish? The quarrelsome boy is not

Many are under the impression that if applies to farmers selling their produce rom house to-house, or at a store. It loes not. Farmers are exempt from she cial tax, when selling their produce at the place of production, or in the manner of peddlers, but selling at the Market Place, even though a different stand or station is taken every day, is not selling in the manner of a pedler, and subjects them to the special tax of produce dealers. Here we have the head and brains of the Democratic party in Pennsylvania, declaring that the people have ratified negro suffrage, and that he is willing the negro shall vote. "Can such things be, and overcome us like"-well, no matter, what. Here we have the grand fizzle of all Democratic resistance to Republican ideas—the concession of the final triumph of the principles which the Democratic party dedicated itself to prevent. Ten years ago it adopted, for its creed, the theory that the negro had no rights which white men were bound to respect. For this faith it was willing that a nation should be sacrificed, and hastened to assist in its destruction. But all this failed miserably, as it was right it, should. The Democracy still lives, but only to witness the destruccion of all its much munted theories, and to see its leaders ne by one, surrender to those who made victory certain by following the right.
