But it is not our intention to descant on the horrors of Dyspepsia. To describe them truthfully is simply an impossibility, but it is possible to point out a remiety. We have said that dyspensia is periaps the most universal of human diseases. This is emphatically the case in the United States. Whether this general prevalence is due to the character of the food, the method of its preparation, or the heat manner in which it is usually swallowed, is not our provincy to explain.
