THE POLITICAL CAMPAIGN. HARRISBURG, PA., Sept. 5 .- The po HARRISBURG, PA., Sept. 5.—The political prospect in Pennsylvania, so far as an examination of the chances can now be made, is one altogether flattering of the District. The Judge, last session, and satisfactory to the Republicans, and and satisfactory to the Republicans, and particularly to the tariff Republicans of the country. That essential issue for Pennsylvania is sharply defined, and the and satisfactory to the Republicans, and policy which must destroy the industry earried.

In the XIVth, John B. Packer, Republican, one of the ablest men and strongest Tariff champions in the State—who had 3,696 majority in 1868—will be renominated and re-elected by 3,500.

In the XVth, Haldeman will be re-elected by a majority reduced by about 800 negrees who came from Virgina and through which a large proportion of the Democratic voters earn their bread.

Against him the Democrats have nominated B. F. Myers, who is either a carpet-bagger there or in Harrisburg, where he is the editor of the Patriot, an outland-out Free-Trade paper, and the central design of the patriot. and-out Free-Trade paper, and the central organ of the party of the State. The election of Cessna—who is a firm friend of Protection—may be counted on by a majority of 500 to 800, but the district will bear watching.

In the XVIIIth, Daniel J. Morrell is again the Republican poppings and It is difficult to realize the anger of the enmity against a country revered by so large a number of the voters who annually help to swell the Democratic strength in the State. This insult to the Germans is so recent and so flagrant, that the time between now and the election will not serve to heal the breach. And to all this trouble which besets our foes is superadded the hearty, generous, and universal sympathy extended by the Republican party, press, and leaders to the cause of the Fatherland. The effect of this condition of things will be to return ublicans joined in this treac Republican majority to both Houses of embly, and place the State securely in aterest is excited than for anything else. erely because the Democrats claim to be confident of their power to show a be confident of their power to show a gain in the next House from Pennsylvania. Cuyler for the Democratic candidate, and O'Neill, the present member, and Creely, both claiming the Republican nomination. Unless this fight is made up we may lose the member. Efforts have already been repeatedly made to heal the breach, but so far they have proved unecessful. O'Neill has held the seat for four or five terms, and the disaffected, patronage has embittered against him, manded his scalp. After a very bitter contest the Convention met, and tactics were invoked to secure a different result from the one made at the primary election. Each accuses the other of trickery,
