COL. McCANDLESS' LETTER.

What stood so close since that Col. McCandless, the Democratic nominee for Auditor General, refused to accept a commission of Brigadier General...

Sir:—I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of a communication from the Secretary of War dated the 21st inst....

I am, sir, very respectfully, Your obedient servant, Wm. McCandless.

To His Excellency, THE PRESIDENT, U. S. A., July 30, 1864. Here we have the whole story. Col. McCandless entered the service...

But, alas, how uncertain all things sublunary are. The assumption on which this theory rested was that there were no place hunters...

But a worse feature of the affair rests even more in the invasion of Pennsylvania the previous year, there were no darker days of the whole war than those of July, 1864.

And what a time there will be during the next month. How smilingly will the lively stable keepers look, and how the overworked horse will groan at their new demand...

INDEPENDENCE then of Gen. McCandless' fitness for the position is important that he should be elected. But a check may be placed on the dotage of the Radical ring...

Let us see how this is now. If the Democracy elect McCandless, they will certainly elect a majority of Assembly...

But to the main question. The Auditor General and Treasurer have been Republicans for the last six years—what has come to the finances of the Commonwealth...

A small panic occurred at Westbury, three miles east of Wolcott, N. Y., on the 15th inst. The cause of the panic was the discovery of the Cordillera...

PERUVIAN bark trees, the essential part of which is quinine, abound in the State of Colombia. On all the declivities of the Cordillera...

We call the attention of the people of the border counties to the fact that on the very day when McCandless's address was burning Chambersburg...

THE DEMOCRATIC ADDRESS.

The Democratic State Central Committee has issued to the faithful its annual address, in which are contained the same old charges repeated year after year...

When we come to the charges of extravagance and fraud in the management of the finances of the nation, we find that the expenditures of the present administration are compared with those of the Democratic administrations before the war...

It is rather difficult, as yet, to state the amount of the debt of the Government. At the close of 1863 it amounted to $3,858,955,780.

But more than this, there is no doubt whatever that the expenses of the Government are actually less per capita than they have been for many years.

"The present Administration has reduced the expenses of the Government, and the per capita, than they have been since Gen. Jackson's time.
